We are pleased to share Andover's 1986-87 Annual Report with those who made this banner year possible. This report symbolizes the deep care and good will of thousands of alumnae, alumni, parents, and friends, to whom we are all most grateful.

We deeply regret an editor's error which resulted in the omission of a crucial figure in Mr. Mesics' report: cash gifts to the academy in 1986-87 totaled a remarkable $10,658,296. Special thanks to all who contribute in all ways to ensuring the future of the academy.

Report of the Headmaster

Excellence in education has become an important national goal. Phillips Academy is committed to offering an outstanding educational experience to young people and to being a leader in the field of national education. This first 1983-84 annual report summarizes the programs and activities of the Academy.

Excellence

Phillips Academy is dedicated to excellence in the academic experience offered young people. This has been a tradition at the Academy and remains a prime charge for the future. The talented young people who study on Andover Hill are challenged to meet high expectations in their academic work, pursue rigorous programs in the basic subjects of writing, mathematics, history, science, foreign languages and the arts, and are constantly engaged in the learning process with outstanding teachers.

At the heart of this responsibility is a superb faculty. The 200 women and men who teach at the Academy today are depended upon for the success of the educational program. When the Trustees of the Academy met in the summer of 1983 to establish the goals for the decade, the Board attached a high priority to recruiting and supporting an outstanding faculty at the Academy. Our success in bringing to Andover teachers who care deeply about young people and respect their ability to accomplish the excellence in their academic work has been important to the success of the Andover education. We endeavor to attract outstanding teachers, to support them in their work, and to assure that they are among the best compensated teachers in independent schools. We remain proud of the teachers at the Academy and are continuing efforts to assure their success in the classroom.

An Andover education depends on engagement of students and teachers in intellectual inquiry and classes which average fourteen students. The Academy continues to require a breadth of experience in academic subjects and basic skills in writing and mathematics while permitting young people to pursue their studies in each subject to the maximum of their abilities. In the past year the Academy has appointed a Director of Computing to assist teachers in integrating computer exercises into a variety of courses, established the offering of the Chinese language at the Academy, and implemented the requirement that each three- and four-year student take a course in religion or philosophy.

Opportunity

The Academy has a special tradition of being ever open to qualified "youth from every quarter." We value that tradition, not only because we believe it is morally proper for us to share our resources with young people from differing economic, social, racial, and cultural backgrounds, but also because it is educational in itself. Students from many different backgrounds learn from each other and about each other in ways not possible in most high schools.

The continuing efforts to achieve this goal of a diverse community are possible through the school's undertaking of and support for a financial aid program and the continuing emphasis on limiting the tuition of the Academy. The financial aid program has expanded through endowed scholarships and support of the Alumni fund and has been stretched by instituting a loan program for all students.

Next year one-third of the students will be on financial aid, five per cent of the student body will be on full scholarship, and over eight per cent of the student body will be

Donald W. McNemar

Black and Hispanic. This composition of the community is rare among schools; it is a tribute to the endeavors of the Academy and the support of the alumni for insuring that the student body includes "youth from every quarter." Students on financial aid range from those whose families cannot contribute to the cost of the education to those from middle class families who are eligible for a grant to assure that an Andover education is possible.

The Academy has been striving to assure that no talented student who is admitted is unable to attend because of financial need. In recent years we have come close to that goal, but at some point in the process the financial aid available has been exhausted and the remaining few applicants have had to be admitted from among those able to pay the tuition. In 1983-84, for the first time in the past twenty years, we had sufficient financial aid to admit all students without reference to their need. We take great pride in this accomplishment and remain committed to achieving this in the years ahead, although we will be under continuing pressure to have available the necessary scholarship funds.

The diversity of the community is dependent on the level of tuition as well as the financial aid available. The Academy has traditionally had a tuition lower than many other schools, and we continue to seek to limit increases in order to encourage students from different backgrounds to apply to the Academy. The tuition increase for 1984-85 was 3.4 per cent, well below inflation and the increases of other schools and colleges. Our tuition for the coming year will be $9,200 for instruction, room, and board, while the range of the ten schools with which we compare ourselves is $8,700 to $10,300. Only one other school in that group of ten is below Phillips Academy in tuition cost.

Learning Community

Phillips Academy is a place where education takes place throughout the community and not only in the classroom. While we are a school of 1200 students offering the diversity of experience and the range of courses and levels of study possible through a large community, we remain engaged in a successful program of clusters in our residential life. These clusters assure that a student is one of two hundred in their cluster community, with Deans and House Counselors working with them on an individual basis. This offers the range of opportunities of a large school while assuring the close community experience of the smaller clusters.

While students are given considerable individual responsibility as part of their educational experience, they are expected to live within the school rules and are held fully accountable for their personal actions. The athletic program permits students to engage in competition with other schools at the varsity and junior varsity levels, and to develop personal skills and learn new sports as part of their Andover education.

Programs on personal health, drug and alcohol abuse, and sexuality are all part of the "curriculum" which occurs in the clusters rather than in the classroom. Since drug and alcohol abuse is a concern in every high school in the country, the Academy has made a special effort to expect students to live within the prohibition on their use at the Academy, while educating young people to make wise choices in their personal relationship with drugs and alcohol. Two years ago we established a week-long program of classes taught by counselors from the Freedom from Chemical Dependency group. These teachers return each year to offer the program to new students and to meet with continuing students to discuss issues relating to drug and alcohol abuse. The Academy is clear in its expectations about the use of drugs and alcohol within this community and is educating young people on these issues.

Andover is dedicated to being a learning community where students learn from each other and share their talents in musical concerts, radio station and newspaper, community activities, and their lives together within the dormitory.

Service to Society

Phillips Academy is in the service of youth not only in educating the 1200 students who study here, but also in developing educational approaches and programs which may be relevant to American education in general. The Academy has undertaken programs which relate the students in this community to the larger society.

If the drug and alcohol program helps our young people to relate to one of the major issues of our time, our voluntary program of lectures and discussions on a contemporary societal issue each winter goes even further by encouraging students and faculty in the community to learn about, evaluate and discuss a problem facing American society. The Headmaster's Symposium presents a broad range of views and topics: two years ago it focused on the nuclear question; last year on race relations; and this year it will focus on the dialogue among the Americas with particular emphasis on Latin America.

The Academy offers community projects to engage young people in service to others. The range of programs has included internships at Massachusetts General Hospital, work with a soup kitchen in Lawrence, and internships in a Hispanic School in the Lawrence community. The Athletic Council has joined in hosting the Special Olympics for handicapped young people in Massachusetts on the Phillips Academy campus. We provide the facilities and Andover students share in the running of the games and develop new friendships with these special young people. The emphasis on serving others has been recognized with the establishment of the Non Sibi Award to be presented to a senior who has developed a project of service to others.

Cooperative Programs

The Academy has developed two summer programs in cooperation with public schools. The Math and Science Program for Minority students, (MS)², and the Andover Dartmouth Teachers' Institute for teachers of mathematics from urban school systems are directed toward encouraging Black and Hispanic students to study and pursue careers in math and science. These programs permit Andover and public schools in selected cities to confront the problem of how to encourage more minority young people to study in math and science. During the summer, with the support of the Ford Foundation, representatives of thirty other schools gathered on campus for a conference about summer programs for minority students. The Academy continues to explore ways in which we can cooperate with public schools in sharing our campus and teachers in efforts to improve American education.

Commitment to the Academy

The Academy continues to meet its goals of excellence, opportunities, learning, and service only because of the tremendous support of alumni, parents, and friends for the Academy programs. The past year has seen a continuation of the generous support for the Academy which was signaled so dramatically in the Bicentennial Campaign. The Alumni Fund has surpassed its goal during the past year through the volunteer efforts of many dedicated alumni. The total gifts of alumni for the annual support of the Academy exceeded $1,400,000 and included participation of 40 per cent of alumni. The Parent Fund exceeded $200,000, an increase of 45 per cent over three years ago. The Academy has continued the program of planned giving begun in the Bicentennial Campaign; and is a leader in receiving significant support from foundations and corporations for programs. During the coming year we will launch a capital development effort to work with alumni interested in endowing faculty positions, scholarships, academic programs, and special projects such as support for the Library or the Drama and Theatre program.

Phillips Academy will remain successful in achieving its goals of excellence and leadership because of the deep caring, the generous work, and the active support of alumni, parents, and friends of Andover.

Conserving Resources

The Trustees and administration of the Academy are intent on careful conservation of the Academy resources. This begins with an insistence on a balanced budget for the Academy. Two years ago the Academy repaid totally the $3 million of planned deficit which occurred as a result of the merging of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy. The Academy has had a balanced budget each year since 1978-79.

A key asset of the Academy is the beautiful physical plant, and we have embarked on a program of plant renewal. We have stepped up the maintenance of the grounds and buildings and are beginning a systematic effort to renew specific dorms and academic buildings each year.

A key resource of the future is the endowment of the Academy. The Trustees have carefully reviewed the management of the endowment and the spending policy of that resource. We have engaged three new equity managers and one fixed income manager to diversify the management of the endowment and to attempt to maximize this resource. We have also reduced the level of endowment spending to assure that the balance between on-going programs and support for future programs is maintained.

Phillips Academy is committed to an excellent education for qualified young people from all quarters of society. As America examines the education for the future, Andover is a leader by example and by service to society. □

Report of the Secretary of the Academy

Joseph C. Mesics

The Office of Academy Resources at Phillips Academy was created following the Bicentennial Campaign, which concluded in December 1979. The Office is responsible for securing and developing the financial and volunteer support of the Academy, which will enable it to sustain and increase its educational strengths by establishing close working relationships with our alumni/ae, parents, and friends.

Our publications staff is constantly creating better methods of communications. This first edition of a Phillips Academy annual report represents one of several new projects. It should convey to you information about the Academy and its approach to education today, through those reports written by several deans and administrative department heads. Video productions are also in process to convey an exciting and accurate picture of our student life on campus.

Our alumni/ae and parent staff is diligently at work to keep you close to Phillips Academy through a variety of campus events. Efforts are also made to bring the school to those of you who cannot return for your class reunions and other celebrations here in Andover. Our Regional Association Officers and Directors, as well as other Alumni where Regional Associations do not yet exist, have made it possible for us to travel around the country annually to keep you in touch with school life.

Our development staff, with your strong volunteer work, is right on track in meeting those financial goals established by our very supportive Trustees. Your particular attention is called to those portions of this annual report regarding the Academy's development successes. This year your generosity and willingness to work for Phillips Academy have made possible a fine memorial to our former Chaplain, A. Graham Baldwin; a significant number of new endowment funds; additions to endowment funds already established; and the continuation of many valuable educational programs. You have supported the scholarship and teaching budget by a record-breaking year through annual giving and the Alumni/ae and Parent Funds. And finally, you have put the Addison Gallery Campaign over the top.

Phillips Academy has indeed been successful in sustaining and increasing its educational strengths. In the years ahead, with your support, we will be able to continue on this same course, maintaining the position of this fine Academy as the leader in secondary education. □

Report of the Dean of Faculty

The Dean of Faculty is responsible for the appointment of faculty; the maintenance of faculty well-being, morale, and overall effectiveness; the evaluation and professional development of the faculty; faculty housing and benefits; the maintenance of faculty records; and the operation of the Teaching Fellowship Program. During the past decade, these responsibilities have increased as the faculty has grown.

At the beginning of the coeducational era a decade ago, the faculty numbered 174. In 1983-84, the total is 204 individuals, while the full-time-equivalent figure is 196. For economic reasons, an effort to reduce this FTE figure below 190 is currently underway, by not replacing (whenever possible) faculty members who retire or leave. This is difficult, as we continue to introduce new programs such as Chinese language, and add new staff members in such crucial areas as development and fund-raising.

While attempting to reduce the size of the faculty somewhat, we are also trying to broaden and diversify its composition, especially with regard to women and minorities. At the moment, the 77 female faculty members represent 38% of the total. At present there are only ten Black, Hispanic, and Asian members.

The hiring process for the school year 1984-85 began in January, with openings advertised in newspapers, educational journals, and professional publications. From these sources, as well as teacher placement agencies and the traditional grapevine, over 1400 applications were received by mid-March, compared to 760 the previous year. Approximately 100 individuals were interviewed. As of May 1 all the openings except one had been filled, in almost every case with the first-choice candidate. Among those appointed, the male-female ratio is just about even, while five new faculty members are Black or Hispanic.

Much attention has been given this year to faculty workload and the quality of life among adults on Andover Hill. With an increasing number of working spouses and single parents on the faculty, the traditional "triple-threat" model, in which a faculty member teaches, coaches, and runs a dormitory, is less feasible. We continue to explore ways in which adjustments can be made to the system which will make the working environment at the Academy more suited to faculty members with widely differing circumstances and needs, while at the same time maintaining a basic quality of instruction and equity of workload.

In 1977, the Andover faculty adopted a program of evaluation for faculty members, but it wasn't broadly implemented until this year, when the Dean of Faculty and Dean of Studies, working closely with department chairpersons, instituted a more regularized evaluation of faculty members, to take place at certain specific stages in their career, namely the point at which they are eligible for a change in their contract status. This process will normally include a self-evaluation, observations by the department chairperson and another department colleague, and input from students. At the same time, if the faculty member is also a coach and house counselor, his or her performance will be subject to review by the Cluster Dean and the Director of Athletics.

The purpose of these evaluations is to assist faculty members to strengthen their contribution by pointing out areas of potential improvement; professional development is thus the goal of the evaluation process. To support professional development, funds are made available to faculty members each year for graduate work, workshops and seminars, and the planning of new courses — all in addition to the funds made available for creative ventures by the Kenan Trust and the Abbot Academy Association. This year, over $30,000 was awarded for faculty development and course planning, thus enabling a significant number of individuals to pursue their scholarly interests, usually during the summer, and thereby enrich their teaching. The Andover faculty continues to be a scholarly group: 146 of its faculty possess advanced degrees, of which 19 are doctorates, and over sixty have published a scholarly or creative work within the last five years.

Finally, mention should be made of the Teaching Fellowship Program. Now in its 28th year, this Program has brought over 200 young college graduates to the campus for a year, to discover what it's like to teach in a secondary boarding school. On an average, ten Fellows are chosen each year, from approximately 170 applicants. Most of the Teaching Fellows continue to elect to stay in education, and at last count over a dozen of them were headmasters of other fine independent schools across the country. □

Report of the Dean of Studies

Jeanne E. Amster

Phillips Academy is a school which possesses a healthy and reflective intellectual environment. 1983-84 witnessed a year of curriculum expansion and change, a complete overhaul of the Academic Advising system, a review of ten years of coeducation, continuing efforts to refine the College Counseling process, and a variety of school lectures and performances designed to provide the finest possible education for our students.

Classes at Phillips Academy are characterized by an intimate student-faculty ratio of 14 students to one teacher, affording the opportunity to move the intellectual challenge quickly to the frontier of the students' experience. New programs which took advantage of this intimate relationship were word processing in Russian for advanced Russian students, an advanced placement computer course, and an extraordinary Shakespeare workshop which culminated in an outstanding performance of A Midsummer Night's Dream. Phillips Academy offers an impressive array of 155 academic courses. In addition to graduation requirements in Mathematics, History, Science, English, Art, Foreign Languages, Music, Physical Education, Religion and Philosophy, we offer an elective program which allows our students to move to the edge of their experience and expertise.

An important change in 1983-84 was the revamping of the Academic Advising system. In 1984-85 all clusters will use a similar process of Academic Advising. Students will see their House Counselors with preliminary programs and work out the proper balance between academics, extra-curricular activities, and their personal interests. After seeing their House Counselors, they will submit their programs to their Class Officers, who will evaluate each program within the context of that class. One consequence should be continuity of Advisor throughout a student's Phillips Academy career. Another anticipated benefit is greater consistency of Advising. West Quad South experimented with this program this year and all reports have been impressive.

Life outside of the classroom affords an important opportunity for cultural and intellectual stimulation and development. An important community focus this year has been reflecting on ten years of coeducation. Significant celebratory and educational events took place on campus including speeches by Dr. Estelle Ramey, a biologist, Dr. Tom Cottle, a psychologist, and Dr. Elizabeth Minnich, a philosopher. Careful statistical analysis is still being studied on boy/girl ratios in the use of every facility and academic opportunity in the school. The findings will be reported in the fall of 1984. Phillips Academy expects to continue its efforts to shed gender-based stereotypes in order to allow for the fulfillment of the potential of all its students. In addition to those brought to campus by the coeducation study and the important speakers who came to participate in the Headmaster's Symposium, Phillips Academy enjoyed visits from several prominent individuals in 1983-84: Allen Ginsberg read parts of his most memorable poems; Bernard Kalb discussed his travels with several Secretaries of State; Gloria Naylor, winner of the American Book Award, read from her works in progress; Joseph Silverstein, concert master of the Boston Symphony, conducted the Academy Chamber Orchestra. They joined at least 25 other prominent Americans in readings, performances, lectures, and exhibitions.

An important aspect of the Senior experience at Phillips Academy is the role played by the College Counseling Office in assisting students to consider options "after Andover." College matriculation is a dominant goal, and the process through which students examine and apply to colleges requires flexibility on the part of the counselors, students, and parents. The collegiate programs Andover graduates attempt to select are growing more competitive in admissions and curricular demands each year.

Ultimately, the academic and intellectual development of a student at Phillips Academy depends on the individual initiative of the student matched with the expertise of the faculty. The union this year has been a happy one, amply reflected by the diversity of program, the heights of individual excellence, and the extraordinary variety of outstanding performances, both in and outside of the classroom.

Challenges remain. In 1984-85 we will be taking a fresh look at the daily schedule, the Arena Day scheduling process, the quality of student programs, and equity issues within the curriculum. We will continue to strive to remedy any deficiencies within the academic program, and to provide our students with the best possible education.

Report of the Dean of Residence

It was a year of tightening up. Arriving early in the fall, several dozen student leaders — presidents, proctors, club leaders, and Blue Key members — eagerly underwent a refined training program and applauded our intensified emphasis on student responsibilities and their role in the school. Also arriving early, 19 new faculty members, 13 of them assigned as House Counselors, endured and survived the most well-planned and thorough New Faculty Orientation we have yet offered, including an expanded segment on House Counseling, a segment followed up regularly throughout the year with additional training sessions. Rarely in the past has either group begun the year with such conscientious commitment.

Two new administrators helped tighten things up. As Associate Dean, Priscilla Bonney-Smith played a key role not only in organizing and conducting the House Counselors' Orientation and later Training Session, but also in coordinating the efforts of our counseling and medical staffs and in lending structure and impact to our "secondary curriculum" — drug and alcohol abuse, sex and sexuality, eating disorders, and smoking. Under her direction, we were once again visited for a week early in the fall by the staff of Freedom from Chemical Dependency to educate our students about the effects of drug and alcohol abuse.

And after a decade as Dean of Abbot Cluster, Carroll Bailey assumed new duties, running the Work Program, monitoring the condition of dorms and faculty homes, and coordinating the work of the Cluster Deans with that of the Office of Physical Plant.

It was a year of supplanting assumptions with facts.

After a decade of coeducation, Marion Finbury led the community in taking an objective look at how we've done — and what we need to do. Funded by a grant from an anonymous donor, the effort engaged the energies not only of a large committee but also of the entire school community. It involved data-searches, questionnaires, panel discussions, speakers — and celebration: an all-school student-faculty-staff dinner dance. Though the work is not yet complete, the findings are thus far encouraging, intriguing, and sometimes surprising. Results will be published next year.

Scores of students and faculty members immersed themselves in a study of race relations, the subject of this year's Headmaster's Symposium. Lectures, speakers, films, exhibitions, and extensive reading addressed — often quite pointedly and powerfully — the racial realities not only of America and the world but also of our own school community.

The tightening up sometimes had its ironic — and poignant — moments. Infused with new enthusiasm, a well-led and well-organized Student Council was on more than one occasion applauded for its efforts by a faculty which could not accept its proposals.

Other student leaders, however, were more successful in making history, though at first they did not always like the idea. After decades of losing money and being plagued by bookkeeping and distribution problems, the Pot Pourri staff was ordered by the Cluster Deans to reorganize, reschedule, and produce and distribute a yearbook by May. Though the jury is still out on its quality (pending an early-summer supplement), the students are proud of it, we've got it, and it has already broken even.

And, as the Senior Prom Committee struggled in the fall with organizational problems, high cost, and a "suitable" location, the administration decreed that, in order to reduce the annual anguish and make the prom affordable to all seniors, this and all future proms would be held on campus. After weeks of student grumbling, the best-attended and most popular prom in recent history was held in Commons.

Not all of the year's events turned out so well, though even those resulted in some tightening up. After minor fires in Nathan Hale and Johnson, we placed even more emphasis on fire safety procedures and equipment. Then, in March, with students away on vacation, a building of considerable historical and sentimental value — Chapin House — burned, and returning students found themselves crammed into new rooms with new roommates, a tightening up which we had not anticipated but which everyone accepted with admirable equanimity, if also with a large measure of sadness.

This loss was the only sad note in an otherwise upbeat year, a year of tightening up, a year of rededication. □

Report of the Dean of Admissions

Joshua L. Miner

This year 3179 students (up 6% from last year) sought 447 places. 70% of those admitted chose Andover, a yield figure to be envied by any competitor. Financial aid was provided to every qualified student admitted.

Of the new students enrolling, 33% have alumni affiliation. (13% are alumni sons or daughters.) 42% are female, 58% male; 53% prepared at public schools, 38% at private schools, and 9% at military, foreign, or parochial schools. 8.5% are Black or Hispanic.

The student body as a whole resembles quite closely the new students, as far as alumni affiliation, male/female ratio, previous preparation, and financial assistance are concerned; $2,300,000 in grants and $481,000 in loans have been awarded to 31% of our students, 61 of whom will receive full scholarships.

This year's minority recruiting was particularly successful, largely because of a Trustee-initiated program whereby minority students previously unable to visit the school were invited here at our expense. Thirty-nine students, accompanied by fifteen adults, visited Andover for two days. Thirty-eight of these students will enroll this fall, bringing minority enrollment to 104.

The past Admissions year saw increased involvement with the Office of Academy Resources. Further development of Regional Associations throughout the United States will lead to a far wider dissemination of news of Andover and will help us focus on Admissions activities in those regions. Admissions sub-committees within Regional Associations will offer vital assistance in providing information about local organizations and schools and offering on-site assistance such as transportation and housing.

Finally, we are enormously pleased that the tuition will increase only $300, a 3.4% increase from $8,900 to $9,200 next year. Our tuition will be among the lowest of our competitors, whose boarding tuitions will range from $8,700 to $10,300. □

Report of the Director of Athletics

The way the year ended tells us something about the entire year. The boys varsity lacrosse team, led by coach-of-the-year Paul Kalkstein, won the New England Championship, as did the girls softball team, coached by Chuck Villand. Jack Richards' varsity boys track team won the interscholastic championship for the fifth consecutive spring. The cycling team placed either first or second in every one of its races, and the golfers won the Witherpoon Trophy for the fourth straight year. Andover varsities beat Exeter in eight of eleven traditional contests. Thus, PA had a terrific spring, can boast its championships, and can take pride in an overall .541 winning average.

But to focus on the sports headlines in the Phillipian is to miss a very important point about the athletic program at Andover, ten years after coeducation. The bold type refers only to that 45% of a student population of 1200 which chose to play competitive sports and to that 10% of the faculty who elected to spend 6 days a week coaching them this spring. What the headlines do not describe is the remarkable and necessary diversity of the present program, one which responds to the large, equally diverse and heterogeneous nature of our student-faculty community. While participation is still a requirement, there is a broad choice of coeducational options. And some of those options might make former PA headmasters and Abbot Principals stir uneasily. A coed Cluster intramural program has replaced the Romans, Saxons, Greeks and Gauls, not to mention the Garroyles and the Griffins. About 15% of our boys and girls find their recreation in this way. And the other 40%? They spread themselves over a colorful array of instructional, recreational, and fitness programs, many of which might be considered unorthodox, or at least "untraditional." To name just a few examples, modern dance and ballet join with Search and Rescue (Outward Bound), recreational cycling with ultimate frisbee, karate with yoga and jogging with independent senior projects to offer both students and faculty many different ways of getting their exercise.

This program has evolved naturally from the direction Andover took with the merger, for the athletic program does not exist apart from the school but is rather an integral part of the total learning environment. The teacher is seen as coach, the coach as teacher; and the process is held to be a most important part of the effective education of students. Students and faculty meet outside of the dorm and classroom and engage in a common athletic endeavor together. Boys and girls learn and practice ways to keep the body fit. They develop skills as well as attitudes toward athletics which will enrich their lives in the future. Besides the fun and relaxation which accrue, the thrill of learning a new sport also is experienced, and the student is encouraged to find a balance between team and lifetime sports. The importance of competition, both team and individual, remains essential and takes many forms within the diverse offerings. And finally, the student gains, through coeducational facilities and sports options, the mutual acceptance and respect of the athletic capabilities of the opposite sex.

What has happened in athletics at Andover proves in yet another way that Phillips Academy is a school able to change in pragmatically enlightened ways, to its greater credit and advantage. □

Report of the Business Manager

George A. Neilson

Fiscal year 1983-84 saw the use of endowment as a part of total income kept to the same level as in the prior year. This, together with the dramatic increase in market value, over the last four years began the move toward a spending policy where such use would be between 4 and 6 per cent of that market value. Tuition rise came below double digits for the first time in four years. The tuition set for 1984-85 has an increase of 3.4%

There were, however, discouraging forces during the year which hampered the goals of lower tuition increase, a prudent endowment spending policy, and a first-rate, adequately paid faculty and staff. A decline in the stock market, a colder-than-normal winter coupled with increased fuel prices, unforeseen plant expenditures and a late winter snow and windstorm that devastated many trees and shrubs (this set the grounds crew back almost a month in their quest for a repeat of the National Grounds Awards for campus beautification bestowed this year) did not help.

The removal of all dangerously loose asbestos has been accomplished except in non-used areas of Draper and McKeen Halls on the Abbot Campus. Added encapsulation protection has been implemented in 89 buildings with the remainder scheduled for completion by fall. This was a major unanticipated cost that will run over $100,000.

A minor fire at Nathan Hale and a major one at Chapin House, Abbot, continues to make us aware of the prudence of our annual expenditure toward the improvement of the life-safety systems at the school. Fortunately, the only damage was limited to property.

In mid-spring, the Energy Office functions were again assigned to the Office of the Physical Plant. John Tomlinson, who directed our energy conservation efforts since 1980, and before that as Director of the Plant, took early retirement. The major measures have been defined and most implemented.

Others are scheduled to be accomplished shortly. The reduction in #6 fuel oil use from almost 48,000 barrels to just over 20,000 stands as testimony to John's expertise and diligence in all aspects of plant management.

A Director of Computing has been hired to oversee and coordinate the increased involvement in that area both for academics and management. The Treasurer's Office has computerized payroll and student billing on its own DEC PDI 11/34. This eliminates much of the security risk inherent in sharing with academic and other offices. Plans are to have the general and subsidiary ledgers on line July 1, 1984. The Office of Physical Plant is monitoring and controlling energy use with a DEC PDP 11/24 which also handles their stock inventory processing.

Donald H. Bade, Comptroller, will present the detailed analysis of financial implications for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

Financial Report

by Donald H. Bade, Comptroller

We are pleased to report financial results for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1984.

In order to provide a broad historical perspective, as you read this first annual report, a comparison of the last five years is given.

Operating Results

Fiscal year 1983-84 concluded with a modest surplus of $74,000, the sixth such year of surplus. As of the end of 1981-82 all prior accumulated deficits had been eliminated, and we are positioned well for the future.

In reviewing the 5 year comparison, total resources of $17,866,000 for the current year surpassed the prior year by 8.6%. Tuition and fees rose by $798,000, a reflection of the tuition rate increase of $700 for boarding students, and $500 for day students. Endowment income availed of for operations at $5,450,000 was the same amount as the prior year. This relates to the "spending rate" of endowment, and is explained fully in the section following on "Endowment and its Investment."

Within the Gifts to Income, the annual Alumni and Parent Fund efforts of $1.3 million were $181,000 greater in the current year, but this was offset by a reduction in other gifts used for current purposes. Other income of $553,000 includes a net surplus of $274,000 from the operation of the 1983 Summer Session, along with infirmity services receipts, and sundry rental of facilities.

Operating expenses of the Academy increased at approximately the same rate as income, with the result a slightly better than "break even" year. This is in line with our long-range goal of not operating in a deficit position. Of the total expenses of $17.8 million, salaries and wages represent 48%, and include faculty and administrators numbering 252, and staff employees of 270. It is of interest to point out the proportional costs of the major expense categories as shown above, and to note that the percentage of each to the total has not varied greatly over the 5 year span:

	1983-84		1979-80
	$ (000s)	% to Total	% to Total
Instruction & student support	6,556	36.9	37.2

Administration & benefits	4,326	24.3	22.1
Addison & Peabody	458	2.6	2.4
Total Expenses	$17,792	100.0	100.0

In this comparison, Financial Aid reflects the greatest percentage increase, proof of the commitment by the Trustees to this support for students of diverse economic backgrounds. Physical Plant costs have come down some, primarily due to the dramatic decrease in barrels of heavy fuel oil consumed in our power plant (a 25% reduction over the 5 year period). Furthermore, a significant amount ($400,000 in 1983-84) of the $4.3 million has been expended for energy conservation measures, from which we receive a "payback" in lower and better controlled annual energy costs. A total of $1.1 million has been spent over the last 3 years in such conservation measures.

Instructional costs are, of course, the predominant category of our total expenses, and include the following items:

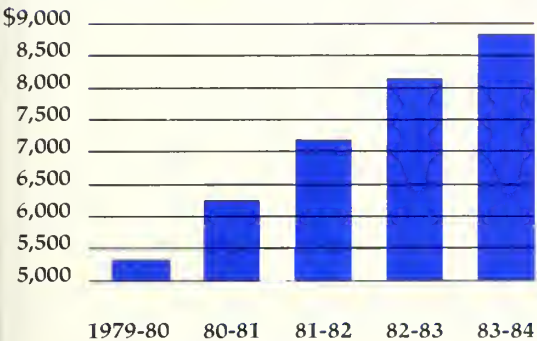

Instruction salaries and departmental expenses	$3,862,559
Food service	1,338,789
Support functions (Library, Infirmary, Graham House, Chaplaincy)	685,549
Athletics	520,068
Residency & social activities	149,388
	$6,556,353

Continuous effort is devoted to controlling our costs, with both annual budgeting and monthly reporting to departments.

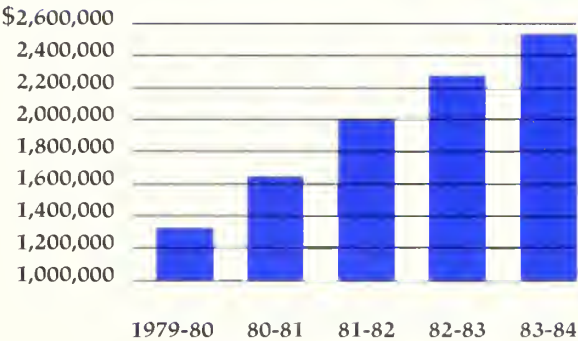

Tuition and Financial Aid

Financial Aid, 1980-84

Tuition rose to $8,900 for the year 1983-84, contributing 58% of the total operating resources. Even at this rate, each student receives more than a $4,000 "subsidy" toward the cost of a year's education, before any financial aid is awarded. In long-range goals established by the Trustees, a commitment was made to maintain the tuition at as low a rate as possible, commensurate with providing a quality program of education. This goal was implemented when the boarding rate was set for 1984-85 at $9,200 — an increase of only $300 (3.4%). In relation to the tuition of other comparable residential schools, Andover compares favorably:

Boarding Tuition	1983-84	1984-85
Choate	$9,650	$10,300
Rosemary Hall
Groton	9,600	10,200
Northfield	9,050	10,000

Deerfield	8,800	9,700
Exeter	9,000	9,500
St. Paul's	8,600	9,300
Andover	8,900	9,200

Financial aid of all types rose 12% to $2,562,000, a rate considerably greater than the 8.5% tuition increase. Aid in the form of loans totaled $437,150, $180,000 of that as parent loans to some 51 families who would not otherwise be eligible for financial assistance, and the balance in student loans. For the third year, 36% of the student body received some form of financial assistance.

During the 5 years covered in the above charts, tuition increased by 65%, while financial assistance increased by 90%. Another long-range commitment of the Trustees, in seeking to maintain a diverse student community, is to strive to provide the opportunity for qualified youth to study at Andover regardless of economic background.

The Endowment and its Investment

Investment Objectives and Policies

During the fiscal year 1982-83, an in-depth study was undertaken by the Trustee Finance Committee, with the advice of Cambridge Associates, Inc., financial consultants of Boston, to examine the investment policy and management of Andover's endowment. With the approval of the Trustees, the following statement of Investment Objectives was formally adopted in May 1983:

1. The primary objective of the investment management of the Endowment is to preserve its real (inflation-adjusted) purchasing power while providing a relatively stable and constant (in real terms) stream of cash flow for current use.

2. The long-term investment objective for the Endowment is to earn at least 5% real average annual rate of return.

3. These objectives should be achieved within acceptable risk levels, while avoiding large short term declines in market value.

4. Current earned income is normally expected to be sufficient for current uses. Occasionally the Academy may also use principal for current uses.

After a decade of having a single primary investment manager, the Trustees appointed three new equity managers: State Street Research & Management of Boston, Forstmann-Leff Associates and Campbell Advisors, both of New York City; and one new fixed income manager: Rosenberg Capital Management of San Francisco. Each of these firms has discretion to manage their portion of the endowment to best achieve the investment objectives as set forth above, and within policy guidelines assigned to each manager. The transfer of assets to the equity managers was made in December 1982, and to the fixed income manager in May 1983.

Market Value of the Endowment

The total Academy endowment, with its investments stated at market value, was $92,267,691 at June 30, 1984, compared with $102,643,969 one year ago. The decrease of $10,376,278 in the endowment was due to the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment, including Addison Gallery Campaign gifts	$1,730,922
Increase due to the addition of income to principal of certain funds, plus the net of other additions or withdrawals	539,011
Pension plan payments	(295,034)
Transfer to income from funds functioning unrestricted	(137,367)
Depreciation in the market value of investments, less the net gain realized from sale of investments	(12,213,810)
	$(10,376,278)

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 7.3% during the fiscal year — from 1221.9 at June 30, 1983 to 1132.4 at June 30, 1984 — reflecting a similar percentage reduction in our stock portfolio. The transfer to new managers had resulted in a greater equity position a year ago, which has moderated somewhat, as shown in the following comparison of types of investments:

	Market share at June 30
	1983	1984
Cash & Cash Equivalents	15.7%	12.4%
Fixed income	21.8	31.7
Equities	62.5	55.9
	100.0	100.0

Included in the equity portion are several diversified placements: $1.5 million in the JMB Realty Trust (entirely for endowments), and $5.0 million in the Common Fund for International Securities.

In a successful endeavor to familiarize our four new investment managers with Andover, the school hosted representatives from these firms in May 1984 for a day of campus tours, meeting with students and faculty, and to conduct a round table discussion with the Trustee Finance Committee on "Investing for the Future."

Investment Performance

The substantial reduction in "income from investments" over this three year period is explained as follows:

1981-82 — while maintaining a greater position in high-yielding "cash equivalents", the Trustees authorized the use of excess endowment income earned in order to reflect a "surplus" and eliminate the prior accumulated deficit of nearly $1 million.

1982-83 — the transition to new investment managers reflected a heavier commitment into equities, which, coupled with lower interest rates resulted in reduced income earned.

1983-84 — the reallocation of assets by our managers, as they position their portfolios for future total returns, resulted in reduction of earned income for this year.

Along with the new investment objectives and policies, the Trustees have adopted a future spending rule, which is intended to utilize income from endowment at a rate of between 4 and 6% of average market value. To accomplish this transition, the "available" income for 1983-84 was held at the same level as in 1982-83 of $5.45 million. Even this amount is slightly in excess of 6% of the 1 quarter average market value of the endowment.

Investment Performance: Income Earned by the Endowment

The total income earned, and availed of, on the invested endowment assets was as follows:

Land, buildings and equipment owned by the Academy are not reflected in the balance sheets. Expenditures for plant are funded currently or on a deferred basis from current funds or other available funds. The historical cost of plant and equipment is not reasonably determinable.

As of June 30, 1984, pledges outstanding from prospective donors, for the Addison Gallery Campaign and the Bicentennial Campaign, totaled approximately $18,700,000. It is not practicable to estimate the net realizable value of such pledges, and they are not reflected in the balance sheets.

NOTES

There have been four capital campaigns during the period:

1948-50 The Andover and War Memorial Fund

1976-80 The Bicentennial Campaign

1980-83 The Addison Gallery Campaign

These figures report monies actually received during each fiscal year. They do not reflect totals reported for capital campaigns, or annual giving, except as payments were actually received within the fiscal year.

The amount given to the endowment is appreciably larger than monies given for any other purpose—a significant factor for the long range economic health of the Academy.

Gifts in the category "Other" were for the most part ultimately allocated to Endowment or Construction.

The sharp increase in Current Income gifts since 1980 reflects outstanding improvement in the Alumni and Parent Funds, as well as a substantial number of foundation and corporate grants.

Planning for Andover's Third Century

Director of Planned Giving

The endowment funds described on the following pages represent the foundation of Phillips Academy. The men and women who created these funds recognized the importance of providing perpetual support for the school, whether it be designated to general purposes, scholarship, faculty salaries, or other special programs. Many of these funds were established through careful estate planning by the donors; the commitment of alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of Andover to the Planned Giving Program continues today as a basis for ensuring the future stability of this institution.

A portion of the endowments which established Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy originated in bequests. Although the Planned Giving Program did not formally exist then, gifts through wills were, and continued to be, essential sources of financial growth for both schools. In the middle of this century, Andover began to actively seek support through a succession of capital campaigns. Both the Andover and War Memorial Fund (1948-1950) and the Andover Program (1958-1961) included a planned giving element, but in the late 1960's, new Federal tax laws enabled schools and universities to provide added incentives for fundraising, through life-income agreements, lead trusts, and other vehicles. The Bicentennial Campaign (1975-1980) constituted the largest successful fundraising drive undertaken by an independent school. Of the $52 million raised, approximately 44 percent, or $23 million, was pledged to the campaign through planned gifts to the Andover Pooled Income Fund, life insurance, real estate, trusts, and bequests.

PLANNED GIVING: A TEN-YEAR HISTORY

Outstanding gifts as of June 30, 1984

*Bicentennial Campaign

Description of Funds

By "notification" we mean the news from a donor that he or she has planned a future estate gift to Andover. Although it is not always possible to ascertain the amount of that gift, we do count both new donors/gifts, and the value in current dollars. Where a donor has indicated a range for the gift (i.e., "my bequest for Andover will be $100,000 to $500,000. . .") we have counted the lowest value mentioned. The graph illustrates that, although there was a predictable (and welcome) surge in both dollars and donors during the Bicentennial Campaign, fiscal 1983-84 marked a record year of new donors, and gifts! Never before have so many become involved in this method of support. It is understandable that fewer have indicated a specific dollar amount of their gifts, as compared with the 1979-80 close of the campaign, since we are not currently in the midst of a capital campaign.

It remains true that tax laws alone do not inspire philanthropy. People give to Andover because they want to give, and because they believe that what happens at Andover between students and teachers is good and should continue. Taking advantage of these laws can make philanthropy much easier, however. As of June 30, 1984, Phillips Academy may expect to receive over $20 million through gifts made as part of an overall estate plan. They range in size from $500 to $4 million. Some are in the form of assets currently paying income back to the donors or other beneficiaries. Some are the income from assets which will eventually pass on to heirs. All of them represent a sustaining commitment to this school and to its philosophy of educating youth. We will continue to actively seek support for programs through this method. The funds, and people, described on the following pages provide our example.

There follows a description of all endowment funds which have been established, increased, or changed in description since June 30, 1983.

By vote of the Trustees, newly established endowment funds should be in the amount (at once or pledged) of $10,000 or more.

All other previously established funds are also listed, in name and book amount only.

ADDISON

Addison Campaign Tops $5,000,000

The Campaign for the Addison Gallery of American Art exceeded its goal of $4,765,000 by the end of 1983 and raised a total of $5,047,795. This first fund drive in the museum's history was launched in May 1981 by Campaign Chairman Robert M. Walker '28 on the occasion of the Gallery's 50th birthday. Two hundred volunteers, led by Major Gift Chairman Edward E. Elson '52 and Committee of the 50th Co-Chairmen Josephine Bradley Bush '57 and Robert A. Feldman '54, enabled the Campaign to succeed.

The Gallery was founded and its initial collection and endowment donated by Andover Trustee Thomas Cochran '90. The collection now consists of approximately 7,000 works of American art, including choice examples by John Singleton Copley, Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, Childre Hassam, the brothers Maurice and Charles Prendergast, Andrew Wyeth, Georgia O'Keeffe, and 1954 alumnus Frank Stella.

One of the high points of the Campaign was an exhibition of Stella's work which opened on the occasion of announcing a $1,000,000 Challenge Fund put together by the Trustees and close friends of the Gallery. That Challenge Fund on a one-for-two basis assured the final success of the Campaign.

The funds raised are primarily for endowment of people and programs, as well as a new roof! The Gallery can now continue to maintain its position of excellence as a resource for Phillips Academy students, as a museum for the community — open six days a week free of charge, and as a national treasure.

All donors — there were 1517 — are now members of the Friends of the Addison, a new organization established to keep believers informed of the museum's activities and programs.

Over the top! Addison Gallery Director Chris Cook, Campaign Director Pat Edmonds and Campaign Chairman Bob Walker '28 celebrate the successful completion of the Addison Gallery Campaign.

1983-84 Annual Giving Tops Goal

Alumni/ae and Parents Raise Record $1,708,659

Andover Annual Giving saw unprecedented growth during 1983-84 to an all-time high of $1,708,659 raised from 8358 donors. Records were set on all fronts as the Alumni and Parent Funds grew 22% and brought in $310,698 more dollars than in the previous year.

The Annual Fund grand total represents approximately 9% of Andover's projected operating budget for the 1984-85 school year and brings Annual Giving that much closer to reaching its long-term goal of providing 10% of the Academy's operating budget.

Clinton J. Kendrick '61 and Miriam Ganem Reeder '57, Alumni Fund Co-chairmen, reported a total Alumni Fund figure of $1,497,323 from 7166 Andover and Abbot Alumni/ae, and 23% increase in dollars over last year. The fund's indisputable success is due to these two fine chairmen who have been working closely with 164 Head Agents and a corps of over 600 co-agents, many newly-recruited under their leadership. At the heart of this year's success is the personal and enthusiastic solicitation that this body of volunteers has been able to generate.

Four specific areas of significant growth account for the overall success of this year's campaign. The NON SIBI Associates program (gifts of $1,000 or more) grew to 537 members [over 100 new members this year] and provided $795,025 or over 47% of all dollars raised.

Reunion Giving was given strong attention with ambitious goals set for each five-year class. The result was that Reunion dollars grew 38% to $606,757 accounting for 41% of the total Alumni Fund. Abbot Giving kept pace with the overall increase of 22% more dollars than last year and a substantial increase in donors [1139 donors despite no new prospects generated in the ten years since the merger]. A final area of growth was Corporate Matching Gifts with 172 companies matching 376 employee gifts to Andover; 25 more corporations participated than last year.

Andover is fortunate to have another year of the combined leadership of Clint Kendrick and Mimi Reeder as they begin their third year of partnership as Co-chairmen of Alumni Giving. Mimi has accepted an extension of her term which will give the co-chairmen an opportunity to fully implement their giving plans.

The 1983-84 Parent Fund set a high goal of $200,000 and surpassed it with ease with a grand total of $211,336. For a second year co-chairmen Marilyn and John Pickett (parents of John O., III '84) led a legion of parent volunteers whose network attempted to reach each Andover family personally, resulting in 65% or 731 Current Parents contributing to the Parent Fund generating a substantial growth in dollars (up 26%). A special gift committee under the co-chairmanship of John Shumway (father of Stephen '84) and Joseph D. Tydings (father of Eleanor '86) boosted the dollar total with 59 parents becoming NON SIBI Associates. Karla Fink (mother of Christina '82) led the Past Parent drive as 461 (up 40%) former Andover parents supported the effort in the amount of $49,665.

1983-84 has been an exceptional year for volunteer support in all areas. The results of Annual Giving bear witness to the strong and loyal corps of alumni/ae and parents who responded both with service and support to the School's financial needs. Excellence at Andover will continue well into the future because of the foresight and generosity of hundreds of dedicated members of the Phillips family. A strong upward trend in Annual Giving has continued this year and with it unlimited educational opportunities for today's young men and women at Andover.

1983-84 Reunion Giving saw dramatic increases following four years of intensive effort at expanding emphasis on reunion year fund raising. This was the first year that thirteen reunion classes from the 5th to the 65th had special gift efforts within the Alumni fund. Those thirteen reunion classes contributed a very significant portion of the overall campaign: $606,757 or 41% of the total Alumni Fund.

The Fiftieth Reunion Class set a startling all-time record, the product of hard work and unflinching loyalty by the members of the Class of 1934. Under the superb leadership of Tom Campion, with the able assistance of Bill Harding and an active committee, and Abbot agent Mary Rockwell Stewart, the class presented a gift to the Headmaster of $165,615 at the Annual Alumni Meeting in June. 1934 also increased its participation to 70% of the class contributing to the gift effort.

At the same June meeting the Class of 1959 presented a 25th Reunion gift of $106,504 -- another record setter for cash totals. Garret Kirk, Jr., Arthur M. Rogers, Jr., and Susan Wholey Field headed enthusiastic gift committees for this memorable 25th Reunion gift and drew a fine participation rate of 53%.

An unprecedented ten of the thirteen reunion classes set record cash dollar totals in honor of their reunion. (See Reunion Giving Chart.) Andover and Abbot Chairmen have worked very hard to challenge their predecessors and leave an enviable record for the upcoming reunion classes in 1984-85. Reunion Giving has truly become a keystone to the Alumni Fund at Andover.

Andover Phonathons have been playing an ever-increasing role in the success of Annual Fund efforts as more and more callers work to make direct contact with their classmates. Successful 1983-84 Andover/Abbot Phonathons were held in San Francisco, New York City, Boston, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia.

Up-front Phonathons held last fall in San Francisco and New York City were new to the Annual Fund calendar and were such a great boost to the Fund that even more are planned for the coming year. Up-front Phonathons raised $68,310 in pledges, a fine beginning as the 1983-84 campaign was launched.

The Spring Phonathons were kicked off in Boston, followed by New York City, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. The Spring Alumni Phonathons raised $63,594 in additional pledges as the campaign was coming to a close.

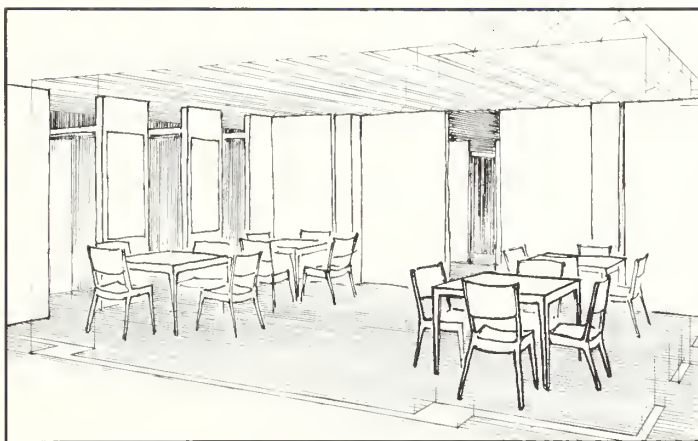

In May the Fourth Annual Student Phonathon was held at Phillips Academy. Students enthusiastically raised $31,377 from 427 alumni, the largest amount ever raised from an Andover student phonathon. (Over 144 students gave of their precious spare time to promote the Fund effort.)

This fall the 1984-85 Annual Fund will be hosting Up-front Phonathons in Boston and New York City. A special young alumni phonathon for classes 1980-1984 will be held in Boston on Thanksgiving Eve. Dates for these are:

New York City	November 19
Boston (Young Alumni - 1980-84)	November 21
Boston	November 26

Special thanks must go to over 50 enthusiastic phoners and to J. J. Peabody, Inc., our host in Boston, who made these additional gifts to Andover a reality.

The A. Graham Baldwin Cloister

The proposed area Drawing by Robert A. Lloyd

A. Graham Baldwin, Chaplain Emeritus at Phillips Academy who served as Academy Chaplain for 36 years, died in June of 1982. The Board of Trustees deliberated for some time as to a fitting memorial for the long and outstanding service performed by Gray at the Academy.

At its May 1983 meeting, the Trustees decided to proceed with the A. Graham Baldwin Cloister, involving renovation of an appropriate space in the Cochran Chapel. The present Chaplaincy saw a need for a room in the Chapel to which students and faculty could retreat—a warm, hospitable space to exchange ideas and to revitalize and enrich their spirits. The Trustees agreed and appointed a committee to lead a fund-raising effort to realize this dream and properly memorialize A. Graham Baldwin and his service to Phillips Academy.

Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, Alumni Trustee Emeritus, accepted the leadership role of Chairman of the Trustee committee, with assistance from Donald H. McLean, Jr. '28 former President of the Board of Trustees; J. Philip Zaeder, Protestant Chaplain; and Joseph C. Mesics '53, Secretary of the Academy. Sandy ably went about that task of organizing an active volunteer committee of alumni and friends to pursue the goal.

Alumni who attended the Academy while Gray was Chaplain were asked to contribute to this fitting memorial project. The effort was a huge success. With the help of Trustees, alumni, parents, family and friends, more than $55,000 was raised to construct the Baldwin Cloister. Renovation of the Chapel space is scheduled for this fall with a dedication in early 1985.

Many thanks to all who so unselfishly contributed to this long-held dream, the A. Graham Baldwin Cloister in memory of Gray Baldwin. It will be enjoyed for years to come by the student and adult communities at Phillips Academy.

Matching Gifts To Andover Reach New High as New Corporations and Foundations Lend Strong Support

Matching gifts to Andover in 1983-84 totaled $161,152 — 426 gifts from 179 corporations and foundations. Those matching gifts represent a significant contribution to operating support through the Annual Fund and capital support of the Addison Gallery Campaign and other Andover projects.

Beyond matching gifts, Phillips Academy has received corporate and foundation grants during 1983-84 of $834,597. Some of that support has been directed to the Addison Gallery Campaign, but a major grant of $276,237 has supported the Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers' Institute. The Carnegie Corporation of New York has also granted $180,000 to assist with the three-year 50% expansion of (MS)² — Math and Science for Minority Students. To support another new effort and to undertake a four-year Chinese Language Program, Phillips Academy received a $40,000 grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation. Foundation and corporate support from grants and matching gifts provided close to a million dollars in support of Andover during 1983-84.

TRUSTEES ANNOUNCE NEW LEADERSHIP GIVING LEVELS FOR 1984-85

The NON SIBI Associates were launched in the 1980-81 Annual Giving year in the belief that there were many alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who would choose to lend support to an effort to substantially increase the role Annual Giving plays in Andover's operating income. The long range goal was that Annual Giving provide 10% of each year's budget. That ambitious goal is now within reach (currently at 9%) in major part because the NON SIBI Associates have grown to a point where this year they provided close to half the Annual Fund dollars.

To encourage additional growth of the Annual Fund and its level of support for the operating budget of the School, the Trustees have announced two new leadership giving levels commencing in the 1984-85 Annual Giving year. In addition to NON SIBI Associates (Donors of $1,000 - $4,999), there will be:

NON SIBI SCHOLARS - Donors of $5,000 - $9,999 to the Annual Fund.

The Financial Aid Office Reports that its average financial aid grant is approximately $5,000. A donor in this category may choose to support a scholarship student for a year and has the option of seeing his/her donation at work by keeping in touch with that student during his/her career at Andover.

NON SIBI FELLOW - Donors of $10,000 or more to the Annual Fund.

Andover is concerned with training young teachers and each year offers positions to several Teaching Fellows in various departments.

Each of these Fellows costs the Academy approximately $10,000 to support, train, and encourage in his chosen profession. A donor in this category may choose to be assigned a named Teaching Fellow and follow his/her training as a future teacher.

Corporate Matching Gifts may be used to bring a donation to the necessary total gift level for NON SIBI Memberships.

Alumni Fund Sets Ambitious Goal of $1,685,000

Message to Alumni:

Encouraged by the outstanding success of the 1983-84 Alumni Fund and in keeping with the long-term goals for the Fund, a goal of $1,685,000 from 7550 donors has been set for the 1984-85 Alumni Fund. This represents a dollar increase of 13% or close to $200,000 over last year. These increases will bring us tantalizingly close to our ultimate goal of the Alumni Fund providing 10% of the operating budget of the School by 1986.

Reaching that 10% mark is essential and the most important way in which alumni and alumnae can provide the school with the financial flexibility it needs to meet the ever-changing challenges of maintaining and enhancing its educational program. Alumni contributions insure that Andover has the means to attract and retain the best possible faculty and is able to retain its leadership role in the education of "youth from every quarter."

Participation must be increased if our new goals are to be met. There is now a corps of 500 volunteers who will be approaching classmates during the current Alumni Fund effort. Welcome them enthusiastically and respond as generously as you are able. Every gift is important to Andover — and to sustaining the academic excellence we remember and have come to expect from Phillips Academy.

1984-85 Parent Fund Aims for Record $240,000

Message to Parents:

We are pleased to accept Andover's invitation to become the Co-Chairmen for the 1984-85 Parent Fund Committee and look forward to working together with fellow parents in this important drive.

Because of your generosity and the excellent leadership of John and Marilyn Pickett, the Parent Fund has had two record breaking years. The $211,000 raised in the 1983-84 Parent Fund effort has helped keep the 1984-85 tuition down. Few parents realize that the actual annual cost to Andover per student is approximately $13,000, whereas tuition for a boarder is only $9,200 (for a day student $6,975). Your gifts help make up that difference.

The new 1984-85 Parent Fund goal has been set at $240,000. We hope you will continue your generosity and join us in achieving this goal!

Present Parent Goal	$185,000
Past Parent Goal	55,000
TOTAL GOAL	$240,000

Message to Past Parents:

One of the many things that has made this job so exciting for us the past four years has been witnessing not only the increase in monies donated but increase in the number of past parent donors. Your loyal commitment is a clear message that Andover is doing its job well. This year we raised $49,665 from 461 past parents as compared with $48,778 from 352 past parents in 1982-83. We extend our heart-felt thanks to each and every one of you for your generous support. With such a solid foundation we look forward to working with you and in 1984-85 toward raising $55,000 in support of our children's school.

1984-85 Parent Fund Seeks $240,000

In planning for the future of Phillips Academy, the new 1984-85 Parent Fund goal has been set at $240,000. We encourage all parents, current and past, to continue their generosity and join us in achieving our goal. Increased parent support is very important to the education of our children and to the Academy.

The tradition of "Non Sibi" took on new meanings in 1984-85. Since their foundings both Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy have stressed looking beyond one's self as an essential component of an Andover education; the "Non Sibi" tradition is not new. What is new however is the scope of that consideration. Events and topics of this past academic year expanded the commitments of many of us, as we wrestled together with the responsibilities of individual citizens not only within the local community of our school but also within the larger context of the nation and the world.

The Andover Community

I came to Andover because I love to teach and this is a community which prizes the teacher-student relationship. It is a great personal pleasure for me to join the students in my African history class to discuss a range of historical and contemporary issues and to share in their discovery of historical research and interpretation in a field of my own scholarship. An average class size of fourteen ensures that close relationships will exist in the classroom and requires an understanding of community, in which everyone participates.

The two hundred faculty who choose to spend their lives in a residential community are asked to be a teacher not only within the classroom but also on the athletic field, as faculty advisor or as house counselor, all in addition to acting as a wife or husband, mother or father and continuing their scholarship. A residential community places particular emphasis on the house counseling role. It is not always easy to be responsible for a number of teenagers twenty-four hours a day, to be both counselor and adult responsible for the rules, and to balance all of the other roles simultaneously.

We try to recognize the contributions of faculty in many ways - a thoughtful evaluation, a note of thanks, a grant in support of their work, increases in compensation or a letter from a former student saying what a course or bit of advice has meant. As faculty members retire, we pause to recognize and express gratitude for the many contributions of the individuals who are leaving the school. This year the faculty who retired, Josh Miner (Admissions), Mike Mosca (Accounting), Angel Rubio (Spanish), Al Stevens (Russian), and Hilda Whyte (Biology and Physics), represented well over 100 years of teaching, coaching and house counseling at Phillips and Abbot Academies.

The students of this community are individuals of considerable talent who come from all parts of the country and the world to study at Andover. Last year we could select only one of six students who applied. We sought to choose those individuals who could benefit from the Andover experience and who might contribute to our school today and our society tomorrow. These students came from 47 states and 19 foreign countries to make up a student body of 1213.

The Academy's success in expanding the scholarship program and limiting tuition increases is key to the diversity of Andover students. We come from different family backgrounds, a variety of educational experiences, varying religious, racial, and cultural traditions, and a wide range of personal experiences. We are fortunate that our community allows us to progress beyond superficial concerns about our differences, and to benefit from the depth of our diversity.

Donald W. McNemar

Part of joining a community is acceptance of the rules of the school. In one area of particular concern, we have emphasized educational programs to help young people make wise choices about their personal relation to alcohol and drugs, and, simultaneously, have been clear that use or possession of illegal substances can lead to dismissal from Phillips Academy. One of the most difficult tasks of the Headmaster is to ask a young person to leave Andover when he or she has violated these rules. Dismissals last year prompted much healthy discussion among faculty and students about the importance of Andover's rules and placed a new emphasis on the responsibility of individual students to live within them.

Another major topic of concern and discussion this past year was the "pace of life" - a term coined to describe our sense that we are all, students and faculty alike, too fragmented and too frantic in our daily lives. In April a group of faculty and students held a retreat to discuss these issues and to generate community recommendations. The group concluded that in our rush to do everything in a course, on the playing field, and in our personal lives, we were sacrificing too much in the quality of our work. The group's proposal, a series of steps designed not to eliminate activities or courses, but rather to simplify our lives, and to emphasize the choices that have to be made, was eventually adopted and will be tested in the coming year.

The Academy and the Surrounding Communities

The academic year began with a leadership conference for students holding positions of major responsibility within the school. The students chose to focus on the nature of community service and how they could be involved beyond the campus. The conference led to a call by Bill Parsons '85, the School President, to the student body at the opening school meeting to make service to our neighboring towns a priority for the coming year. The resulting activities by students throughout 1984-85 included tutoring a Spanish-speaking third grader at the Boys' Club in Lawrence, teaching handicapped children to ride at a local stable, planning and preparing supper at the Lawrence soup kitchen one night a month, and visiting the elderly at an Andover home.

In addition, faculty and students planned for the expansion of a more formal program of local outreach. The Urban Studies Institute has brought students from Lawrence High School each spring to Andover as boarding students to study urban topics with Phillips Academy students and to volunteer together in a Lawrence elementary school. In the coming year the Institute will undertake a study of young people in Lawrence and the development of opportunities for youth in a place long known as the "immigrant city."

Andover as a National Leader

As a leader in American education, Andover must do more than provide an excellent education to 1200 students every year. The Academy must lead by example and by cooperation in the broad issue of improving American schools.

The Andover Summer Session provides an opportunity for many academically talented students, who would not consider a full year's boarding experience, to spend six weeks in a rigorous program. For many of them, the opportunity proves to be a catalyst for real intellectual growth. (MS)², a program for minority students in math and science, welcomes 150 students each summer, primarily from urban schools, to develop their future careers in the sciences. Graduates of the program have found great success in admission to highly selective universities and institutes and in continuing studies in engineering and scientific research. Additionally, each summer we offer two institutes for high school teachers: the Visual Studies Institute engages teachers in intensive study of a variety of media ranging from design to photography; the Andover Dartmouth Teachers' Institute brings 30 urban math teachers to campus for rigorous mathematics instruction in preparation for new teaching responsibilities in their schools.

Such programs enable Andover to serve as a national model. Along with innovative developments in the language curriculum, the economics program, and the diversity of students, they have constituted the major items of interest which inspire articles like those which have appeared over the past year in the New York Times, Boston Globe, and USA Today. By focusing national attention on the school's leadership and resources, we can continue to act as a guide for the future of American education.

Andover and the Global Community

On an unprecedented scale, Andover brought the issues of Non Sibi and community relationships to an international level last year.

Building on the exchange program which the school had conducted over the previous three years with the Harbin Institute of Technology in the People's Republic of China, Andover welcomed its first visiting Chinese scholar in the fall of 1984, Mrs. Xiao-min Ni. A formal agreement with officials from Harbin was signed during a special visit by them in November, and in May, the faculty voted to establish a four-year Chinese language program which would meet the diploma requirement.

The Headmaster's Symposium during the winter term focused on Central America. The series of speakers, films, and discussions not only encouraged students and faculty to think about U.S. policy affecting our southern neighbors, but also brought us face to face with trying to understand the culture of these countries. During the six weeks of winter term when the symposium was offered over 200 students registered to participate and the topics dominated the pages of The Phillipian and informal conversations.

The academic year ended with a third of the faculty preparing to return to the classroom to study the Russian language, history and culture. An Andover parent, Don Kendall, chief executive officer of Pepsico Inc., provided support with finances and arrangements to enable 86 members of the faculty and spouses to travel in the Soviet Union, to meet with educators, and to gain personal insight into the issues facing the two major powers of our modern world.

Resources of Andover

Any discussion of community must include the more than 20,000 alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of Andover. This group is active in expressing interest in and advising about programs of the school, recommending students and faculty for the Academy, and in financially contributing to the school's mission.

The Annual Fund, which supports the operating expenses of the Academy each year, surpassed the $2 million mark for the first time ever. Many people chose to make gifts at the new levels of Non Sibi Scholar ($5000 for support of a scholarship student), and Non Sibi Fellow ($10,000 for support of a Teaching Fellow), which brought the number of major gifts to an unprecedented level in the Fund. Reunion gifts, including the Class of 1935's more than $200,000, also set new records this year.

During the past twelve months a new group, the Andover Development Board, was established of 75 alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy. The Development Board will join the Board of Trustees in assessing the school's needs and generating new support for endowed funds and capital projects to assure the continued strength of the community. The Trustees identified three capital projects which will be undertaken in the next five years; planning and fund raising efforts have been approved for: renovation of George Washington Hall as a campus center for the performing arts; a renovation and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library and an outdoor track to replace the current cinder track. These projects were launched at the Development Board's inaugural meeting last May, with the announcement that Bernard J. Ristuccia of Andover had pledged $1 million to the George Washington Hall campus center in honor of his wife, Elinor M. Ristuccia, mother of their four Andover sons and one granddaughter, and a longtime friend and neighbor of the Academy.

The meeting of Andover's goals as a learning community depends on the careful conservation of current resources. The Academy has maintained a balanced budget since 1978-79. With an increase in the stock market, limited spending from endowment, and active fund raising, the endowment has increased 38% since 1981, to $113 million as of June 30, 1985.

The new meanings of the Non Sibi tradition which have evolved over the past year have come through a wide range of sources. Initiative from all parts of the Andover family - students, trustees, faculty, alumnae, alumni, parents and friends - have brought a renewed significance to that charge, handed down to us by founders of these academies. With such strength, Andover may continue to encourage personal values which inspire students to reach out within this community as well as to towns and nations beyond Andover hill. It is in this Non Sibi spirit that we seek to prepare young people to lead personally fulfilling lives and to serve society. □

Report of the Associate Headmaster

Peter Q. McKee

When I was named Associate Headmaster several years ago, I expected certain things to change. The job of helping to oversee a community as large and complex as Phillips Academy is one which inspired both an increased sense of vision and a good dose of humility, healthy changes for a veteran of the faculty for, to date, 38 years. What did not change, thankfully, was the opportunity to watch kids learn in a variety of contexts, from the physics classroom, to the athletic field, to the dormitory. As teachers, we often talk about the quality of learning at Andover, taking pride in the degree to which we become involved in the process personally, and end up learning ourselves.

An event occurred this past year which challenged 86 of us to live up to that charge in a new way. As part of the preparations for a study trip to the Soviet Union, the school asked us to return to the classroom, and try to acquire a working knowledge of the Russian language, in addition to some basic background on Soviet history and culture. Little prepared me for going back to the other side of the desk; certain fears and doubts rose unexpectedly at the thought of becoming a student again, after over 30 years.

My own intensive preparations began Monday afternoon, June 17, when 16 adults, ranging in age from 24 to 61, entered the classroom of our mentor for the next three weeks, Victor Svec. Victor has a reputation for being a tough, unbending teacher who maintains that he can teach anyone to speak Russian. "Well," I thought, "he may be able to teach some of this group something, but I am going to be a difficult subject. Amid the group are young supple minds. Mine is not. There are linguists and writers. I am neither." A physics teacher by trade who likes numbers, equations, principles and problems, I wondered how it would turn out. Would I be able to converse after three weeks?

The class began. Victor introduced himself - in Russian - and each of us tried to follow suit. Everyone did well, giving the Russian phrase for "I am called" followed by his or her name in English. I thought I should give my name in Russian. So when my turn came, I tried. I now know that "Petrov" does not mean "Peter" in Russian.

The previous evening, Sunday, all involved had spent two hours listening to do's and don'ts, takes and don't takes for the trip to the Soviet Union, as well as seeing a videotape of a late December trip on the Trans Siberian Railroad. That sort of travelog plus discovering that all our guides will be working for the KGB, that soap in Russia produces skin problems for some people, and that there is a particularly virulent virus in the Leningrad water all together made one wonder why we were doing this thing.

By the end of the course, we had learned not only an extraordinary amount of Russian - Victor had covered even various terms relating to our particular fields - but also a valuable lesson in what it means to be a student at Phillips Academy. The whole exercise, like the classes we ourselves taught, was meant to be exhaustively complete for the time allotted, cover a number of various aspects to the discipline, and prove to be a binding experience for all involved. It was. We departed for the Soviet Union on July 6 newly aware of the trip's potential for establishing relationships with our Soviet counterparts, building a better understanding of a nation with which we deal daily as Americans, and providing an extraordinary educational opportunity for us personally.

The results of the trip will be featured in a variety of ways in the coming months: through the Andover Bulletin, panel discussions, and the symposium. One result which may escape attention however is the revitalized empathy we have as teachers for our students, from becoming students ourselves. This is not to say that we will expect less from our students, nor become less rigorous in our classrooms; my own teaching style probably will not change at all. What we do have however is new respect for their efforts, good humor, and willingness to try time after time. For that lesson alone, this Associate Headmaster is happy to have been a part of such a mission. □

The educational strengths of this Academy continue to grow, thanks to the dedication of the Andover family, expressed through both gifts of treasure and a unique volunteer spirit. We in the Office of Academy Resources serve as support for a diverse volunteer network which positively affects and sustains school programs.

This year the Board of Trustees voted to establish a new group, the Andover Development Board, who will advise the Trustees on how best to meet the endowment and capital needs of the Academy. Patricia H. Edmonds, the new Director of Capital Development, serves as staff support. The Andover Development Board launched its effort with a successful May meeting on campus, attended by a large number of enthusiastic members.

A devoted group of Regional Association leaders, officers and directors as well as alumni and alumnae in less formally organized areas of the nation, helped us carry out an ambitious travel program to transmit the message of Phillips Academy across the country. Denis R. Tippo, our Director of Alumni and Parent Affairs, has taken on the support of these Regional Associations, as well as the arranging of on-campus events, including Parents Weekend, Reunion Weekend, and Andover Leaders' Weekend.

The Andover Bulletin, which originates in the Office of Academy Resources under the editorship of Peter A. Gilbert '72 and carries alumni and alumnae news from a strong corps of class secretaries, received honor from CASE, the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. The Washington-based organization selected the Andover magazine as one of ten outstanding independent school periodicals in the United States. Those responsible for the winning issues, Thomas J. Regan '51, as editor emeritus, and Ann M. Parks, designer and Director of Publications, deserve special thanks for bringing such national recognition to the school.

The Planned Giving Committee and Class Endowment Agents work diligently to secure Andover's future. Mary Lou DeLong, our new Director of Planned Giving, has expanded both of these groups. They have done a remarkable job this year, as outlined on later pages.

The Program for Minority students in Math and Science, (MS)², received significant support this year, largely thanks to the Foundations and Corporate Support Committees, with the support of Lynda Graham, our Director of Foundations and Corporate Support. The results of their efforts reveal a growing interest in the special programs offered at Andover.

One member of the Office of Academy Resources team does not have the opportunity to report directly in this forum. Jenifer M. Cooke '73, Data Base and Alumni Records Manager, not only keeps track of our computer data, but generates the information which makes this report possible. Her efforts are rarely recognized publicly, but they are vital to the success of all that happens within this office.

Christopher L. Shaw '78, editor of this Annual Report, moved from Planned Giving to become Assistant to the Headmaster as well as continuing in the Office of Academy Resources as Director of Public Information. He does a remarkable job publicizing the accomplishments of students and maintaining the image of Phillips Academy in national and local media.

Joseph C. Mesics '53

A final word on development, and of appreciation to all who have continued to work for and support Annual Giving: the spectacular results of both the alumni and parent fund activities are reported extensively in the sections that follow. They are supported by Connie LeMaitre '53, our Director of Annual Giving, and Sarah Gurry, Director of the Parent Fund. Five years ago the Trustees set a goal for Annual Giving, that it would equal 10% of the following school year's budget by June, 1986. Four of those five campaign years have passed, and the 1984-85 gifts to the alumni and parent funds represent just under 10% of the 1985-86 school budget. I am confident that this goal will be met, along with other goals designed to provide resources for Andover, so that this fine Academy can maintain its leadership position in secondary education. □

John Richards II

As in past years, a primary focus of the Dean of Faculty's office during 1984-85 has been the recruiting and hiring of the best possible additions to the Phillips Academy faculty. The number of openings for regular faculty positions this year was twenty, down considerably from the previous year; for these openings, 812 applications were received and approximately fifty candidates interviewed on campus during the winter and spring terms. Two of the newcomers, Assistant Comptroller Judy Haupin and Director of Planned Giving Mary Lou DeLong, started work before the end of the school year; new Admissions Dean Jeanne Disette took over from Josh Miner on July 1, and the remainder reported for duty the day after Labor Day for the annual four-day orientation program for new faculty.

Ten of our new colleagues are women, so we begin the year 1985-86 with a faculty that is for the first time 40% female, a ratio which approximates that of the student body. We are pleased with the progress that has been made in increasing the number of female faculty members during the past five years, a development that is vital in an institution committed to co-education. On the other hand, we continue to be disappointed with the results of our efforts to hire minority faculty members. Of the twenty newcomers, only two are minority, though one of these will be coming with the express purpose of assisting incoming Dean of Faculty Kelly Wise in this important mission. The faculty includes fourteen minority members this year.

In addition to the new members of the regular faculty, there are eleven Teaching Fellows in this, the 29th year of that program. These young men and women come from colleges and universities across the country, to teach for one year in a variety of departments: biology, chemistry, classics, English, math, Russian and Spanish. The quality of these Fellows remains high, with 118 applications from which to choose. The program provides college graduates with a chance to try teaching; veterans of the program continue to enjoy great success in finding full teaching positions at other schools.

Fifty-one faculty members underwent our recently instituted evaluation process during 1984-85, an overwhelming number of whom came through with flying colors and were rewarded with new multi-year contracts. In a very few cases, individuals whose evaluations revealed significant weaknesses were urged to explore opportunities for professional development, a leave of absence, or early retirement.

The issue of retirement is more complicated than in the past, when faculty members normally ended a career at age 65. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has passed legislation removing any mandatory retirement age. Andover faculty members now are retiring at varying times, many before 65, which Phillips Academy continues to recognize as the "normal" retirement age. In a community which asks adults to become engaged with young people in many roles around the clock, more faculty members are assessing the appropriate time to undertake a career change, which may not coincide with the normal retirement age. The task will be to develop guidelines and processes which, while continuing to recognize a normal retirement age, will also assist faculty in their career decisions and the transition to other careers and lifestyles after Phillips Academy.

These and a number of other important issues will be in good hands as Kelly Wise, photographer and distinguished member of the English Department, takes over as Dean of Faculty. Following the principle of administrative rotation established by Ted Sizer and continued by Don McNemar, I am stepping down after five years in this position, ending seventeen years of administrative service of one sort or another. These have been interesting and challenging years, and as I return full-time to the history classroom, I know that the faculty will be well served by their new Dean. □

Throughout the year the faculty reviewed Andover's academic program and made a variety of procedural and curricular changes while reaffirming the goals of the academy. Chronicling 1984-85 reveals a year of debate, realignment, and speculation on the Andover curriculum today and for the year 2000.

After three years of committee and community debate, the faculty adopted new academic guidelines to supplement the diploma requirements. The guidelines are designed to ensure greater breadth in subject matter and more balance in student programs. We simply are asking our students, many of whom complete the Academy's diploma requirements by the end of their Upper Middler year, to make good choices in a number of different areas of academic inquiry.

Thanks to the development of computer software sophisticated enough to accommodate our academic program, daily schedule, and student choice, all Phillips Academy students will be scheduled individually by David Penner, Scheduling Officer, with the aid of the computer. Arena Day, when all faculty and students met in the gym, served its purpose of scheduling all students in one afternoon; we have come to believe however that computer scheduling will offer greater choice and opportunity to all students rather than only to those lucky enough to "pull" low numbers so that they were admitted first. In addition, department chairs will be able to plan their offerings based on actual numbers and student commitment.

Both the interpretation of the curriculum and the structuring of student choice depend on vigorous academic advising. We have just completed year one of our new program in which each advisor has students from a single class in a given cluster. A student's house counselor is asked to submit his or her views of a proposed academic program to the advisor. The new scheme stresses continuity of the student-advisor relationship for the duration of a student's career at Andover. The system appears to work well, and morale among advisors is high.

The Abbot Academy Association enhanced our academic program and community life last year with grants to sponsor a wide variety of innovative projects. Twenty-five new grants from the association will support funding an evaluation of the communication styles of our college counselors, an expansion of the Urban Studies Institute's field work, and a stage adaptation of Toni Morrison's Song of Solomon, among many other valuable projects.

Both George Washington Hall and the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library have served generations of students well. However, age, use, and new demands make it necessary to face comprehensive renovations for both facilities. Next year, our challenge will be to design facilities and programs which will serve future generations.

In the last five years, use of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library has increased dramatically. Circulation has risen by 42%; reference inquiries are up by 40%. The number of students using the library averages as many as 850 per day. Classes requiring research skills have increased by fourfold in four years.

All year, the Library Policy Committee, a group of senior faculty from a number of departments, chaired by librarian Lynne Robbins, met to "plan the library of the future." Their report urges that we remain in the current building, expand the space available, integrate the books and the users, automate the catalog, and retain and care for archives, Phillips Academy and Abbot memorabilia, and rare books. In the next few years we expect to bring the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library to the forefront of school libraries in the United States.

Theater at Phillips Academy is also burgeoning. Another brilliant Shakespeare production, The Taming of the Shrew, starred the football captain, Jim Thompson '85, as Petruchio and the blues singing Aratha Johnson '86 as Kate. The spring brought Cabaret and the disturbing themes of Nazi Germany to the stage in an evocative and compelling manner. We look to all of these gifted artists to join together in structuring a theatre program and building renovation for George Washington Hall as a campus center and improved drama facility in the months ahead.

These opportunities and challenges lead us to look to an even more dynamic future fed by the creative energies of a gifted student body and superb faculty. □

Report of the Dean of Residence

David O. Cobb

A year ago, at the Deans' summer meetings, the Headmaster was reviewing the preceding year from his perspective and outlining some of his priorities and hopes for the coming year. Instead of the archly philosophical conclusion some of us expected, he said, "And finally, there isn't enough fun at Phillips Academy. Next year we're going to have more fun!"

The year certainly began on an upbeat note. Student President Bill Parsons '85, Blue Key Heads Cate Cooper '85 and Matt Littell '85, and the rest of our student leaders got the student body revved up, and faculty morale was high. Indian summer, a campus which hadn't looked better in years, a rejuvenated social program, and promising athletic teams all made the year look auspicious, and teachers were heard to comment on the intensity of academic motivation. It was all great fun.

Within a few weeks, however, arose unprecedented senior grumblings about the extent of rule-breaking on the campus. Several students, concerned about patterns, attitudes, and values they themselves seemed to be developing, came forward and asked for help and support. On a modest but significant scale, students and faculty members began an open and honest discussion on the issues of drugs and alcohol, a discussion fortuitously reinforced by the timely appearance of the now annual Freedom from Chemical Dependency Program on the campus.

By the week of the Andover-Exeter athletic contest, student leaders had school morale up once again with two spirited rallies, and the night before the football game, well after the final rally, there was a special surprise: a late-night, all-school run around the campus - instigated and led, to everyone's astonishment, by the Headmaster himself. He had warned us we would have some fun this year.

But the roller-coaster was destined soon to come down again: senior leaders confronted the Deans and Headmaster with demands that the prom be held off-campus rather than on, as the administration had insisted the previous year, citing excessive costs and safety. Ensuing negotiations resulted in a compromise plan, with student leaders charged with holding costs down and meeting guidelines. However, within a month the students suddenly reversed their position and committed themselves enthusiastically to an on-campus, affordable prom, and threw themselves into choosing a location and generating excitement. Morale was back up again.

Not for long, of course. Like anything else, fun gets tedious if sustained. The end of the winter term saw several dismissals for drug and alcohol violations, these despite the vastly improved student-faculty communication on drugs and alcohol, and a real sense of progress. Spring vacation came just in time.

If time flies when you're having fun, the spring term must have seen a restoration of fun - and it did. The weather was benign, Frisbies swirled relentlessly on the Great Lawn, athletic teams prospered, the Blue Key staged a lively Abbot Bazaar, and seniors in large numbers ganged up to renovate Abbot's Draper Hall dining room and courtyard for what would prove to be the prettiest and most popular Senior Prom in PA's history.

The spring term also raised some important issues and showed us we need to make faster progress in key areas. The Headmaster appointed a student faculty group early in the term to generate some concrete proposals for improving the pace of life at PA, and several proposals have been adopted for next year, not without controversy. Our Co-ed Study Committee delivered a preliminary report which congratulated — and admonished — us. And our Af-Lat-Am seniors offered the community constructive and invaluable criticism on our accommodation of minorities.

My final year of six as Dean of Residence was one of ups and downs in residential matters. I now look forward to a sabbatical leave and the able succession of Jonathan Stableford '68, Instructor in English and the former Dean of West Quad South Cluster. If the serious times of this last year depressed us, they at least led to issue-confrontation, reflection and self-evaluation, progress which Jonathan undoubtedly will carry forward with great style. Mercifully, we were able to balance those serious times with the most fun we have had in years. □

A total of 2886 applicants sought 456 places for the 1985-86 academic year, a clear signal that admission to Andover remains very competitive; Phillips Academy is a much sought-after environment. Although these figures represent a 7% decrease in applicants as compared with the previous year, our peer institutions experienced a similar drop. An even clearer signal of strength is the fact that 74% of those admitted chose Andover, a higher yield figure than that of any of our competition. Of the enrolling students 43% are female and 57% are male, statistics similar to those of previous years and approximating their respective representation in the applicant pool. Of this year's matriculants 50% prepared at public schools, 38% at private schools, and 12% at military, foreign, or parochial schools, again a similar division to recent years. Of our applicants, 15% were alumni affiliated; 38% of them were accepted, compared to 22% of all applicants. Of the 456 matriculants, 170 (37%) are children or relatives of alumni and alumnae.

The Admissions Office was delighted to see the rich dividends of a repeat of the fly-back program, voted by the Board of Trustees for the second time this year, to bolster the yield of accepted black and Hispanic students. Thirty-five admitted minority students who had not visited the campus were flown back with their parents or teacher for a close look at Andover and its programs. This year, 27 of the 35 admitted students who came for a visit chose to accept our offer, bringing total black and Hispanic enrollment for 1985-86 to 117, or about 10% of the student body.

We take special pride in noting that, once again, we were able to award financial aid to every qualified student admitted, thanks to the generosity of a large number of alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of Andover. In 1985-86, $3.1 million has been awarded in grants, student loans and parent loans. Of the student body 38% is receiving this aid; 74 students hold full scholarships. The 6% increase in boarding tuition (from $9200 to $9700) enables Andover to remain one of the least expensive and most accessible boarding schools in the country.

To produce such an exceptional group of young people requires the hard work, dedication and enthusiasm of the admissions staff, the faculty and the thousands of alumni, alumnae, and friends - "kid people" as I like to call them - who discover and encourage these applicants. The Hardy House staff and faculty interviewers welcome some 8000 visitors to Phillips Academy each year. In addition, admission officers traveled from Montreal to Miami, and New York to Los Angeles, to talk with prospective students and their families.

A strong corps of Admissions Representatives makes interviewing of candidates possible in cities and remote areas around the world. John DiClimente, better known by most as "Deke," retired this past year as the coordinator of the Admissions Representatives, a service he has provided to the office since his retirement from the faculty a decade ago; we all owe him special thanks for initiating and leading a program which has proved to be vital to the success of the Admissions Office.

On July 1, I handed the reins of this office to Jeannie Ford Dissette, who assumes the duties of Dean of Admissions. One of her special accomplishments as Associate Dean of Admissions at the University of Pennsylvania was broadening the applicant pool. As lucky as we are at Andover to have a very broad range of applicants, we continue to seek increased exposure as a national resource for all students from all backgrounds. After 33 years on the Phillips Academy faculty, with a leave to serve as Founding Trustee of Outward Bound, I depart a dedicated advocate of youth and honored to have worked with the distinguished community of Andover alumni. □

Report of the Director of Athletics

Paul Kalkstein '61

This was a noisy year in athletics at PA, and the noise resounded both on and off the playing fields.

The first sound was a sort of creak, as a new administration strove to continue the outstanding work of Shirley Ritchie, who retired as Assistant Director of Athletics after 35 years at Abbot and Phillips Academies, and, Joe Wrennik '52, who rotated out of the directorship after seven years. As fall sports gathered momentum, we heard familiar sounds: thudding soccer balls; pok, pok from Rafferty Fields, new home of an expanded field hockey program; grunting, sweaty linemen; pad, pad, pad as through the Sanctuary raced our cross-country teams, both destined for New England Championships.

For most Andover teams, 1984-85 was a successful year. Our overall winning percentage was 64.1%. Special honors went, as usual, to Sherm Drake's girls' soccer team, which was the dominant New England power and won the Andover-Exeter Invitational Tournament. Our boys' and girls' cross-country teams, drilled hard by El Sykes and Bob Burnham '76, brought both top trophies back from the Interscholastics at Hotchkiss. In the winter, the boys' and girls' track teams both won the Interscholastic meet at Moses Brown School. Tom Hodgson's boys' basketball team had the best record since 1977, 12-5, while the girls were dominating their eastern opposition. The spring's strongest performances were turned in by the golf team, coached to 13-3 by Dave Graham, and the baseball team, which finished at 12-6. Coach Hale Sturges stepped down after this season, his sixteenth as skipper of the pinstripers and one of the best.

Varsity teams provided only part of the noise all year long. Students participated in enthusiastic intramural competition among clusters. The search and rescue program, aerobics, jogging and fitness, forestry, dance, and recreational cycling, all generated a healthy clamor across campus.

Andover helped to make some off-the-field news in athletics as well. Last July Don McNemar convened the Headmasters and Athletic Directors from Andover, Choate Rosemary Hall, Deerfield, Exeter, Lawrenceville, and Northfield Mt. Hermon at Phelps House to consider a proposal about athletics. As enunciated by Northfield Headmaster Richard Unsworth, the proposal said in part:

We admire the increasing quality of athletic offering that is a commonplace today, but we frankly resent the external pressures that sometimes drive our programs. We have grave reservations about the question of balance between interscholastic athletics and other aspects of our educational programs, and particularly about the amount of time in the school week that is given over to certain of the varsity sports practices and games. We endorse the long and generally healthy rivalries that animate sports contests between our schools, but we are deeply troubled by the violence that is tolerated as normal in some sports.

The six Headmasters signed a document that limits contests to two per week; limits midweek travel; eliminates pre- and post-season play (except for one "championship event"); bans athletic scholarships; examines yearly the number of post-graduate athletes in the various sports; and suspends "for part or all of the season" any player who is expelled from a contest for unsportsmanlike conduct.

What was Andover's position on this proposal? Both the Headmaster and the Athletic Director wholeheartedly endorsed it. More than that, we drew encouragement from the fact that the agreement would draw other schools into principles and practices that were already in place at Andover. Our practice times are clearly limited by our daily schedule, and a vigilant Faculty Athletic Committee oversees our interscholastic scheduling. We have never awarded athletic scholarships; our relatively few post-graduate students are highly qualified academically.

Subsequently, the proposal was signed by the Headmasters of Hotchkiss and St. Paul's. Now known as "The Eight School Agreement," it has been circulated to the heads of other independent schools who have received it with approbation.

Our athletic program, and those at like-minded schools, demonstrate that the boarding school environment is a good one to nurture a love for sports and a healthy competitive atmosphere. To that end athletics remain central to Andover's educational endeavors — noisy though they may be. □

The campus of Phillips Academy continues to represent one of our most treasured assets. Its beauty is not only a source of pride on a daily basis for those of us lucky enough to work here, but distinguishes Andover as a unique environment for learning. Beneath the lawns and within the buildings which comprise the school lies a complex network which supports a variety of educational opportunities, in addition to the light and heat required every day. That network is physical and refers not only to cables and pipes, but, more importantly, to people. The outstanding staff at Andover in our offices and departments guarantees that Phillips Academy remains a leader in secondary education.

A major change this past year in the administrative organization within the Office of Physical Plant (O.P.P.) combined supervision of custodial care of buildings with that of grounds. This arrangement largely centralized the coordination of the responsibility for day-to-day upkeep of the whole plant that began a few years ago when care of the athletic facilities was brought under O.P.P. The efficiencies produced through the more versatile utilization of personnel become progressively evident.

When faced with increasing demands of major renovation and rebuilding, O.P.P. responded by creating a team of carpenters, plumbers, electricians, masons, and painters as a first-class construction crew. Their initial involvement in the gutting and rebuilding of Eastman House resulted in that structure's evolution from a rooming house for Commons workers, who no longer required such a facility, to two handsome faculty apartments. With the reputation earned for that effort, the crew was drafted in the last two years for major remodeling and construction in Phelps house, and other faculty homes; the conversion of Baronial, a former Abbot recreation room, into a faculty apartment; and, in the aftermath of the Chapin House fire, a new student wing in Williams Hall.

The dedication in June of the A. Graham Baldwin Cloister in the basement of Cochran Chapel represented the crowning of another major renovation by the O.P.P. team. The transformation of a dismal basement area into a welcoming facility for quiet reflection, conversation and group gatherings, required some outside assistance due to time pressures; the rebuilding of Chapin House into faculty apartments and the refurbishing of a part of Morton House to serve as the home of Jeannie Dissette, the new Dean of Admissions, became their chief responsibilities this past summer. All of these efforts were in addition to answering the myriad routine maintenance needs of over 180 buildings.

John Barry, the new Director of Grounds and Services, with counsel from the Arnold Arboretum began a major revitalization of the grounds. Lawns received special attention to help them survive the normal wear and tear by students. Trees also needed an inordinate amount of care, particularly the elms which continue their struggle to survive.

The costly but essential replacement of the electrical distribution system began with the burying of large concrete vaults at strategic points on campus. Conduits will join these vaults carrying new electrical circuits to replace the old, some dating back to before 1925, providing present and future communications links among the many buildings and addressing audio, video, and computer needs.

George A. Neilson, Jr.

The Board of Trustees voted to establish two major new benefits for staff and faculty. For the first time next year, staff may take advantage of tuition remission allowing their children, once admitted, to attend Phillips Academy at a greatly reduced cost, as do the children of faculty. Additionally the Board established a plan to help faculty finance real estate at a rate comparable to that of mid-term treasury issues. Although this is most helpful to faculty, it is done at no cost to the Academy investment income.

Finally, it is with great appreciation and sadness that we accept the retirement of Michael Mosca, whose good counsel this office has enjoyed since 1966. As Director of Accounting, Mike provided a behind-the-scenes leadership which ensured the smooth progress of a complex school undergoing monumental change during the past 19 years. □

We are pleased to report financial results for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1985.

Operating Results

Fiscal year 1984-85 concluded with a surplus of $93,948, on a total operating cost of $19,270,285. Expenses were 8% over the prior year, with Financial Aid and Administration costs being slightly greater than the average. Utilization of computers, both for educational and administrative purposes, is expanding, with a necessary cost increase. In the Physical Plant expenses, we continue to conduct energy conservation measures ($400,000 in each of the last two years), and upgrading of the electrical facilities. Instructional costs, representing 37% (excluding benefits) of the total expense, include the following items:

Instruction salaries and departmental expenses	$4,171,570
Food service	1,372,992
Support functions (Library, Infirmary, Graham House, Chaplaincy)	713,056
Athletics	618,159
Residency & social activities	147,172
TOTAL	$7,022,949

Income from endowment and annual gifts to income exceeded the prior year, the latter reflecting a significant gain in annual giving from alumni and parents. Other income includes $273,605 from the successful operation of the 1984 Summer Session.

Tuition and Financial Aid
Tuition and financial aid remain top priorities of the Board of Trustees. One of the Board's major long-range goals is to maintain the tuition at as low a rate as possible, commensurate with providing a quality educational program. The boarding rate of $9,200 in 1984-85 was an increase of only $300 (3.4%) over the prior year, and the rate of $9,700 for 1985-86 is only 5.4% greater. Both years' rates compare very favorably with other comparable residential schools:

Choate	$10,300	$11,100
Rosemary Hall
Groton	10,200	11,000
Northfield	10,000	10,800

Exeter	9,500	10,200
St. Paul's	9,300	9,900
Andover	9,200	9,700

Another goal is to continue providing the opportunity for qualified youth to study at Andover regardless of their families' economic backgrounds, as we seek to maintain a diverse student community. Accordingly, total financial aid (both grants and loans) increased 8% to $2,777,000 in 1984-85, with 37% of the students receiving some form of assistance.

Scholarships	$2,124,488	$2,359,408
Loans	437,150	417,975
Total	$2,561,638	$2,777,383
Students served/of total	437/1209	451/1213

A 5-year comparison of the tuition boarding rate plotted with the average amount of financial assistance received by students reflects an increasing percentage of

to all Andover students is $4,700, against the average annual cost per student of $13,500.

The Endowment and its Investment

Market Value of the Endowment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $112,961,432 at June 30, 1985, compared with $92,267,691 one year ago. The increase in the endowment was due to the following factors:

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 17.9% during the fiscal year — from 1132.4 at June 30, 1984 to 1335.5 at June 30, 1985 — reflecting a similar percentage increase in our stock portfolio. A comparison of types of investments indicates a slightly higher equity position at the June '85 year-end.

Investment Performance and Objectives

This June 30 marked the second full year of performance by the three equity and one fixed income primary managers. The overall total rate of return for this 2-year period has been 20.1%, which is better than our long-term stated objective "to earn at least 5% real average annual rate of return." Continued evaluation of the investment managers is done by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The Trustees recently adopted a spending policy: to utilize income from the endowment at a rate of between 4% and 6% of average market value. The $5,964,000 amount of income "availed of" in 1984-85 falls within this policy.

Investment Performance: Income Earned by the Endowment

The total income earned, and availed of, on the invested endowment assets was as follows:

	1983-84	1984-85
General investments	$5,567,067	$5,932,587
Special investments and those held by outside trustees	610,404	758,236

Land, buildings and equipment owned by the Academy are not reflected in the balance sheets. Expenditures for plant are funded currently or on a deferred basis from current funds or other available funds. The historical cost of plant and equipment is not reasonably determinable.

As of June 30, 1985, pledges outstanding from prospective donors, for the Addison Gallery Campaign and the Bicentennial Campaign, totaled approximately $17,900,000. It is not practicable to estimate the net realizable value of such pledges, and they are not reflected in the balance sheets.

1984-85 Annual Giving Passes Two Million Dollar Mark

Alumni/ae and Parents Raise $2,026,802 from 8791 Donors

For the first time in the Academy's history, Annual Giving at Andover passed the $2,000,000 mark with 8791 alumni/alumnae and parents donating $2,026,802 to the Alumni and Parent Funds. This record-breaking total represents an increase of $318,413 or 19% over last year's dollars and more than $100,000 over the very ambitious goal set for the 1984-85 Annual Fund Campaign.

These figures represent another great stride toward the long-term goal of Annual Giving providing 10% of the operating budget of the Academy.

Alumni Fund

Alumni Fund Co-chairmen Clinton J. Kendrick '61 and Miriam Ganem Reeder '57 led another successful campaign and report a total Alumni Fund figure of $1,734,775 raised from 7543 Andover and Abbot Alumni, an increase of 16% or $238,000 over last year. The Chairmen again orchestrated a large volunteer effort of over 600 Head and Co-Agents, many recruited recently in an outright effort to personally contact as many of Andover's 19,000 alumni as possible. The effectiveness of the expanded volunteer structure is self-evident and the unprecedented growth of the campaign is the result of classmates contacting one another, encouraging support of their school.

Certainly instrumental in the success of this year's campaign was the expansion of the NON SIBI Associates with the institution of the NON SIBI Fellows and the NON SIBI Scholars. These leadership giving levels gave benefactors the opportunity to donate at the $5,000 or $10,000 level to support a scholarship student or a Teaching Fellow for the upcoming year. The response to this invitation was astounding and the three levels of leadership giving accounted for $1,121,161 or over one half of the total dollars raised this year. There are now more than 659 members of this program all donors of $1,000 or more, with 122 additional members this year.

Reunion giving from thirteen classes again spearheaded the 1984-85 drive. Thirteen reunion classes contributed $649,702 and Abbot giving continued to increase despite the fact that no new prospects have been generated in the eleven years since the merger. Another record-breaking dollar total, the largest in all of Abbot's fund-raising history, was tallied as 1120 Abbot women contributed.

Class Agents were also instrumental in promoting Corporate Matching options to classmates, this year producing $106,702 for the Alumni Fund with 175 companies matching 413 employee gifts to Andover. The average match was $258.

Co-chairmen Kendrick and Reeder will enter their fourth year of leadership with the 1985-86 Alumni Fund effort and are sure to direct another successful fund-raising effort for Andover.

During the year, the Office of Academy Resources was alerted by CASE (The Council for the Advancement and Support in Education) that the Phillips Academy Alumni Fund had been chosen as a finalist in its competition to honor independent secondary schools in a Sustained Performance Category for the 1985 U.S. Steel Alumni Giving Incentive Awards Program. Although Andover did not win the first place award, its designation as a finalist recognized the unusual increases in the number of Alumni Fund donors and dollars over the last four years. The Fund Chairmen and their extraordinary volunteers deserve credit for all they have done to merit this recognition for the Academy.

Parent Fund

The 1984-85 Parent Fund reported an astounding dollar total of $292,027 raised from 1248 current parents, past parents, and grandparents. The Fund soared past its stated goal by $52,000 and recorded a 38% increase in dollars over the previous year. Rod and Verena Cushman (parents of Stefan '87) in their first year of heading the Parent Fund effort enlisted the volunteer support of over 200 current parents on a regional basis to contact and encourage every family personally. The result was that donor numbers increased by 50 families and average gifts rose dramatically.

A special gifts committee under the co-chairmanship of Kevin J. Collins (father of Kevin '85) and Joseph D. Tydings (father of Eleanor '86) boosted the dollar total with 95 parents becoming NON SIBI Associates, Fellows, or Scholars, up 36 over last year. For the second year in a row, Karla Fink (mother of Cristina '82) led the Past Parent drive as 526 (up 14%) former Andover parents supported the effort in the amount of $60,244.

A new segment of the Parent Fund this year was the result of the formation of a Grandparents' committee. Under the chairmanship of alumnus Jack Ware '37 and his wife Jane (grandparents of Amy Harris '85) two hundred enthusiastic grandparents from around the country attended a very successful first Grandparents' Day in May. Many grandparents supported their PA grandchildren as well with gifts of over $10,000 for Annual Giving.

The Parent Fund like the Alumni Fund relies on the efforts of hundreds of volunteers. Such dedication to the school insures the continued success and growth of the Annual Giving at Andover. That growth provides Andover with the financial margin of flexibility necessary to maintain excellence in Andover's educational program.

Once again, high goals have been set for the 1985-86 Annual Giving Program. However past records indicate that Andover is indeed fortunate to possess a group

1984-85 REUNION GIVING

Once again, Reunion Class gifts were the cornerstone of the entire Alumni Fund effort. Thirteen reunion classes from the 5th to the 65th conducted special reunion gift efforts within the Alumni Fund and together contributed a significant portion (37%) of the overall campaign: $649,702.

As in years past, the 25th and 50th Reunion Classes led the fund-raising parade, conducting intensive campaign efforts culminating in the return to campus for the June festivities. At the Alumni Meeting, the Class of 1935 presented to the Headmaster a 50th Reunion check for $200,448, a startling all-time record. This gift was the result of over a year of all-out effort by a large committee headed by Fred Griffin, Gift Chairman, and Bob Cushman, Special Gift Chairman of Andover, and Ann Cutler Brecheen for Abbot. Phillips' gift participation reached 69% and Abbot 78% of class members. These numbers were matched by of dedicated volunteers and a strong, loyal corps of alumni/ae, parents and friends. Their generous response to meet the school's financial needs keeps Andover a national leader in education.

1984-85 PHONATHONS

Andover Phonathons continue to play an increasingly important role in the success of the Annual Fund effort. Phonathons were held in seven major cities during the 1984-85 campaign: Boston, New York, Washington, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and, for the first time, Chicago.

Another first was a college class phonathon held Thanksgiving Eve in Boston. The gathering was a great success with thirty phoners from the classes of 1980-1984 contacting classmates nationwide.

Up-Front Phonathons in Boston and New York during the Fall raised $75,000 in early pledges, launching the Annual Fund off to a quick start.

Alumni Spring Phonathons generated an additional $100,000 in pledges from 685 alumni and parents. Students enthusiastically raised over $30,000 in their Annual Spring Student Phonathon competition at Andover with over 150 students participating.

This Fall the 1985-86 Annual Fund will host Up-Front Phonathons in Boston and New York. The special college class phonathon will be held once again on Thanksgiving Eve. Dates are:

Boston	November 18 and 19
New York	November 25
Boston	November 27
(Classes 1981 - 85)

Again, special thanks must go to over 450 enthusiastic alumni, parent, and student phoners and to our hosts across the country who donate their facilities and make Andover Phonathons possible.

Norm Cross '35 accepts the award for highest Reunion attendance.

the outstanding attendance of the Class as 44% of alumni/ae from 1935 returned to campus and received the 1891 Silver Bowl for Reunion Attendance.

The Class of 1960 shared the limelight by presenting a 25th Reunion gift of $96,675. Ward Woods and Sally Furneaux Clark headed enthusiastic gift committees that assured the success of this year-long effort which drew 140 contributors, many in leadership categories.

Mention also should be made of three outstanding reunion records: Class of 1945 which raised $69,957 including 28 NON SIBI donors, Class of 1955 with $64,685, and Class of 1940 with $55,525. All three classes saw increases of over 100% in dollars and corresponding successes in participation.

Eight of the thirteen reunion classes set record dollar totals in honor of their reunions (see Reunion Giving chart). Reunion Gift Chairmen take on a large organizational effort and the results are inspiring. Each year records are established that challenge subsequent classes, and each year the "impossible" is accomplished with a great deal of hard work and loyalty on the part of volunteers and donors.

+ Improvement over last year

1985-86 ANNUAL GIVING GOAL IS $2,225,000

1985-86 Alumni Fund Aims High — Goal is $1,900,000 from 7800 Donors

Message to Alumni:

Once again we have seen a tremendously successful year for the Alumni Fund. Annual Giving in 1984-85 was within a half of a percentage point of reaching its long-range goal of providing 10% of the operating income of the Academy. Trustees continue to believe that reaching this 10% mark is essential. It is one way in which alumni can provide the school with the financial flexibility it needs to meet the challenges inherent in maintaining and enhancing its educational program. Our contribution will insure the educational leadership for which Andover has become renowned and from which we all benefit.

We have confidence that the Andover alumni body can aim toward yet another very ambitious level of support for 1985-86 — $1,900,000. This goal will bring us to 10% of the 1987-88 budget. It represents a substantial dollar increase over 1984-85, but we are sure the momentum of recent years will carry Alumni Giving toward this ambitious goal.

Once again this year, emphasis will be on increasing class participation. Last year 42% of alumni responded to our agents' calls. We feel that percent can very realistically be increased dramatically if each of us responds openly and generously when our class agent approaches. We also hope to recruit additional Non Sibi Associates, Scholars and Fellows and better our own record of 556 alumni leadership contributors.

We are now over 600 Head and Co-agents working diligently for Andover. Please make your agent's job an easy and rewarding one by welcoming his call.

Thank you for your very fine support in the past and for your continued loyalty in the future.

PAST GIVING TO THE ANDOVER ALUMNI FUND

Dear Parents:

Encouraged by the outstanding success of the 1984-85 Parent Fund, the 1985-86 Parent Fund goal has been set at $325,000, a dollar increase of 11 percent over last year's record-breaking total. The Present Parent goal will be $245,000, and the Past Parent goal $80,000.

Because of your generosity we have seen Parent Fund dollars double in just three years. The 1985-86 goal is ambitious, but with your continued support we can reach it successfully.

With our support, Andover has been able to continue to keep tuition low. Few parents realize that the actual cost to Andover per student is approximately $14,000 whereas tuition for a boarder is only $9,700 (for a day student $7,350). Your gifts help make up that difference.

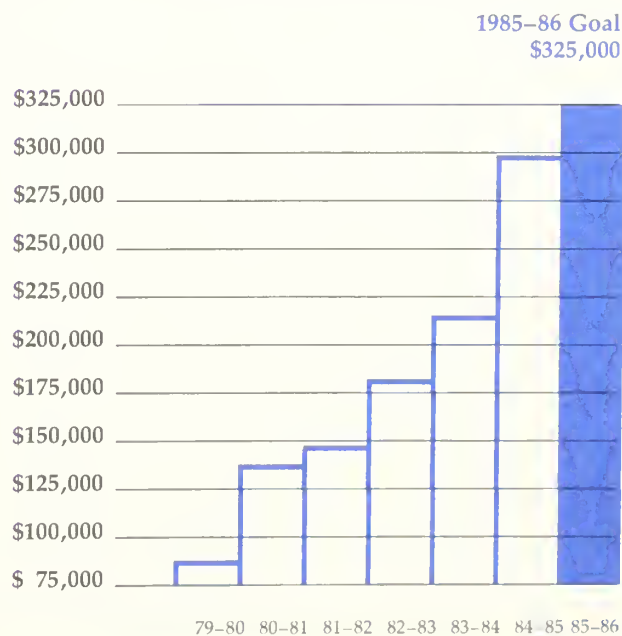

We hope you will continue your generosity and join us in achieving the 1985-86 goal!

PAST GIVING TO THE ANDOVER PARENTS FUND AND GOAL FOR 1985-86

1984-85 NON SIBI Fellows, Scholars, and Associates

NON SIBI giving to the Annual Fund has become a growing tradition at Andover. Each year a larger number of alumni, parents, grandparents, and friends recognize the increasing needs of the Academy and make a Non Sibi commitment. Non Sibi gifts accounted this year for more than half of Annual Giving dollars and provided the margin of flexibility necessary to meet the economic challenges of the school's programs.

NON SIBI Associates receive a commemorative glass as a gift for their support.

NON SIBI Fellows $10,000 and above

Non Sibi Fellows were introduced to recognize donors who support the school annually at this extremely generous level. Non Sibi Fellows may choose to have their gift support the special training of a Teaching Fellow at Phillips Academy for one year. Gifts at this level provide an opportunity to encourage fine young people to enter the teaching profession.

NON SIBI Scholars $5,000-$9,999

Non Sibi Scholars, also a new leadership giving level, were introduced this year in response to a growing number of such commitments annually. A donor of $5,000 or more can choose to underwrite a specific scholarship student and direct the gift toward support of a promising student in need of financial aid.

NON SIBI Associates $1,000-$4,999

Founded in 1981, the Non Sibi Associates membership now includes over 500 alumni, parents, grandparents, and friends.

Dear Past Parents:

1984-85 has been a record-breaking year for Past Parent giving. We have seen a 21 percent increase in monies raised, from $49,666 in 1983-84 to $60,244 this year. The number of donors has increased 14 percent, from 461 last year to 526 this year. In the three years that we have served as your Chairmen, this has been the most dramatic leap forward we have witnessed, taking us over our goal by $5,244. To all of you who responded so generously, our heartfelt thanks.

Dear Grandparents:

May 11, 1985 marked Andover's delightful first Grandparents' Day. In welcoming this new generation to the Andover family, Phillips Academy and its students recognized the distinctive contribution that grandparents make to the lives and education of youth from every quarter.

In May, Andover also established a Grandparent Fund. Between May and June 30, 19 grandparent donors contributed over $10,000. In 1985-86, the first active, full year of this new fund, we hope that many more grandparents will offer their generous support to their grandchildren's Academy.

Grandparents, of course, knew their grandchildren were wonderful even before the Andover Admissions Office confirmed it. We are happy that the Grandparent Fund offers a new way to reaffirm that conviction.

Matching Gifts to Andover up 22% from 1983-84

In 1984-85, alumni, alumnae, parents and friends designated $197,077 in matching gifts to Andover from 203 corporations and foundations. Compared to 1983-84, this represents a 22% increase in matching gift dollars and a 13% increase in the number of companies which matched gifts to Andover. Digital Equipment Corporation led the way in terms of numbers of employees designating matches to Andover, and once again, Atlantic Richfield Company gave the greatest amount of matching gift dollars to Andover. Matching gifts to the Annual Fund provide an important contribution to the Academy's operating budget supporting scholarships and faculty salaries. Other matching gifts doubled or tripled an employee's contribution to an endowed scholarship fund at Andover or to an academic program.

Corporations and Foundations Give to Andover Programs

Thirty-one corporations and foundations gave 34 new grants totaling $581,800 in 1984-85 for Phillips Academy programs and projects. Twenty of these grants support the (MS)² Program — Math and Science for Minority Students, now in its ninth consecutive year. (MS)² aims to address the underrepresentation of minorities in medical, engineering, and other science-based professions, through a three-summer program of intensive study in math, science, and English, which black, Hispanic, and native American students, most from major cities, enter in the summer following their ninth-grade year. The Urban Studies Institute, another Andover program, received four grants in 1984-85. In this four-year-old inter-community program based at Andover, students from Lawrence High School and Phillips Academy spend spring term studying problems and potential of cities in general and Lawrence in particular, with reference to the acculturation of immigrants, especially Hispanic, moving into Lawrence. Courses are taught at Phillips Academy, and field projects include tutoring elementary school children in neighborhoods with mixed populations. Grants received for other purposes include four grants for the Addison Gallery of American Art, three grants for scholarship funds, one to increase a student loan fund, one to support the Academy's computer program, and one to support planning for the renovation and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library.

Special Funds and Projects

The Andover Development Board

The Andover Development Board was established by the Board of Trustees in October 1984 for the purpose of continuing to raise endowment and capital support for Andover's future, without the need for a capital campaign. The Andover Development Board now has a membership of one hundred, including an Executive Committee of twenty members.

Led by Chairman R.L. Ireland

III '38, the Andover Development Board members held their inaugural meeting in conjunction with the spring meeting of the Board of Trustees, May 18 through 20, in Andover. They began an effort to attract major gifts to the Academy for a variety of ongoing capital needs, such as support for teachers and students, renovation projects for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library and for the theater program in George Washington Hall. At that inaugural meeting Headmaster Donald W. McNemar announced a $1,000,000 lead gift in support of the theater project from the Bernard Ristuccia family in memory of Elinor M. Ristuccia, parent of four Phillips Academy sons and grandmother of a current student. New scholarship endowments totaling $500,000 were also announced.

Andover Canadian Fund

Directors of the Andover Canadian Fund are delighted to announce the successful completion of their five-year effort to raise $150,000 for the Academy. Over 60 loyal alumni, alumnae, parents, and friends of Andover participated in this ambitious undertaking. Directors report that they are ready to grant their first scholarship to a deserving Canadian student.

This special fund will remain in place as the vehicle through which Canadian citizens may make donations to Andover from within Canada. Their donations will continue to augment the endowed scholarship fund to assist Canadian students at Andover.

The Andover Canadian Fund, Inc. is headquartered in Toronto, Ontario and was granted charitable status in 1979. Donors to Andover's Alumni or Parent Fund may make their donations to this Fund and receive tax deductibility as Canadian citizens as well as credit to the appropriate Andover Fund.

Special thanks go to the many members of the Andover community in Canada who have contributed to this fund, particularly those who responded to the $40,000 challenge, successfully completed this past year.

Directors of the Fund are: Anthony Bryant '64, President; Winslow Bennett '43; Britta Schein McNemar '56HF; James C. Taylor '56; Susan Waterous Wagg '56; Cecile Erikson Mactaggart '57.

The Donald H. McLean, Jr. Fund

Donald H. McLean, Jr. '28, President of the Board of Trustees from 1967 to 1981, died in September 1984. An endowment fund was established in 1977, in his honor, in recognition of his service to Phillips Academy and to other important elements of society. Many of his friends and colleagues chose to make gifts to the Academy in his memory during 1984-85.

The Joshua L. Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admissions

Joshua L. Miner III, a member of the Phillips Academy faculty from 1952 to 1985, with the exception of a tour of duty beyond the campus while organizing Outward Bound USA, retired in June. He served the Academy in many capacities, the final twelve years as Dean of Admissions. Richard Goodyear '59, Chairman, together with Malcolm MacNaughton, Jr. '57, Joseph P. Pellegrino '56, Donald L. Shapiro '53 and David R. Weaver '61, co-chairmen, are leading a large committee of Josh's devoted Phillips Academy friends to establish the Joshua L. Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admissions. Gifts and pledges have been received from those listed.

Since the founding of Phillips Academy more than 207 years ago, scores of alumni, alumnae, parents and friends have made provisions for the support of the Academy and its endowment through their estate plans. In fact, a portion of the endowments which established Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy originated in bequests — the oldest form of planned giving.

This important support has allowed Andover to build a fine endowment which provides funds for a variety of needs—general purposes, scholarships for deserving students, faculty and program support.

Today, the Office of Planned Giving at the Academy maintains an ongoing program designed to both encourage our alumni, alumnae, parents and friends to make planned gifts and to assist them in doing so. Federal tax laws provide many incentives for those who choose to support private education and a variety of planned gift vehicles enable a donor to take maximum advantage of these tax incentives. Planned gifts may take several forms—bequests; gifts which provide an income for life for the donor; gifts which provide an income for Andover and then return to the donor or heirs. In addition, planned gifts enable a donor to use a variety of assets—appreciated securities, real estate, life insurance, tangible personal property and closely-held stock.

The Academy's program is guided by the Andover Planned Giving Committee, a hard working group of volunteers whose names are listed below. Philip M. Drake '43, Planned Giving Chairman, reports 1984-85 as another banner year for planned giving with a total of $2,002,300 in new expectancies from 43 donors. By "expectancies" we mean the news from a donor that he or she has planned a future gift, either revocable or irrevocable, to Andover. Although it is not always possible to ascertain the amount of that gift, we do count both new donors and gifts and the value in current dollars, if available. Where a donor has indicated a range for the gift, we have counted the lowest value mentioned.

BENEFACTORS

The following is a list of those benefactors, now deceased, who included Phillips Academy in their estate plans, and from whose estates funds were received during the 1984-85 fiscal year:

Description of Funds

There follows a description of all endowment funds which have been established, increased, or changed in descriptions since June 30, 1984.

By vote of the Trustees, newly established endowment funds should be in the amount (at once or pledged) of $10,000 or more.

All other previously established funds are also listed, in name and book amount only.

Total Gifts from Alumni and Alumnae

Gifts to the Alumni Fund provide essential unrestricted income for the operating expenses of Andover every year. Since many alumni and alumnae choose to support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the Alumni Fund, we would like to acknowledge this major support with a listing of all cash gifts received by Andover during 1984-85, by class:

Report of the Headmaster: A Look at the Past Five Years

Five years ago Britta and I came to Andover to join the Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy traditions of offering an excellent education and encouraging young people to serve society. Since our arrival, those traditions have continued and have been strengthened; reflection on the past five years reveals much progress in virtually every aspect of this community.

Faculty

At the heart of the Andover education are the teachers dedicated to working with young people. We have been fortunate to be able to recruit outstanding men and women who are not only excited about their own subject matter, but enjoy working with young people, and are willing to engage in all aspects of the community life.

To encourage the finest faculty to join us and stay at Andover, over the past five years the trustees have established a number of programs including the child care center in Draper Hall, a mortgage program to assist faculty in securing personal homes, a loan program for the purchase of computers, and a faculty children's scholarship program to help faculty children attend other independent schools as well as Phillips Academy.

Although compensation for teachers remains dramatically below that of other professions, the salary increases for teachers at Andover have exceeded inflation in the last five years. Between 1981 and 1986 the consumer price index rose 18 percent while the average salary of the Phillips Academy faculty increased 29 percent. Even at $25,400 in 1985-86, the average faculty salary at Phillips Academy was among the highest in independent boarding schools; our most distinguished faculty after 20 years of service to Abbot or Andover earn less than $35,000. Likewise, we are trying to attract the best of the new young faculty with offers of $14,000. We have made great strides, but we have much yet to accomplish.

The Residential Community

Increasing emphasis is being placed on the importance of the residential side of the community along with the classroom. This emphasis requires reaffirming the critical role of house counseling. In the last five years the Academy has instituted a series of programs relating to health issues including drug and alcohol education, CPR training, programs on nutrition, and seminars on human sexuality. To recognize the importance of quality "teaching" in the dormitories, a special stipend now augments the salary of every house counselor.

As American teenagers form attitudes about alcohol, smoking, drugs, sexuality, and suicide, Andover has sought to provide programs which can help young people develop their own values so they can make wise choices about their own lives. In that context, we have stated the school's rules clearly. In the spring of 1986 after much community-wide discussion the faculty concluded that Phillips Academy should become a non-smoking campus and is taking a clear position on the health issues relating to tobacco, as well as drugs and alcohol.

Students

Phillips Academy today is truly a national, even international, high school in keeping with the constitution's charge to educate "youth from every quarter." The student body is a truly multicultural mix of young people who bring an enriching diversity economically, racially and geographically. For the past three years Phillips Academy has admitted all new students and then awarded the financial aid necessary to permit those students to attend the academy. This "needs blind" admission policy has required substantial increases in financial aid — scholarship grants will total over $3 million next year — to assure that all students selected for admission have an opportunity to attend regardless of their family's financial situation. Over the past five years the tuition has increased 35 percent while the financial aid budget has increased 57 percent; last year 35 percent of the student body received financial aid and 6 percent of the students, a total of 74, were granted full scholarships.

The trustees have also limited tuition increases to encourage a wide range of families to consider Phillips Academy. In 1981 the Phillips Academy tuition was in the middle of the seven large New England boarding schools with which we compare ourselves and in 1985-86 Phillips Academy's tuition was at the lower end of this group of schools. Low tuition is only possible through the wonderful support of alumni and parent annual giving and from the legacy of an increasing endowment. While the actual cost of educating an Andover student in 1985-86 was $14,700, the tuition was $9,700 so that all students in a sense are "on scholarship" through the support of the endowment and annual gifts.

Active recruitment by alumni and admission has enabled the academy to increase the number of talented Black and Hispanic young people studying at the school from 4.5 percent in 1981-82 to 10 percent in 1985-86.

Last year's student body was drawn from 41 states within the United States and from 15 foreign nations. The Kemper Scholars Program which honors John Mason Kemper, the eleventh headmaster, brings students from many different countries to campus each year. Since 1980 we have had three students from the Harbin Institute in the People's Republic of China studying at the academy each year. The Andover-Harbin exchange now permits five Phillips Academy students to study Chinese at Harbin each summer.

This summer we broke new ground in establishing an exchange with a high school in Novosibirsk in the Soviet Union. The Andover-Novosibirsk exchange is the first ever between an American and a Soviet high school. In September 1987 ten students and one teacher from Novosibirsk will come to Andover and a similar group of Andover students who have studied the Russian language for a least two years will attend the high school in Novosibirsk for four to six weeks.

The Campus

The beauty of the campus which Thomas Cochran and Charles Platt designed on Andover Hill remains a striking asset of the academy today. The process of plant renewal, postponed during the high inflation period of the 1970s, is now well underway. In January the trustees reserved $3 million to initiate the systematic renovation of dormitories, classroom buildings, and faculty homes on campus over the next five years.

The trustees identified three major capital projects, two for which we are now seeking funding through the Andover Development Board. The first is the renovation and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. At the May 1986 meeting of the Development Board an effort was launched to raise $9.85 million for construction, computerization, and endowment for the programs at the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. We hope to begin construction in the spring of 1987.

Second, the renovation of George Washington Hall will provide an improved theater, renovated administrative offices, and a uniting of student offices and activities under one roof. This project is launched with a pledge of $1 million by Bernard J. Ristuccia and his family to create the theater center in honor of his wife, Elinor M. Ristuccia.

Finally, the trustees have outlined a set of guidelines for the development of the Abbot Campus and are currently talking with potential developers who may be interested in a leasing arrangement. The guidelines encourage preserving the main buildings through renovation and maintaining a campus atmosphere consistent with the academy and surrounding community.

Support

The achievement of these important priorities of supporting outstanding teaching, of encouraging a diverse student body, and of maintaining a beautiful campus have been possible only through the generous support of alumni, parents, and friends who believe in the school and its mission in the service of youth. The total of gifts received in 1980-81 was $4.2 million and has nearly doubled in five years to $8.2 million.

From 1981 to 1986 the annual fund increased from just under $1 million ($960,000) to $2.3 million — a one hundred-forty percent increase in total dollars raised. This represents as well an increase from 6 percent to 10 percent of the annual budget of the academy which has permitted us to make such important progress. These five years have included the campaign for the Addison Gallery and the successful raising of over $5 million to assure the continuing excellence of this important collection of American art and its availability to the students of Phillips Academy and to the public. The Andover Development Board was inaugurated in the spring of 1985. This group of 100 alumni and parents who are loyal and active supporters of Phillips Academy has launched a program to raise endowment funds for support of teachers, scholarships, and physical plant as well as the funding for specific capital projects such as the library and George Washington Hall. When the Development Board held its second meeting in May of 1986 the board announced that funds raised by its members during the last twelve months totaled over $ million in pledges and gifts.

Endowment

Finally, the endowment of Phillips Academy increased from $82 million on June 30, 1981 to $143 million on June 30, 1986. A combination of careful management, judicious spending from endowment income, and significant new gifts to endowment have accomplished this growth. The income availed of each year as a percent of current market value has declined from 7.5 percent in 1981-82 to 5.6 percent in 1985-86. The growth and preservation of the endowment assures the on-going availability of the educational opportunities of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy.

The continuing commitment of alumni and parents who believe in Phillips Academy has made possible great progress towards the goals established by the trustees of the academy. Gifts to the annual fund and the establishment of endowed funds to perpetuate scholarships and instructorships assure that Phillips Academy will continue to play a very special role in serving young people in the 1980s. To have watched such extraordinary progress unfold over the past five years underscores the energy and enthusiasm which, Britta and I have discovered, characterizes the entire Phillips Academy community. □

Peter Q. McKee

Toward the end of the commencement exercise for the Class of 1986, I was standing on the steps of the Addison Gallery watching the diploma distribution ceremony in the huge circle of seniors on the Great Lawn. Standing next to me was a young woman who had just completed her first year at Andover as a biology teacher, crew coach and house counselor. She commented that she found the range and depth of opportunity afforded our students a source of both wonder and awe; I agreed, thinking that it usually takes a new pair of eyes to help the more seasoned among us on the faculty really see how extraordinary those opportunities are, both for students and faculty.

For faculty, working with a diverse group of bright teenagers and committed colleagues is a large part of that opportunity, but there is much more: a sabbatical program, two in a lifetime with full pay; tuition grants for summer study; Kenan grants and Abbot Academy Association grants which empower teachers to take on a project which fosters personal and/or professional growth; travel and study for foreign language teachers, and even physicists. During the faculty's trip to the Soviet Union last summer the chance to speak with two of my Soviet colleagues in physics brought into sharp focus how very fortunate we are at Andover.

One physicist in Tbilisi lamented the Soviet educational system. Every grade in every part of that country must be doing the same thing each day of the year and this system extends to courses in college and graduate school as well. The system enables students to move from one part of the country to another and always to fit into the classroom with a minimum of trauma, but this physicist implied that the system is stultifying, the pace is slow and it does not allow for innovation. If a teacher does not follow the prescribed syllabus, he or she is breaking the law he added, "I have to break the law every day, especially in my graduate courses."

From further talks with this same man, it became evident that the Soviet Union does not turn out many more physicists than does the U.S.A. More students take more science in the Soviet Union, but that does not make them scientists.

Another experience at the observatory outside of Erevan illustrated a surprising independence among Soviet astronomers. The observatory was attached to the University of Erevan and had a complement of some 88 astronomers. The site was on a hill high above the city and I counted about a dozen domes, the largest of which housed a four meter reflecting telescope. After a brief lecture by the assistant director, our group went to the building housing the largest telescope. Elaine Adams, (teacher of chemistry, physics and astronomy) and I began a conversation about cosmology with the assistant director. It was remarkable. He disclaimed most accepted cosmological theories such as "the big bang" and "black holes" and blamed the theoreticians in Moscow for perpetuating their existence. "Only in Moscow do they have black holes," he said.

I considered the differences in our theories, our independence, and our environments — we may not be able to count 88 astronomers, but the Course of Study booklet describes more than 250 trimester and yearlong courses, including six modern and two ancient foreign languages, most of which may be studied through the fifth or sixth year. The athletic program boasts 24 fall sports, 27 winter sports and 27 spring sports. There are 39 active clubs. Community service has become more the norm than the exception among our uppers and seniors. Last year the Headmaster's Symposium on the U.S.S.R. and the Friday Forum brought speakers and guests throughout the year. Off campus opportunities abound: School Year Abroad in France and Spain; an exchange term in Madrid, Antibes or Paris; a six week summer program of study and travel in the People's Republic of China; spring term as an intern in a congressman's office in Washington; fall term at the Mountain School in Vermont; and finally, soon, the opportunity to spend some time in Siberia.

The opportunities continue to grow. As graduation wound to a close, my young colleague and I agreed that, among all the gifts we enjoy as Andover faculty, the best is the opportunity to teach and learn from a magnificent group of talented young people. □

We have enjoyed a banner year in the Office of Academy Resources. 1985-86 marks a significant point in our progress in creating opportunities and meeting the challenges we face in our immediate future. Total support for the school this year neared $11 million, almost 40% more than the previous year. We owe profound thanks to hundreds of volunteers for such an achievement.

The Board of Trustees announced clearly its expectations of the Office of Academy Resources, and as clearly demonstrated its support. New computer software and hardware are being installed and the office size increased in both staff support and space. Such expansion is essential to the creation of sixteen new endowed faculty positions, thirty full scholarships, and renovation of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, George Washington Hall, and the outdoor track.

The Andover Development Board, the group of volunteers commissioned to advise the trustees on how best to meet the academy needs, kicked off its first full year with great enthusiasm and success. Commitments to the academy for endowment of scholarship, teaching chairs and programs; renovation of campus buildings; and all other purposes, exclusive of annual giving, exceeded $8.5 million. We are well on the way to breaking ground for the renovation of Oliver Wendell Holmes Library within the next twelve months, as scheduled.

The planned giving arm of our development program has gained considerable momentum. We are pleased to recognize those alumni, parents, and friends who have chosen to include the academy in their estate plans through the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society. Foundation and corporation support has also been a major focus of the academy development work, resulting in substantial increases to support programs like (MS)² and with heightened awareness of matching gift potential.

During this past school year one hundred ten publications projects have been successfully completed, including three issues of the Andover Bulletin, the alumni magazine which continues to be recognized with honors.

There has been continuing growth in attendance at alumni reunion weekends in early June; in 1986, more than twelve hundred alumni and family members for the classes ending in one and six attended.

The one program where we have more volunteers at work and the most number of participants with treasure, is the area of annual giving. Five years ago the trustees announced their expectation that annual giving would reach a level of 10% of the following year's operating budget. This year has seen that five year campaign come to a successful conclusion, which you can read about in detail in succeeding pages of this report. Annual giving supports scholarship and faculty needs, students and teachers, the lifeblood of the academy.

A final word of thanks to a small and special group of people about to retire from significant volunteer roles. Frances Young Tang '57 and Richard D. Lombard '49 have completed four-year terms as elected alumni trustees; they are succeeded by Kate Sides Flather '59 and George Bundy Smith '55. Cynthia Eaton Bing '61 completed a two-year term as alumni trustee and president of alumni council. She is succeeded by Rodney L. Goldstein '70. Finally, Clinton J. Kendrick '61, who together with his co-chair Miriam Ganem Reeder '57 led the annual giving effort to victory for those important five years, completed his term as trustee co-chair of the alumni fund. He is succeeded by Miriam Ganem Reeder.

Joseph C. Mesics '53

A special word of thanks to the four retiring trustees, whose service has been so valuable in support of the Office of Academy Resources, and a strong welcome aboard to the four successors.

With the support of the trustees, both new and continuing, and from all of our marvelous volunteers whose efforts are directed toward resources for the academy, I am confident that Andover will continue to have many years ahead for which we can all be thankful. Leadership in secondary school education is not possible without the strong assistance of devoted alumni, parents and friends. Such generous gifts of time and treasure will lead us with vigor and enthusiasm in meeting the challenges ahead. □

K. Kelly Wise

We devoted much of this year to recruitment, evaluation, and faculty housing. The most gratifying results of that devotion are our thirty-seven new faculty, 28 full- and 9 work part-time. This year we made a significant effort to hire a number of women with long-term teaching experience and are delighted that over 45% of the new faculty are female. The other crucial success fell in the area of minority recruitment. By redoubling our efforts and recruiting from colleges and universities in the Midwest as well as in New England, we were able to hire nine new minority faculty who will be working in the admission, Chinese, Spanish, history, math, and athletic departments. In addition, we have beefed up our Teaching Fellow Program, now in its 30th year, by hiring 14 recent graduates from colleges to serve one year on the faculty. Except for the teaching fellows, most everyone hired this year has received at least a Master's degree. Eight have completed or are in the process of completing their Ph.D.'s.

This year we conducted formal evaluations of 33 faculty members. Better than 90% came off with stellar marks; those few who didn't were asked to explore opportunities for improvement and were informed that another appraisal of their performance would occur next year. We continue to believe in the efficacy of the evaluation system. It allows the administration and academic chairpeople to praise and sustain a vital faculty.

We came up with a dire shortage of faculty housing. Fortunately, the trustees voted the funding of a three-year housing program, part of which includes construction of additional teaching fellow apartments in present dormitory structures, an effort to increase the faculty coverage in our residential clusters.

The Phillips Academy faculty continues to distinguish itself off campus. This year, Theatre Department Chairman Kevin Heelan won the highly coveted HSC Regional Award in the Foundation of the Dramatists Guild/CBS New Plays Program. His play, "Distant Fires," was performed for a month at the Hartford Stage. History Instructor Anthony Rotundo received a Rockefeller grant to finish a book about the history of American manhood in the 19th century. Margaret Gibson and David McKain, writers-in-residence, completed works begun at Andover; McKain, an autobiography titled Windfall: Growing Up in the Alleghenies, University of Pittsburgh Press; Gibson, a new book of poetry, Memories of the Future, the Daybooks of Tina Modotti, Louisiana State University Press. English Instructor Bruce Smith also published a new book of poems, titled Silver and Information, University of Georgia Press.

As in the past, a number of foundation chairs were awarded: English Instructor David Cobb (Elizabeth Milbank Anderson Foundation); Language Division Chairman Hale Sturges (Frederick W. Beinecke Foundation); Director of the Work Program and English Instructor Carroll Bailey (Frederick W. Beinecke Foundation); History Instructor Frances Taylor (Lumpkin Family Bicentennial Instructorship); and English Instructor Louis Bernieri (John H. Porter, Jr. Bicentennial Instructorship). In addition, we honored four teaching fellows for outstanding service: Charles Hoummard (music department); Patricia Russell (biology department); Masha Reichert (Russian department) and Mark Rothman (English department.)

Jeanne Amster, dean of studies, is going on leave of absence for two years to complete her doctorate in education at Harvard University. Frank Eccles '43 has assumed her role as dean. Others assuming new academic responsibilities include Lydia Goetze, chairman of the biology department; Diz Bensley, chairman of the art department, Tim Dempsey, director of financial aid and assistant director of computing; Nancy Brother, director of academic counseling program; Joe Wennik, college counselor; Pamela Brown, dean of Pine Knoll Cluster; Pete Joel, dean of Rabbit Pond Cluster; and Stephen Carter, associate dean of studies and scheduling.

With these faculty additions, the breaking of ground for our new library renovation, and key committees examining faculty workload and creative ways to renovate George Washington Hall, 1986-87 promises to be a full and rewarding year.

Throughout 1985-86 we thought deeply about the nature of an Anglover education and the services we provide to young people. From the way our students enroll in courses to designing the library for the year 2000, fundamental changes are underway which dramatically improve the quality of daily academic life.

The focus of our work this year has been the expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. The entire process of developing the program, selecting the architect, working with the architectural firm of Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott, and completing the design phase involved teamwork among students, faculty, the library staff, the administration, and the Office of Physical Plant. This partnership of school and architect throughout an exhaustive design process yielded a design which we believe appropriately accommodates the program and the challenges of the site. In our expansion process we have sought to see the campus itself as an instrument of learning and to preserve the visions of Thomas Cochran and Charles Platt.

Last fall we replaced Arena Day with a computer-assisted scheduling program. Virtually every student in the school received all of his or her program choices and some of their teacher choices this year; this is in contrast to the former process where one-third of our students received everything they wanted, one-third had some choice, and one-third was left with little choice of course or teacher. We are very pleased with the results of our experiment and expect to refine the system in the coming years. We began to see the positive results of maintaining continuity of academic advisor in the cluster-based system as our academic advising program completed its third year. The combination of rigorous academic advising and continuity of relationship has allowed us to implement successfully the faculty guidelines which strengthen the integrity and coherence of our curriculum.

There is no question that the time has come for the faculty to explore the graduation requirements for Phillips Academy. Our current diploma requirements are only minimum standards, often surpassed during the upper-middle year. For three- and four-year students they include mathematics through precalculus, three years of a foreign language, three years of English, four terms of history, one year of laboratory science, and one term each of art, religion and philosophy, music, and physical education. The school's academic guidelines encourage depth, and all of our students do achieve greater depth in some areas. Over the next year the faculty will be studying the advisability of doubling the science requirement to two years and increasing the history requirement as well. We will need to see students as a whole and their education as a piece. It promises to be a vigorous exchange.

This year I step down as dean of studies and resume graduate work at Harvard University. In addition, David Penner steps down as scheduling officer and returns full-time to the mathematics department. David's work for nine years in the dean of studies office has been a model of fairness and creativity. His energy for student and faculty special requests, meticulous attention to detail, and kindness will be missed in our office. The math department regains a superior teacher. The office will continue to be anchored by Herbert Morton, the school registrar. Herb is an extraordinary figure who routinely handles hundreds of student, faculty, and administrative requests. If one of the true tasks of being a registrar is to educate countless deans who come and go, then Mr. Morton has proved a superior teacher.

The future of the academic and intellectual life of Phillips Academy is rich with promise. Whether it be reviewing the curriculum, or building for the future, the energy and vision are present, active, and creative. The last few years have been challenging and special for me, and I am sure my successor will enjoy the special gifts of working with generous colleagues and gifted students. □

Jonathan Stableford '63

With the dust settling on my first year as dean of residence I know that the term "residential life" is an enormous label that circles virtually all the activity at Phillips Academy. Although a fifth of our students return to their own homes at night and over half of our faculty live on the rim of the campus or beyond, the nature of the school day implies that we all live and work together in a close community of purpose and vision.

Acting on a recommendation from students and faculty, the cluster deans and student leaders began early in the fall to draft a model for a discipline committee which would improve procedural consistency across clusters but retain the flexibility to deal with students case by case. The model names five members to a discipline committee and insists that the members work to a consensus rather than merely take a vote on its decisions. Five of the six clusters were able to apply the new model in the first year, and the five deans and five cluster presidents indicate that the new system has worked well. The sixth cluster will join the majority in the fall of 1986.

The release of the report from the committee on coeducation drew issues of identity into focus. While it is clear that Andover has addressed the first decade of coeducation rather well, there are academic, athletic, and residential matters that deserve attention. Early in the year I began to take a close look at the six residential clusters, keeping an eye on their make-up by sex and noting that we have been increasing the female ratio in our student body by a percentage point per year over the previous four years. It was clear that it was time for a sex change for some dorms and a realignment in the clusters. The event of the large changes allowed us to create a dorm for junior girls based on the Rockwell model. Beginning in the fall of 1986 Nathan Hale East and West will address the special needs of some of our youngest students; as in Rockwell, senior proctors, recruited campus-wide, will advise and supervise the juniors.

During the past academic year the issue of fire safety suddenly dominated our attention. The issue arose first in the summer when the school's insurer expressed reluctance to continue our policy. Then, in mid-winter a small fire caused by careless student smoking broke out in a dormitory room. Although the fire was extinguished before it became a blaze, the potential for human and material loss was chilling. We began immediately to look more closely at fire safety, particularly at the hazards present in student rooms. In early spring the school's insurer made a surprise inspection and found that despite our efforts the decorations in some student rooms put the community at risk. They expressed their wariness about coverage. Immediately, we began massive clean-up with clear safety guidelines, using house counselors and administrators to inspect rooms. During the clean-up a second fire caused by careless smoking broke out in another dorm, again extinguished before serious damage. The stinging irony helped us win student support in our efforts to make the dorms safer.

We emerged from the year determined to begin the new year with an eye trained on safety. House counselors now conduct weekly inspections, and monthly school-wide reviews help maintain a standard of safety. Perhaps the most significant decision, however, was to ban student smoking from the dormitories altogether, beginning this fall. In its final meeting of the 1985-86 year, citing both safety and health, the faculty voted to end permission for student smoking altogether after a transitional year of "outdoor" smoking.

To some this may seem a year of "tightening up" in the area of residential life; to others it has been a year clarifying our identity. Whatever, the forces behind the changes have been an interesting combination of planned self-analysis and emergency imperatives. [

Report of the Dean of Admission

The four hundred and thirty-eight new students who will enter Phillips Academy this September come to us from forty states and eighteen countries. Selected from a slightly smaller but even more highly qualified group of applicants than in recent years, these young men and women bring to Phillips Academy abundant gifts, both personal and academic, as well as a willingness to share their talents with the Andover community. We were privileged to be able, once again, to make all admission decisions without reference to the applicants' financial circumstances; over one-third of the entering students will be receiving aid from our financial aid budget, which now exceeds three million dollars annually.

The proportion of boys to girls both in the applicant pool and among matriculating students shifted this year. Girls represent forty-nine per cent of the entering classes, six per cent more than last year. The male/female ratio of the entire student body will reach 54:46 this fall. The yield among admitted students, both boys and girls, was extraordinary: over seventy per cent of those students who were admitted to Phillips Academy chose to join us on Andover Hill. As in other years, students chose PA at a rate unequalled by our peer institutions.

Twelve per cent of our matriculants are the sons and daughters of alumni; thirty-seven per cent of the entering students are relatives or children of Andover/Abbot students or graduates. The admit rate for affiliated applicants was fifty-eight percent, over twice the overall admit rate.

We continue to take pride in the diversity of our entering students. Of this year's matriculants, fifty-five per cent prepared at public schools, thirty-four per cent at private schools and eleven per cent at foreign, military or parochial schools. Our black and Hispanic applications rose dramatically enabling us to admit twelve per cent more black and Hispanic students this year than last. This year over ten per cent of the student body, one hundred twenty-three students, is black or Hispanic. The continued success of the flyback program, voted by the Board of Trustees for the third time last year, was again essential to our success in convincing these young men and women to join the Andover community.

None of the accomplishments of the year would have been possible without the contributions of each individual member of the Hardy House team. Alas, we lost three members of our admission family. Jack McClement retired in May and will be sorely missed. No one can ever replace him, but we are more than fortunate to have Tim Dempsey as our new director of financial aid. A PA graduate (1976), Tim comes to us from the college counseling office; he will also serve Andover as assistant director of computing. Both Beth Moore '80 and Jim Ventre '79 left us to pursue careers in business. Rebecca Carr, a previous member of the PA admission staff, joined us after a successful sojourn from Dana Hall to the National Association of Independent Schools to the business world. Robert Edwards also joins us from DePauw University where he served as assistant dean of admission. Bob Hulburd also retired in May but we convinced him to stay with us half-time for one more year; Peter Drench, a new member of the history faculty, now fills the other half of Bob's position.

Jeannie F. Dissette

I conclude my first year as dean of admission dazzled by the quality of the Phillips Academy faculty and students, awed by the dedication of the Andover/Abbot alumni and even more fully convinced that Andover is indeed a national treasure. My immediate goals for the admission office include greater faculty involvement in the admission process and a revised application which will permit both a deeper and a richer knowledge of the personal and academic qualities of our applicants. We plan to enhance our travel across the country in order to share this national treasure, and build upon the foundation of diversity, from all standpoints, for which Phillips Academy has become justly renowned. □

Paul Kalkstein '61

At almost any hour from 5:00 a.m. (when students may leave their dorms) until sunset you are likely to see PA joggers on the roads, the paths, the track; and you cannot go into the weight room at any hour without seeing male and female bodies grunting and sweating their way into shape. If you are not a recent graduate, this may surprise you. But it is one of the signs of the new student body. Getting in shape — and staying there — is very much IN at Andover these days.

Roughly 44 per cent of PA students play an interscholastic sport in any given season, and these students are coming more and more to direct their own competitive successes. Of course, student leadership is nothing new at Andover.

As a new teacher at Andover in 1971 I enjoyed being part of Bob Hulburd's lacrosse staff. Bob was finishing a storied coaching career, and my assignment was to coach the attack players. Tim Callard coached the defense, Gil Leaf '59 coached the goalies, and Bob said, "All I do is roll out the ball." Nine years later I was able to coax Bob out of lacrosse retirement to "assist" me with the varsity boys' lacrosse team, and only now, six years after that, I know what he means about just throwing out the ball.

We did not have an abundance of coaches this past spring, just two, but at 2:00 each day when Bob and I arrived at the Siberia practice field, we found the practice under way. All the players had stretched out, and were playing four-on-three, a drill that emphasizes offensive passing and defensive sliding. As we watched, the drill changed, and other skills were being built. It was no accident that this team won the Northern New England Championship for the second time in three years, and defeated Exeter 7-3 in Bob's final appearance coaching Andover. The leadership in boys' lacrosse was not limited to the captain; other seniors had important parts, as did the underclassmen.

Nor is this a lacrosse phenomenon. As is the case throughout the school, our sports programs are blessed to have outstanding student leadership. The Athletic Advisory Board (captains of all our teams) consists of the strongest boys and girls at Andover. Ideally, of course, captains and coaches are complementary. Our teams continue, as always, to be coached by amateurs. More and more, however, the love of their sports has taken our coaches to expertise. Membership in coaching associations and clinic attendance has helped a great deal. Then, too, some of our coaches have had substantial college coaching experience.

The coaches and captains work for the players, and I am happy to note that more students are playing interscholastic sports each year than played the previous years. We continue to add sub-varsity teams wherever there is demand and reasonable competence. In past two years we have introduced additional lower level teams in field hockey, girls' soccer, boys' and girls' ice hockey, and girls' and boys' lacrosse.

Nor is our alumni/ae body left out of the surge in athletic activity. At reunions in June there were an astonishing number of contests in softball, stickball, soccer, and volleyball, in addition to the usual tennis matches. And the ninth annual 2.2 mile foot race attracted over 70 starters, by far the largest field for any regular reunion race. Randy Accetta '81 won it in 10:57. Can anyone top that? □

The past year, like those before it, brought forth new issues that keep his office from becoming complacent.

Insurance coverage and cost went from a buyer's to a seller's market. Normally, agents would be pushing to be assigned a carrier they could pursue to present a quotation. This produced several competitive offers in the past. This year saw one viable insurer for our casualty and liability coverage whose cost went from $41,000 to $96,000 with a deductible going from $1,000 to $25,000. Directors' and officers' coverage went from $10 million down to $5 million at a cost increase of over 400%. Still we considered ourselves lucky; some other schools were not able to get insurance at all.

The good news that offset insurance woes was the dramatic drop in oil prices over the heating year. In the fall we were paying almost $30 a barrel for heavy crude and in the spring $12.50. Considering we burn around 21,000 barrels, each dollar reduction has a serious impact on expenditure savings. In 1972-73, we were paying just over $4 a barrel and burning 47,000 barrels. If the average price even goes to $23, we will be paying no more for heating, in constant dollars, than was our cost in 1972-73. We continue to pursue energy conservation measures even though the lower oil price does not afford as fast a payback. A matching federal grant of $114,000 is helping us to develop more cogeneration capability with the prospect of selling excess electricity back to the public utility. The Environmental Protection Agency has allowed us to burn higher sulphur content oil for a period of two years. The savings from using this less expensive crude are to be used in more permanent energy savings measures.

Another piece of bright news has been the performance of academy investments. The comptroller includes the details in his report but the investments' impact on spending policy has been a real boost toward goals of low tuition, substantial financial aid, and competitive salaries, all within a balanced budget.

Our Office of Physical Plant continues in the construction business. The Williams Hall barn was converted to a dormitory and faculty apartment and the Chapin barn to a residence. Interior remodeling of other buildings has produced new student and faculty space.

Despite all our progress our attention turned inward at the end of the year to the staff and one member's family in particular. Donald Naylor, a member of the OPP team since 1979 and the overseer of PA's electrical modernization, died tragically in an electrical accident on June 12. The details of the accident remain under investigation. What is clear is that Don Naylor, for his loyalty, generous spirit, and deep kindness, will be sorely missed in this community.

As the baton in this department is passed, reflections of fourteen years become inevitable. Although erased by subsequent surpluses, the first year in that span saw a record deficit of over $1,000,000. The enrollment was at 924, all boys. Boarding tuition stood at $3,050, financial aid at $595,000. The endowment hit $64,673,000. Total expenditures were $6,194,000. Today we have a balanced budget. Enrollment is 1214, 45% girls. Boarding tuition is $10,500. Financial aid has ballooned to over $3 million. Endowment, at June 30, stood at $143,586,937 and the total expenditure is budgeted at $20,851,000.

More than statistics, however, the associations with colleagues

over these years have been the real high point. The teamwork within and without this division made the impossible seem easy. They were exciting years and it was a privilege to have been involved. □

Financial Report

by Donald H. Bade, Comptroller

We are pleased to report financial results for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1986.

Operating Results

Fiscal year 1985-86 concluded with a surplus of $8,000, on a total operating cost of $20,851,000. Expenses were 8.2% over the prior year.

Our commitment to instruction salaries and a higher level of counseling support to students resulted in an 11% cost increase in the instruction area. Administration costs were greater with an expansion in computer systems and in national development programs. Fuel cost and consumption were down, enabling Physical Plant to undertake dormitory and housing reconstruction with little cost increase.

Comparative Statement of Resources, Expenses and Surplus ($ in thousands)

Resources
Tuition and fees	$10,668	55.1	$11,225	53.8
Endowment income	5,964	30.8	6,237	29.9
Annual gifts to income	1,931	10.0	2,197	10.5
Other (include ancillary programs)	801	4.1	1,200	5.8
Total	19,364	100.0	20,859	100.0

Instruction salaries and departmental expenses	$4,794,699
Food service	1,521,315
Support functions (Library, Infirmary, Graham House, Chaplaincy)	767,442
Athletics	512,325
Residency & social activities	184,418
TOTAL	$7,780,199

Income from endowment and annual gifts to income exceed the prior year, the latter through the continued strength of the alumni and parent giving. Other resources include $320,000 from the successful operation of the 1985 Summer session.

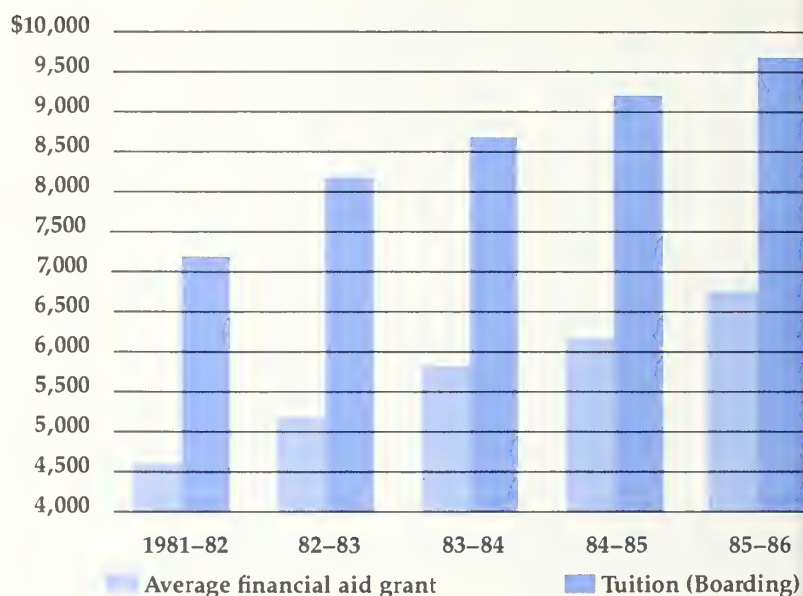

Tuition and Financial Aid

Tuition and financial aid remain top priorities of the Board of Trustees. One of the Board's major long-range goals is to maintain the tuition at as low a rate as possible, commensurate with providing a quality education program. The boarding rate of $9,700 in 1985-86 was an increase of 5.4% over the prior year, and the rate of $10,500 for 1986-87 is 8.2% greater. Both years' rates compare very favorably with other comparable residential schools:

Boarding Tuition	1985-86	1986-87
Choate	$11,100	$11,950
Rosemary Hall
Groton	11,000	11,900
Northfield	10,800	11,700
Mount Hermon
Deerfield	10,600	11,100
Exeter	10,200	10,800
St. Paul's	9,900	10,500
Andover	9,700	10,500

Another goal is to continue providing the opportunity for qualified youth to study at Andover regardless of their families' economic background, as we seek to maintain a diverse student community. Accordingly, total financial aid (both grants and loans) increased 11% to $3,081,000 in 1985-86 with 38% of the students receiving some form of assistance.

	1984-85	1985-86
Scholarships	$2,359,408	$2,541,297
Loans	417,975	539,750
Total	$2,777,383	$3,081,047
Students served/of total	451/1213	464/1214

A 5-year comparison of the tuition boarding rate plotted with the average amount of financial assistance received by students reflects an increasing percentage of

aid. Grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of need, but it is important to note that because of the strength of the endowment, the average "subsidy" to all Andover students is $5,500, against the average annual cost per student of $14,700.

The Endowment and its Investment

Market Value of the Endowment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $143,586,937 at June 30, 1986 compared with $112,961,432 one year ago. The increase in the endowment was due to the following factors:

The increase of $30,081,000 in the market value (appreciation) at year-end reflects a 26.6% increase in value during this fiscal year. When 5% earning yield is added, the gain compares favorably with a 30.8% total gain composite index of the S&P 500 and Shearson Lehman Bond indices. A comparison of types of investments indicates a higher equity position at the June 1986 year-end.

Investment Performance and Objectives

This June 30 marked the third full year of performance by the three equity and one fixed income primary managers. With a 31.9% return this year, the average annual rate of return has been 19.4%, which is better than our long-term stated objective "to earn at least 5% real average annual rate of return." Continued evaluation of the investment managers is done by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The Trustees recently adopted a spending policy: to utilize income from the endowment at a rate of between 4% and 6% of average market value. The $6,237,000 amount of income "availed of" in 1985-86 falls within this policy.

Investment Performance: Income Earned by the Endowment

The total income earned, and availed of, on the invested endowment assets was as follows:

	1984-85	1985-86

Land, buildings and equipment owned by the Academy are not reflected in the balance sheets. Expenditures for plant are funded currently or on a deferred basis from current funds or other available funds. The historical cost of plant and equipment is not reasonably determinable.

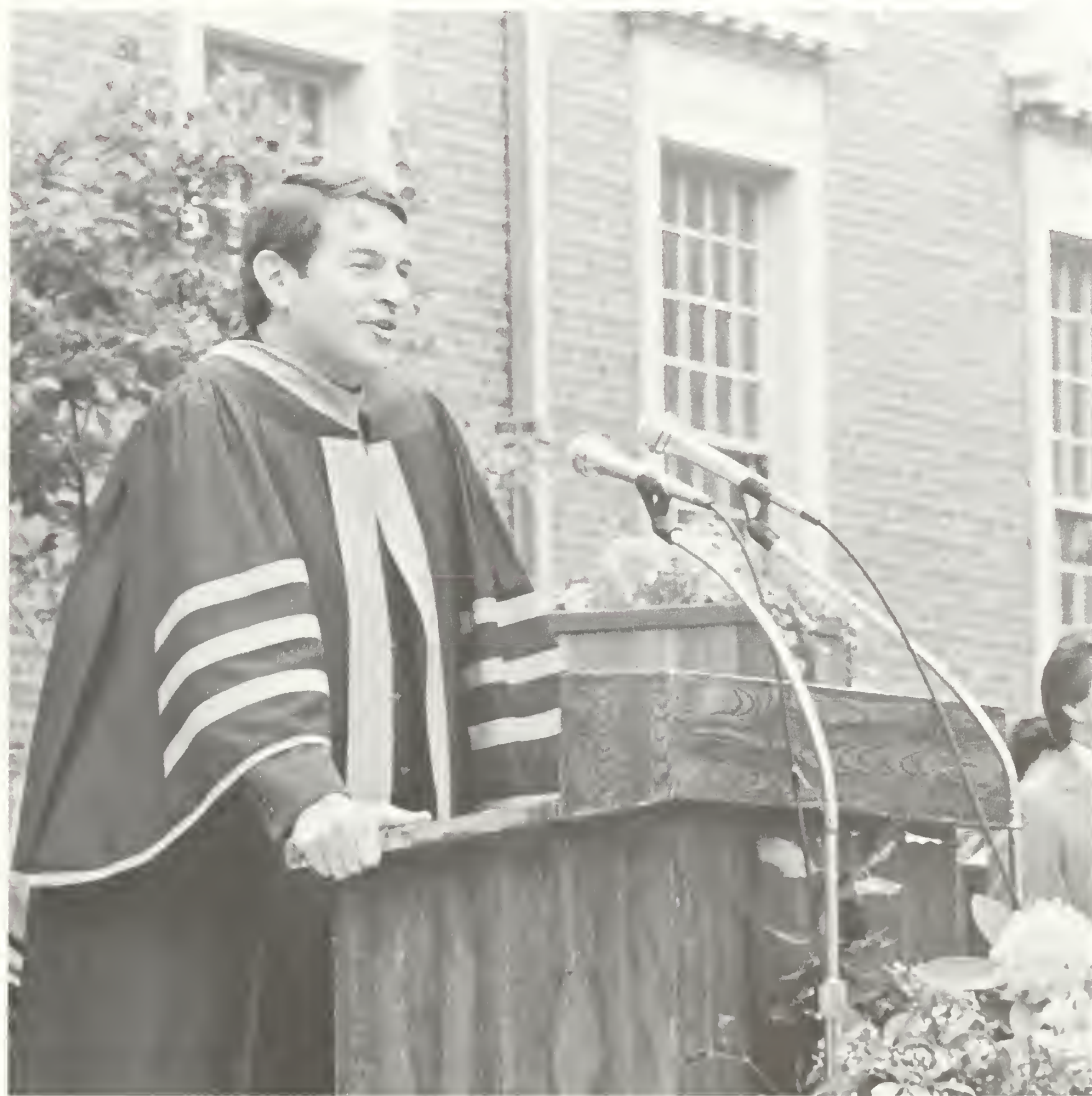

As of June 30, 1986, pledges outstanding from prospective donors, principally for the Addison Gallery Campaign and the Bicentennial Campaign, totaled approximately $18,800,000. It is not practicable to estimate the net realizable value of such pledges, and they are not reflected in the balance sheets.

1985-86 Annual Giving Surpasses All Goals

Provides Ten Percent of Academy's Budget
Alumni/ae and Parents Raise $2,303,605 from 9224 Donors

1985-86 Andover annual giving saw another year of unprecedented growth to an all time high of $2,303,605 from 9224 parents and alumni. Records were set on all fronts as the alumni and parent funds grew 14%, brought in $276,803 more dollars than the previous year, and topped secondary school giving records! Most important, this year's campaign completed the five-year plan for bringing alumni and parent giving to a level that equals 10% of the school's operating budget.

Alumni Fund

Alumni Fund Chairmen Clinton J. Kendrick '61 and Miriam Ganem Reeder '57 reported another successful campaign with a total of $1,978,592 from 7891 Andover and Abbot donors. These two seasoned chairmen led a corps of over 680 class agents who, on a class by class basis, personally and enthusiastically contacted classmates. In this final year of his five-year co-leadership of the fund, Clint Kendrick has seen realized the trustee goal of annual giving providing ten percent of the operating budget of the academy. From a 1981 vantage point that goal seemed extremely ambitious, if not impossible, to achieve. But it has been achieved and all hope annual giving can continue to provide such a significant and crucial portion of the school's budget. Mimi Reeder will continue in her leadership role toward that end and will be joined by Donald L. Shapiro '53 as new co-chairman of the alumni fund.

Several specific areas of growth are responsible for this year's outstanding increases in alumni giving. Recruitment and implementation of co-agents to personalize solicitation of over 19,000 alumni has had a dramatic effect both on dollars raised and number of donors. One hundred seventy-one head agents now lead teams of co-agents within most classes; those co-agents now number 509. These teams are experiencing better coordination and are responsible in great part for increasing alumni donor participation from 29% in 1980 to its current rate of 43%. Agents are working toward a long-range goal of 50% participation.

This year 348 additional donors joined the ranks.

Expansion of the Non Sibi Associates to include Non Sibi Fellows and Scholars is another area of recent growth. These leadership levels attracted gifts of $5,000 and $10,000 to support scholarship students or teaching fellows for the upcoming year. Non Sibi options interested many alumni, particularly during reunion years, and once again accounted for 55% or over half the total dollars raised this year. Alumni and Parent Non Sibi donors now number 680, up from just 211 in 1980.

A third area of focus, reunion giving, saw increases as well. Thirteen reunion classes contributed $720,278 from 1717 donors, accounting for one-third of the overall alumni fund. These reunion gifts, often spearheaded by an active reunion gift committee, were complemented by record-breaking attendance at reunions in June. Youth held its own at reunions, as our five youngest reunion classes broke all dollar records on the books!

Abbot giving continued to rise, an astounding phenomenon since no new Abbot donors have been generated in the 13 years since the merger. But once again, dollars rose to a total of $119,439 from 1151 donors, highpoints in Abbot giving history. These results certainly confirm the loyalty and appreciation felt by Abbot women toward their alma mater.

Each year matching gifts play an increasingly important part in our giving program. This year 210 companies matched 565 alumni and parent gifts to our annual giving program. This accounted for $150,848 from corporations and foundations, up another $25,000 from last year.

The Andover Canadian Fund will remain in place as a vehicle through which Canadian citizens may make donations to Andover from within Canada. There donations continue to augment the endowed scholarship fund to assist Canadian students at Andover. Each year more than 50 Canadian citizens take advantage of this special means of contributing to Andover.

It is with deep appreciation that the Office of Academy Resources says goodbye to Clint Kendrick and thanks him for his exceptional leadership during his five-year term, conducting the alumni fund from his home in London. Clint will remain a valuable consultant to his co-chairman, Mimi Reeder, and to his Phillips' successor. Don Shapiro comes to the position of co-chairman of the alumni fund with valuable credentials in many volunteer roles for Andover. He has been a class agent (recently Non Sibi agent for the class of 1953), has just completed a term as president of the Andover/Abbot Association of New York, serves as member of the Abbot Campus Committee at the invitation of the trustees, served on Alumni Council, is a past and current Andover parent — and most importantly loves Andover. Don is known to be hard-working, enthusiastic, and inspirational in all that he undertakes for Andover. He and Mimi are sure to direct another extraordinary alumni fund year for Andover.

Parent Fund

On June 30th the parent fund crossed the $300,000 mark for the first time in its history, with a final tally of $325,000. Under the superb leadership of Rod and Verena Cushman (parents of Stefan '87), now in their second year of chairing the parent fund effort, a team of 200 parent volunteers reached goals, broke records, and saw parent participation increase significantly. Personalization was the key word in this year's campaign as volunteer parents in each region of the country sought to contact each Andover family and encourage them to support Andover as generously as they were able.

When the Cushmans took over leadership of the parent fund two years ago they inherited a program poised for significant growth.

Through their energetic and creative leadership the parent fund increased by $124,009 (54%) in those two years, and parent participation this year reached a high of 63% of parents donating.

A special gifts committee under the chairmanship of Susan Waterfall (Scott Straus '86), Henry Guetel (Alex '86), and Joseph Tydings (Eleanor '86) boosted totals significantly with 81 families becoming Non Sibi members. Startling increases were also seen in our past parent effort this year as 597 former parents contributed, and dollars increased 39%. Chairman Kevin Collins (Kevin '85) deserves credit for intensifying that effort with closer and more personal contact of those who appreciated an update on Andover today.

A most enthusiastic segment of the parent fund was the newborn grandparents' committee introduced last year. This year Camille Grieco (Nicole '86), and Roger Murray '28 (Jennifer '89) hosted over two-hundred spirited grandparents back to campus in the spring to visit classes with their grandchildren and refresh themselves on secondary school education today. From Andover to Los Angeles proud grandparents came to visit their favorite teenagers and were welcomed enthusiastically by students and faculty alike. Complementing this visit, over fifty grandparents also supported the parent fund.

Each year we are tempted to say "this has been an exceptional year for annual giving." Once again, we must conclude for 1985-86 it is indeed true. Results bear witness to a strong and loyal corps of alumni and parents who responded both with service and support to the school's financial needs. Excellence at Andover will continue well into the future because of the foresight and generosity of hundreds of dedicated members of the Andover family. With this upward trend in annual giving goes unlimited educational opportunities for today's and tomorrow's young men and women at Andover.

More than one-third of the alumni fund was comprised of dollars raised from the thirteen reunion year gift efforts mounted in advance of June reunions. These reunion classes, from the 5th to the 55th, conducted special gift efforts within the annual fund and contributed $720,278 from 1700 alumni, a significant proportion of the entire fund.

The fiftieth reunion class once again set a startling all-time record, the product of hard work and determined loyalty by members of the class of 1936. In what was truly a team effort by Gift Chairman Bill Hart and Celebration Chairman Loring Reed, with classmates John Bishop, Roy Bolton, Mel Chapin, Drayton Heard, Paul Kalat, and Fred Stott on the Phillips side, and Pauline Spear Chapin, Sally Scates Engelkirk, and Lucy Hawkes Winship (with Reunion Chairman Mary Dooley Bragg) on the Abbot side, the class presented a gift of $209,074 to the headmaster at the annual meeting in June. 1936 also increased its participation dramatically, with 63% of Phillips and 79% of Abbot alumni contributing.

At the same June meeting the Class of 1961 presented a 25th reunion gift of $134,872 — another record setter for cash totals. Class Agent Dennis Cross with the able assistance of Fund Co-Chairman Clint Kendrick and classmate Bob Diemar for Phillips and Ann Tevabough Mitchell for Abbot headed enthusiastic gift committees for his memorable 25th reunion gift, $26,000 ahead of the Class of 1960's record. A participation rate of 58% bodes well for future class fund-raising.

Eight reunion classes set record dollar totals in honor of their reunions (See Reunion Giving Chart.) The five youngest classes celebrating reunions were all among those record setters. Andover and Abbot chairmen have worked very hard to challenge their predecessors and leave an enviable record for the upcoming classes in 1986-87. Reunion giving continues to be a most essential factor in the success of each year's alumni fund.

1985-86 PHONATHONS

At Andover as elsewhere the phone has more and more become the favored means of communication for fund raising. Each year Andover phonathons grow in number, location, callers, pledges, and ultimately gifts received. These gatherings in the name of Andover have become more popular not only with our agents but with all alumni. Seasoned callers return again and again to join in the festivities, contact classmates, and ultimately raise operating dollars for Andover.

Up-front phonathons during the fall thank donors for previous gifts and ask for increased gifts the coming year. Over 1,000 calls were made three evenings last fall in Boston and New York, netting $58,000 in early pledges as the alumni fund was kicked off. That early effort will be expanded this year. (See fall schedule below.)

Spring phonathons in seven cities generated an additional $156,951 from 2210 alumni and parents. On campus student phonathons by cluster became a favorite special occasion for 174 students as they competed in raising dollars for Andover. Much good will, updating of alumni about life on campus, and tales of the "old days" were exchanged as students learned the role generous alumni play in their own education.

Special thanks must go to close to 400 alumni, parent and student phoners and to our hosts across the country who donate facilities and make Andover phonathons a productive and enjoyable part of the annual fund.

Improvement over last year

1986-87 Alumni Fund Aims High - Goal is $2,150,000 From 8200 Donors

The achievement of the 1985-86 annual fund goal has special significance because it also marks the achievement of the long-range goal set by the Board of Trustees five years ago. The goal — to provide 10% of the operating budget of the academy through annual giving — was attained when 9224 donors contributed $2,303,605. The successful result of this effort reflects the commitment of our alumni and parents. How fortunate Andover is to have this loyalty that makes it possible to maintain its leadership in education. Our thanks to every one of you who made this success possible.

Now that this goal has been met our challenge is to continue to provide 10% of the operating budget. The trustees believe that providing this level of financial support is critical to meeting the challenges inherent in ensuring the excellence of our educational programs.

The new goal for the 1986-87 alumni fund portion of annual giving is $2,150,000 from 8200 donors. This is an ambitious one. However, we are confident that we can achieve it because our Andover alumni have proven themselves to be ambitious! All that is required is for each of us to respond as generously as possible to our class agents' solicitation. We need the participation of all alumni and we need increased donations! As we all know, in order for this year's contribution to have the same value as last year's, we must give more dollars to keep ahead of inflation! Increased class participation will be the goal of every class agent — to boost to 50% our current rate of 43% of alumni contributing.

This past year we broke the record for Non Sibi gifts from alumni and parents. 680 Non Sibi Associates (giving $1,000-$4,999), Scholars (giving $5,000-$9,999), and Non Sibi Fellows (giving $10,000 or more) donated $1,263,138. We could not have made our goal without these loyal supporters and we need more of you to join their ranks.

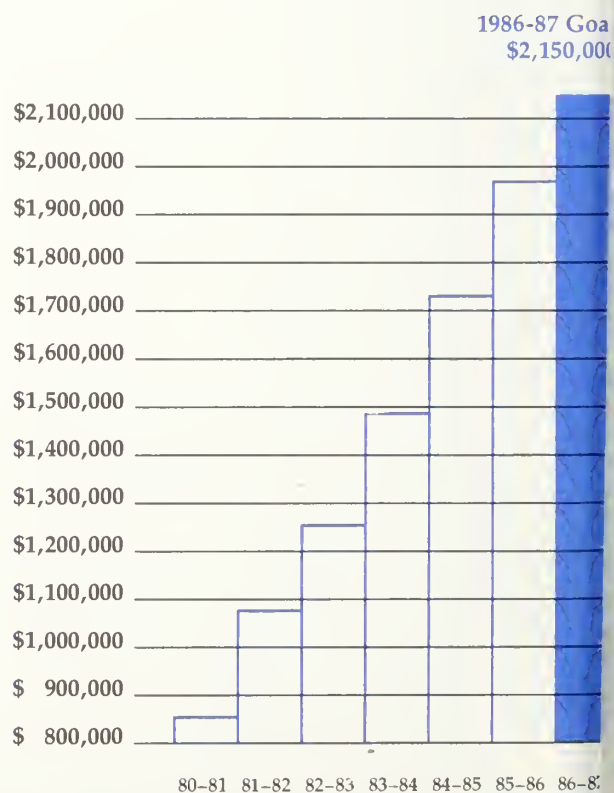

We especially want to thank our 680 head and co-agents for the crucial role they play in this team effort. They deserve our recognition and the best recognition they can receive is your donation to Andover.

Thank you for your continued support. Andover needs you and benefits from your loyalty.

1986-87 Parent Fund Aims for Record $350,000

Dear Parents,

The 1985-86 parent fund enjoyed an unprecedented success, reaching its record-breaking goal of $325,000, an increase of over 11% from last year.

Of that $325,000 current parents contributed $235,000 with one hundred and six parents participating in the Non Sibi program. Parent enthusiasm for and excitement over opportunities for our children at Andover create new opportunities and challenges for learning. Over $83,000 was contributed by past parents this year representing an increase of 39%, a reflection of the commitment and support of our community to the academy's excellence and vitality.

The 1986-87 goal has been set at $350,000, an ambitious target. Of that $245,000 will be the current parent goal, $90,000 the past parent goal, and $15,000 the grandparent goal. Because of your enthusiastic response to Andover's call, we are confident we can realize our aim of significant support for the Academy.

With your generosity, Andover has continued to have a relatively low tuition, without compromising either academic or extra-curricular excellence. We have a talented and exciting faculty and outstanding facilities. The cost to educate a student during the '86-87 school year will be approximately $15,000, yet tuitions are $10,500 for boarding students and $8,000 for day students. Your gifts enable Andover to keep tuition low, standards high, and opportunities for our students unlimited.

We hope you will continue your involvement in the Andover community. Your energy, generosity, and support are invaluable in attaining our goal of providing the

1985-86 NON SIBI Fellows, Scholars, and Associates

Non Sibi giving to the annual fund has become a growing tradition at Andover. Each year a larger number of alumni, alumnae, parents, grandparents, and friends recognize the increasing needs of the Academy and make a Non Sibi commitment. Non Sibi gifts accounted this year for more than half of Annual Giving dollars and provided the margin of flexibility necessary to meet the economic challenges of the school's programs.

NON SIBI Fellows $10,000 and above

Non Sibi Fellows were introduced to recognize donors who support the school annually at this very generous level. Non Sibi Fellows may choose to have their gift support the special training of a teaching fellow at Phillips Academy for one year. Gifts at this level provide an opportunity to encourage fine young people to enter the teaching profession.

NON SIBI Scholars $5,000-$9,999

Non Sibi Scholars were introduced in response to a growing number of such commitments annually. A donor of $5,000 or more may choose to underwrite a specific scholarship student and direct the gift toward support of a promising student in need of financial aid.

NON SIBI Associates $1,000-$4,999

Founded in 1981, the Non Sibi Associates membership now includes over 680 alumni, parents, grandparents, and friends.

Non Sibi donors receive a commemorative glass, pitcher or box as gift for their support.

Chairmen of the Past Parent Fund Kevin and Helen Collins

Dear Past Parents:

1985-86 saw an exciting increase in the growth of the past parent fund. Our contributions increased 39% over the 1984-85 effort, bringing in a record $83,000, and the number of contributions climbed to almost 600, an increase of 13%. Congratulations and thank you!

As we anticipate our 1986-87 goal, we are excited by the challenge and the contribution to the Andover community that we as past parents can make. It is with enthusiasm and excitement that we address the 1986-87 past parent fund goal.

Dear Grandparents,

1985-86 was a banner year for grandparents and the grandparent fund!

In May, grandparents came from all over the country to join their grandchildren in the Andover environment, to attend classes, enjoy performances, and cheer sporting events. It was a meaningful opportunity for us to share in this outstanding institution that our involvement helps to support.

Participation in the grandparent fund also climbed this year, more than doubling last year's numbers. We thank you for your interest and generosity in joining us in giving our grandchildren the extra measure of support that makes their academy so special.

Matching Gifts to the Annual Fund up 19% from 1984-85

In 1985-86, matching gifts to the annual fund leaped ahead by 19% over the 1984-85 figures: this year, 210 corporations and corporate foundations matched 565 gifts totalling $150,848 to the annual fund. This represents an increase in number of gifts matched to annual giving, up from 472 in 1984-85, and in dollars matched to annual giving, up from $126,353 last year. Because of this parallel rise in total dollars and in number of gifts, the average annual fund matched gift remained approximately the same as last year: $267.

Total matching gifts for all Andover purposes, including endowed scholarships, teaching foundations and academic programs, in addition to the Annual Fund, remained almost the same in total dollars, at $196,539 in 1985-86, while the number of corporations and corporate foundations which matched gifts for all Andover purposes increased slightly (up 4.4% from 203 in 1984-85 to 212 in 1985-86).

This year, Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York heads the list in terms of number of gifts matched to Andover, and PepsiCo, Inc. gave the greatest amount of matching gift dollars to Andover. Andover values highly all 212 corporations and corporate foundations which provided important support to the Academy in 1985-86 through their matching gift programs.

Corporate and Foundation Grants to Andover up 21%

In the 1985-86 academic year, 37 corporations and foundations gave 40 new grants totalling $706,770 to Andover, up 21% from 1984-85. The greatest number of grants, 15, were made to support the (MS)² Program — Math and Science for Minority Students, in its 10th anniversary year. (MS)² has received over $1.5 million in corporate and foundation support since the program's inception. Broad-based Lawrence/Andover/North Andover community support provided 10 grants to the Lawrence-Phillips Academy Urban Studies Institute, now in its fifth year and breaking new ground in multidisciplinary research into the reasons for academic, employment, and other social problems faced by Hispanic people moving to this area, with applicability to other peoples' acculturation elsewhere. Six grants were made to the Joshua L. Miner III Endowment for the Dean of Admission. One large grant was made to establish and open the Computer Literacy Center, and another to launch the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library automation program. Additional grants were made for scholarships (endowed and current use), the Addison Gallery of American Art, and the Elbridge H. Stuart Fund.

Andover Development Board

The Andover Development Board gathered at Andover on May 16, 1986, to convene the second annual meeting of the board. At that twenty-four hour event members rejoiced at the success of their efforts since May 1985, and they launched the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program, the primary focus for their activity between May 1986 and May 1987.

Chairman of the Andover Development Board R.L. Ireland III '38 announced new pledges and gifts of $8,500,000, all in addition to annual giving, a record high in a non-campaign mode, tallied since the first Board meeting. President of the Board of Trustees, Melville Chapin '36, and Headmaster Donald McNemar presented awards to those alumni, alumnae and parents who have so generously fostered Andover Development Board goals since its inception. Those honored were Alexander Dole '20, Barbara Timken '66 and David Underwood '54 for their support of the library project; Adrian Israel '32 for support not yet specifically designated; Bernard Ristuccia, parent and grandparent, for proposed renovations of George Washington Hall; Sumner Smith '08 for a campus beautification fund — posthumously awarded in his memory to his son Sumner Smith, Jr. '38; and an anonymous donor who has funded a visiting scholar program to support annually one teacher who will take the place of an Andover teacher on sabbatical.

The Development Board also launched the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program for the renovation and expansion of the present library, which was given by Thomas Cochran in 1929 and designed by Charles Platt, chief architect of the modern Andover. As co-chairman of the Library Development Committee, Barbara Timken '66 presented the plans for fund-raising along with the architects, Shepley Bulfinch Richardson & Abbott, who showed architectural drawings and described the concept for the future library. David Underwood '54 is also co-chairman of the library development effort.

The main focus of the Andover Development Board's work in the coming year will be the library; the goal for that effort is $9,850,000, and $2,000,000 in pledges and gifts has already been committed. Because the Andover Development Board addresses the many needs of the academy today, board members will continue to seek support for other objectives as well in the year ahead.

The Donald H. McLean, Jr. Fund

Donald H. McLean, Jr. '28 served Andover in many ways during his life, which was devoted to advancing many non-profit organizations as well as serving causes in the Far East and in Europe. Don brought his skill as an administrator and leader to many worthy efforts, and he most ably served Phillips Academy as President of the Board of Trustees from 1968 to 1981. In Don's memory his many friends from throughout the world have joined in support of an area in the library which will bear his name and a fund to bring to campus speakers and leaders who shared his many interests. Those who have contributed since June 1985 to the Donald McLean Fund include:

Other Special Gifts

Many alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of Andover made special gifts between July 1, 1985 and June 30, 1986 to support specific funds in the endowment or other current Andover projects.

These gifts have enabled Phillips Academy to greatly enhance its program for the future.

Since the founding of Phillips Academy, scores of alumni, alumnae, parents and friends have made provisions for the support of the academy and its endowment through their estate plans. This important support has allowed Andover to build a fine endowment which provides funds for a variety of needs—general purposes, scholarships, faculty and program support.

Today, the Office of Planned Giving at the Academy maintains an ongoing program designed to both encourage our alumni, alumnae, parents and friends to make planned gifts and to assist them in doing so. Federal tax laws provide many incentives for those who choose to support private education and a variety of planned gift vehicles enable a donor to take maximum advantage of these tax incentives. Planned gifts may take several forms—bequests, gifts which provide an income for life; gifts which provide an income for Andover and then return to the donor or heirs. In addition, planned gifts enable a donor to use a variety of assets—appreciated securities, real estate, life insurance, tangible personal property and closely held stock.

The academy's program is guided by the Andover Planned Giving Committee, whose names appear at the beginning of this report. Philip M. Drake '43, chairman, reports 1985-86 as another banner year for planned giving with a total of $2,532,470 in new planned gifts.

Phil Drake has served as chairman since the committee's inception six years ago. During that time the program has grown enormously. On July 1 he was succeeded by Alexander B. Trowbridge, class of 1947 and a charter trustee.

THE SAMUEL PHILLIPS AND SARAH ABBOT SOCIETY

The Office of Planned Giving is proud to announce the establishment of The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society which recognizes and honors the alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans.

The members of the society are those who have created a provision in their estate plans to benefit the academy, who have informed us of this commitment and who have indicated their desire to become members of the society.

Provisions in estate plans may take a variety of forms—a bequest; a charitable trust which provides a life income or helps to pass assets to heirs with little or no estate tax; a gift to one of the Andover pooled income funds; a gift of life insurance or a gift annuity.

The membership list for 1985-86 appears below. We extend our sincere thanks to those who have chosen to remember the academy in this way.

Total Cash Gifts from Alumni and Alumnae

Gifts to the Alumni Fund provide essential unrestricted income for the operating expenses of Andover every year. Since many alumni and alumnae choose to support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the Alumni Fund, we would like to acknowledge this major support with a listing of all cash gifts received by Andover during 1985-86, by class:

1986-87 Alumni Fund Aims for $2,150,000

This new goal for the alumni fund portion of annual giving is an ambitious one. It requires that each of us respond as generously as possible to our class agents' call. We need the participation of all alumni and we need increased donations.

Report from the Headmaster

On a beautiful sunny day in June, seniors, faculty, and families gathered on the steps of Samuel Phillips Hall to say farewell to the class of 1987. I spoke of their education at Phillips Academy and its use in their future. "First, we hope you have developed a love of liberal learning. Many of you will work in fields or on subjects not yet invented or imagined. Yet a liberal education enables you to continue learning for each new challenge. When Edward M. Perkins, United States Ambassador to South Africa, was here in May, you asked him what he would recommend as preparation for a career in politics or public service. He responded by reflecting on what has been important to him in his first months as a black American serving as ambassador in a society which must change to achieve justice. Ambassador Perkins said he found himself rereading the classics he had read in school: the writings of Plato, St. Thomas Aquinas, Abraham Lincoln, and Martin Luther King, Jr..

"Our second hope is that you have begun to learn the importance of respect for all cultures. When I studied American history, there was much talk about the melting pot.' But most groups in the pot seemed to be European and white. Slavery was passed over too quickly. No matter how carefully you study the American residents, they all come out white and male. The homogeneity of European culture, the host-guest relationship, no longer works. We must forge a new culture respecting all: female and male, Asian, white, black and Hispanic.

"Finally, we hope you leave Phillips Academy a person of integrity. Integrity is honesty, reliability, steadfastness: the choice of right over wrong, always. Integrity comes from daily decisions, big ones and little ones. Would you pick up' a sweatshirt if the opposite isn't looking? You may justify such an act by saying, 'Sweats aren't really someone's property, they are just souvenirs.' If you are willing to steal sweats today, what will you steal tomorrow? Will you give stock tips to a friend, even if you know it is inside information? Will you, as a government official, give supplies to a cause you believe in, even if Congress has passed a law against such support?

"When you leave Andover hill, you take with you the two mottos of this academy: Non Sibi—not for self. May you bring justice to this divided world. Finis Origine Pendet—the beginning determines the end. May this ceremonial ending, which is today's new beginning, lead us all to live in a world of freedom and peace."

With graduation we concluded a year of important school meetings. Without daily or weekly chapel we come together all too infrequently as a community. However, 1986-87 was a year in which a series of school wide meetings had an important impact on the school.

In October, Wellesley College President Nannerl Keohane spoke to seniors and faculty about new models of leadership evolving out of vision instead of money, background, or popularity, and about new models of curriculum balancing gender and race within our views of history and in our reading lists. We examined the curriculum and its balance in several forums this year: on recommendation from the science division, the faculty voted in October to double the science requirement from one year of lab science to two years.

In November, the entire school celebrated the Andover-Exeter week of athletic contests. The enthusiasm of students and faculty alike was matched only by the talent of those competing: Andover won 41 of 78 matches against Exeter this year. Overall, four Andover teams went undefeated: girls' varsity cross-country, girls' varsity cycling, and boys' and girls' varsity lacrosse. Off the field as well students became more active than ever in intramural and noncompetitive sports ranging from judo to cluster softball, continuing the increasing consciousness about physical fitness.

The flags of the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics led the procession in the chapel on February 23 to welcome Aleksei Filippovich Bogachev, headmaster of the Novosibirsk Physics-Mathematics School, as we launched the first high school exchange of students between our two countries. The school meeting marked an important advancement of international education at Phillips Academy with eight students and a teacher studying in each other's school for a month.

One week later, the headmaster's symposium for 1987 began for 200 seniors and uppers a discussion of "Communities in Transition: Africa Faces the Future." The opening panel was a group of students describing the community service trip taken by 23 Andover students to Senegal last December. These students' reflections about their experiences in an African country opened a month of lectures and student faculty discussions on such topics as third world economies, relations among African nations, and apartheid in South Africa.

The opening days of spring term included two school meetings which drew our focus to less positive topics. Following the dismissal of students in response to thefts from the gym of personal articles belonging to students from competing schools we examined what it means to take a stand for honesty in response to another's actions. The discussion was painful, positive, and vital in a community dedicated to teaching values. A few days later we addressed the issue of AIDS. The student body attended a presentation by Dr. Kenneth McIntosh, an Andover parent involved in immunological research, to learn the latest facts about transmission of the disease and search for a cure. The faculty also met to discuss education about AIDS with Dr. Jack Turco '66, Director of Health Services at Dartmouth. Education is one of the few effective steps we have against the epidemic we face.

At the beginning of May students, faculty, alumni council members, and members of the development board gathered for a community meeting in the Cage to present the Fuess Award to Bart Giamatti '56. Giamatti spoke of education as an "in-gathering" for the purpose of sharing of the self for larger goals and described such education as necessary for the sustenance of democracy.

The following day Vice President and Mrs. George Bush '42 visited campus and addressed students, faculty, alumnae and alumni in George Washington Hall. Bush rejected the notion of value-free education and reflected on the values of honesty, decency, and kindness which he had learned here at Phillips Academy. The Vice President also spoke with students and faculty demonstrating against U.S. policies in Nicaragua and South Africa and defended the right of citizens to protest such policies.

The weekend also included good news with regard to support for Andover from alumni, alumnae, parents and friends of the school. The Andover Development Board announced just over $7 million raised last year of the total $9.8 million needed to renovate the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library and an expanded launching pledge from Ben Ristuccia of $1.8 million to renovate George Washington Hall and create the Elinor M. Ristuccia Theatre; Andover's financial future looks positive. The figures at June 30 reflected even more encouraging news as the alumni and parent funds attained their goals and the endowment reached $162.2 million.

At the end of May, the community met to hear United States Ambassador to South Africa Edward M. Perkins, father of a P.A. student, give the final address of the symposium. He spoke of his own meetings with black leaders and of the growing struggle against apartheid. We listened closely since 10 days earlier the trustees had met and had responded to urgings from students and faculty to reexamine the school's policies with regard to investment in companies doing business in South Africa. The trustees voted to create a committee of students, faculty and trustees to evaluate recent events and make a recommendation to the board for a decision at its October meeting.

Throughout the year faculty and students engaged in discussion of important educational and social policy issues. The daily classroom learning was expanded with the engagement of topics of our times through community meetings and guest speakers. At the heart of the success of the community is the outstanding women and men who teach at the academy and the talented students who come to the school from richly diverse backgrounds. While we continue to strengthen the sense of community for adults and young people at the academy, the support for teachers and for students remains our primary objective.

Dr. McNemar is an instructor in history and the social sciences and headmaster on the Foundation in Honor of John P. Stevens, Jr.

Report from the Associate Headmaster

Nineteen-eighty-seven could be considered the first year of major campus renovation since Thomas Cochran and Charles Platt completed their redesign of the campus in the 1930's. As we watch renovations and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library develop before our eyes we are in the midst of planning another major change on the campus: the renovation of George Washington Hall.

George Washington Hall was a magnificent administration building when it was built in the early thirties. Cochran and Platt produced a superb place for the administrative offices of the academy as well as a 1,000-seat auditorium where the entire student body could meet. The building's grandeur has not changed; its ability to serve the community well has lessened considerably. Since the original construction, offices have been subdivided, a student mail room added, and now lockers for lay students line the corridors. The building houses the theatre department (with no formal space other than the mainstage theatre), all student services, the deans' offices in the basement, and the administrative support for a school 100% larger than Cochran's Andover.

Thanks to a generous initial gift from Ben Ristuccia, Andover father and grandfather, to create the Elinor M. Ristuccia Performing Arts Center in George Washington Hall, we are able to contemplate this and many changes. As the chairman of the new George Washington Hall Committee last year I led a group of faculty and students charged with prioritizing the renovation of GW with four major goals: to provide facilities for the theatre department; to improve student service areas and the deans' offices; to suggest appropriate changes in the main administrative offices; and to consolidate the connecting facilities of the art department.

Early in the committee's weekly meetings we learned that as representatives of various vested interests we would require a building twice the size of George Washington Hall to meet everyone's needs: by mid-April we had begun the process of planning several times over and had compromised at a reasonable list of needs within a reasonably sized building. Under the existing plan the meeting area will be redesigned as a mainstage theatre with comfortable seating for 450 and a separate 100-seat drama lab. With limited expansion the theatre department will boast all of the amenities of a proper academic department: a large classroom, a shop which can serve both theatres, storage space, a costume room, dressing rooms, and an office. The larger theatre will be flexible space below with a permanent seating gallery on three sides above; the entire configuration will be convertible from a traditional fourth wall arrangement to a full theatre-in-the-round.

Even as it continues, the process of selecting an architect has been an education. One candidate commented that the present George Washington Hall was a number of dead ends and that it should flow. Another suggested that now the building has only one facade when there could be three. A third said that the building should contain spaces that students will not just remember, but will remember and love.

If we are to follow the example of Cochran and Platt we must meet that objective and more. The new George Washington Hall will indeed serve many generations of students not only as a place to collect mail, to meet a dean or to perform in a new musical, but as a place in which the daily life of Phillips Academy can unfold with a lively and generous spirit. □

Mr. McKee is an instructor in physics on the Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation and chairman of the science division and physics department.

Joseph C. Mesics '53

Early each September the Office of Academy Resources staff retreats to discuss the fiscal year just ended and to set goals for the year ahead. The news this year was great: the success of Andover's volunteers and of the extraordinary staff in the Office of Academy Resources continues to break records and I am proud to report the results.

The publications team continues to maintain an outstanding image of the academy providing hundreds of services ranging from videotape productions for the Andover Development Board and the admission office to a spectacular new viewbook for prospective students. The Andover Bulletin once again received a CASE Gold Medal Award for Independent School Periodicals. Special thanks must go to our class secretaries who play a vital role in the content of that fine magazine.

Thanks to the volunteers who so ably provide on location arrangements for academy visits, Andover travelers visited eighteen cities this year, crisscrossing North America from Seattle to Miami and Los Angeles to Montreal. Campus events include Leaders' Weekend, Parents' Weekend, Grandparents'

Day, Alumni Council Weekend, Andover Development Board Weekend, and the Abbot Academy Association directors' meetings, culminating with reunions in early June, where attendance has increased forty per cent over the past five years.

Goals and results in the area of development are much more readily measurable. The Andover Development Board, the planned giving, foundations and corporations committees all played major roles in the pleasant news which follows.

Those striving to secure grants from foundations and corporations raised $1,204,000 (exceeding 1985-86 by $497,000).

Through a very active program the goal of $3,000,000 set for deferred gifts through planned giving actually reached $3,830,000.

The Andover Development Board set a goal of $8,000,000 in new commitments to the academy for capital development. This substantial effort far exceeded all expectations by raising in excess of $10,000,000. The board volunteers have achieved unparalleled success during the past two years, providing resources in excess of $20,000,000 for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library and George Washington Hall renovations, a new all-weather outdoor track installed this summer, and substantial endowments for support of teachers, students and programs.

The co-chairs of the alumni and parent funds, together with the Office of Academy Resources annual giving support team, set another ambitious goal of $2,500,000 for the largest group of academy volunteers, the class agents and parents who toil so tirelessly from one annual campaign to the next. The alumni and parent fund cash gifts are used to defray in excess of ten per cent of the academy budget, primarily to support scholarship and faculty, students and teachers, our purpose for being.

That $2,500,000 goal was exceeded. For the fourth consecutive year annual giving has exceeded ambitious goals, with average annual increases of $275,000 over that four year period.

Certainly worth noting is one remarkable development statistic. Cash gifts in fiscal 1986-87 totaled $500,000, the largest amount reported in academy history, excluding one year during the Bicentennial Campaign. For this superlative achievement I want to once again express sincere gratitude for the unbending efforts of all our many development volunteers and the Office of Academy Resources staff who support them in their work.

When I met with my staff again this September, to review, reflect and look ahead to 1987-88, reasonable but stretching goals were set again. And with all of your help I am confident that these goals will be met, to be followed by another report of success.

Report from the Dean of Faculty

Andover's faculty accomplished much last year. In addition to classes, preparations, sports, form work and personal scholarship, the faculty examined some tough issues, launched new programs, and grew in exciting directions as we welcomed new colleagues in the current year.

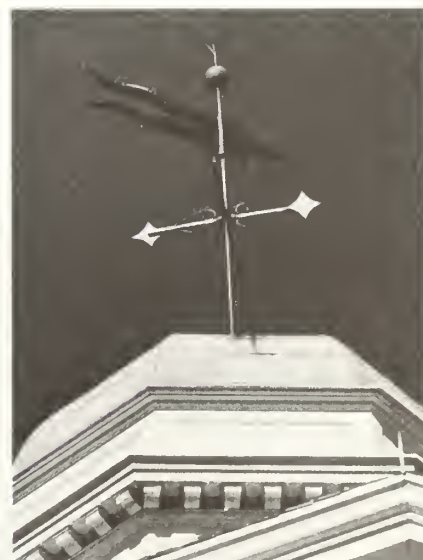

Key faculty issues included faculty salaries, sexual harassment, and workload. The faculty benefits committee, chaired by Meredith Price, made faculty salaries its prime concern during the fall. The committee's report to the Board of Trustees presented the case for an increase in faculty compensation. The Board voted additional monies above those requested under the budget, raising the salary range to $15,000-$47,000. The sexual harassment committee, headed by Phyllis Powell, recommended to the administration the creation of a three-person council to hear complaints about sexual harassment and to forward those legitimate ones to the dean of faculty for action. Mrs. Powell's committee has helped the administration establish clear guidelines in regard to sexual harassment complaints and to revise appropriate sections of the Faculty Handbook and The Blue Book. The faculty workload committee, chaired by Jim Bunnell, wrestled long and hard this year with the workload problem. It is considering both a point system to measure workload and the creation of various models to guide us in hiring and the assessment of individual faculty responsibilities.

Last year the Teaching Fellow program, under the guidance of Richard Enemark, was a huge success. Fourteen fellows served as housecounselors, teachers, and coaches. We are delighted to note that more than half of this fine group now teach in secondary schools or are pursuing graduate degrees this year.

Last summer two exciting and very successful institutes were held on campus during the month of July. The American Constitutional History Institute, conceived and directed by History Instructor Thomas Lyons, brought twenty-seven high school teachers from the Merrimack Valley to campus for lectures, teacher training, and professional interchange all focusing on the Constitution for its bicentennial. On Lyons' staff were noted historian Harry Scheiber of Stanford University and English Instructor Peter Gilbert. Professor Norman Benson of the University of Lowell served as consultant. The institute received primary funding from the National Endowment for Humanities, with additional grants from Braitmayer Foundation and The Polaroid Foundation.

Endorsed and supported by the Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, Harold Reynolds, the Andover-Breadloaf Writing Workshop was directed by English Department Chair Louis Bernieri. Eight high school instructors from Cambridge, Lowell, and Boston participated in the month-long program designed to enrich classroom teaching skills. Faculty conducting the institute included English Instructors Lou Bernieri and Cathy Royal, and Elizabeth McHenry and Brooks Williams, recent graduates of Andover.

Since my last report, seven endowed chairs have been named: French Instructor and Language Division Chair Hale Sturges (Frederick W. Beinecke Foundation); English Instructor and Director of the Work Program Carroll W. Bailey (Frederick W. Beinecke Foundation); History Instructor and Co-Director of the Community Service Program Mary Minard (Emilie Belden Cochran Foundation); Math Instructor Nathaniel Smith (George Peabody Foundation); and Math Department Chair Douglas Crabtree (Jonathan French Foundation).

As the faculty continues to set a national example in the areas of compensation, diversity of colleagues and personal scholarship in many fields, the uniqueness of this group's commitment lies in its dedication to young people. I am confident that 1987-88 will constitute another strong year of growth. □

Mr. Wise is an instructor of English on the William Newman Teaching Foundation.

Frank M. Eccles '43

The past year's most dramatic development in the academic area was the faculty's decision to raise our diploma requirement in science from 1 year to 2 years. The new requirement specifies that an Andover student must be exposed to both the physical and biological sciences and must take at least one year-long lab science course. The other year of science may consist of three term-contained courses, although most students will be encouraged to take a second year-long course.

This was the culmination of several years' interaction and much work between the science division and the curriculum committee. It was becoming increasingly clear from many sources — colleges, comparable schools, news media — that Andover's minimal requirement in science had become inadequate. When the curriculum committee's recommendation finally came to a faculty vote last fall, the 2-year science requirement passed unanimously.

After spending several months discussing the proposal and weighing the effects of further changing the balance between requirements and electives, the curriculum committee concluded in May that the time was ripe for an ad-hoc committee to conduct an in-depth examination of the entire Andover curriculum. Over the summer the headmaster appointed such a committee. Its charge has been broadened to encompass the academic program as a whole, including: the role of interdisciplinary studies, and the special goals of the seniors. The committee will consider also the development of good study habits; the quality of homework preparation; provision for the secondary curriculum (education concerning human sexuality, drugs and alcohol, community service, etc.); and values and character formation in the academic realm.

This spring the Russian exchange presented us with two stimulating challenges: to improve a worthwhile four-week academic program for our eight Soviet visitors, and to deal appropriately with our own students who returned from Siberia in the middle of the spring term. For the Soviet students we provided special courses in conversational English and in computer programming, and integrated them into our regular courses in visual studies, mathematics, and physics. The returning PA students rejoined their Russian language courses, took one other regular course, and met daily with Victor Svec (who had accompanied them to Russia) for a two-hour seminar in Russian studies aimed at building on their experiences in Novosibirsk. An important joint product of this seminar course is a 70-page booklet of student essays on various aspects of their experience in Russia. Printed and bound, these have already attracted considerable interest and high praise.

At the end of my first year as dean of studies I must express my appreciation for the strong support of Registrar Herb Morton, who has been aptly cited as "an educator of deans." He was invaluable to me in learning my new job and most helpful to Steve Carter who so successfully managed his first year as scheduling officer.

Report from the Dean of Residence

In the spring of 1987 eight of our students journeyed to study in a math and science high school in Siberia. Shortly after, eight students from the Soviet Union completed the exchange, living in P.A. dorms, studying in our classrooms, and participating in afternoon tennis and softball. The exchange, on the frontier of the Soviet-American academic relationship, is on one hand a radical departure from history, but on the other a logical avenue for a school that so actively seeks diversity in composition and experience. Originally planned for the fall of 1986, then presumed to be postponed until the fall of 1987, the exchange suddenly emerged as a reality for spring, forcing us to create spaces in dorms for the visiting students. And what an experience it was for the American roommates and dormmates to share space, to help the visitors adjust, and to stay up late at night discussing culture, politics, and the issues that course through teenage minds around the world. For us all the experience presented a change.

Indeed, it is in the process of change that we rediscover who we are, and a series of changes on the campus have provided an opportunity to define ourselves more clearly. A dormitory for some may be no more than a place to study and sleep, but a far more ambitious vision has the dormitory present an opportunity for students to develop a working community with a curriculum never approached in the classroom. This past year the renovations of Eaton and Andover Cottages uprooted the residents of the latter in April and moved them into the new rooms of the former — a process that would strain any community, but also one that provided a special opportunity for sharing and cooperation. The experience will be offered again in 1987-88 with the renovation of Day Hall; at mid-year eighteen girls and a house.

counselor will move from the south side to the completed north, and the renovations will continue.

Perhaps the greatest challenge for the residential community arrived with the current library project, one that when completed will double the working space of the library. During the construction we will have to suffer some dislocation, but, again, with the discomfort comes the opportunity for self-realization. We are an academic community with the written word and all its traditional and modern manifestations at our core; the inconvenience and displacement of the library renovation are small events in the larger perspective of the school's development. For a year research may be a little more complicated, but our students will participate centrally in the process of change and emerge with a clear sense of academic purpose.

One change that has been received well has been the renovation and reopening of the Ryley Room as a student snack bar. A student-faculty committee worked to design the service and sitting spaces, and we hired a manager with years of experience in food service. Our aim has been to keep prices low enough to make the services available to all, and early indications are that the volume of business is high enough to break even.

A year ago I wrote in these pages about the creation of a junior girl's dorm, Nathan Hale, in an effort to parallel what we have been able to provide for boys for many years in Rockwell. This year we will add Abbey House and Hall House as junior dorms for girls and boys, bringing our youngest students into a special residential experience. Here, too, through change we learn who we are — a school with students as young as twelve, as old as twenty, with a wide range of needs, some rather general, others quite specialized.

Jonathan Stableford '63

Whether through a second Soviet exchange in the fall, the continuing renewal of aging dormitories, or the realization of fresh ideas yet to take form, we will continue to change and mature as an institution. To an observer of these changes, the school's purposes and objectives come into sharp focus; and for a participant they can become an operational philosophy. □

Report from the Dean of Admission

Jeannie F. Dissette

The four hundred and thirty new students who will enter Phillips Academy in September represent the fourth consecutive group of students whose admission decisions were made without reference to their family's financial circumstances. The entire Andover student body has now been admitted on a need-blind basis, an accomplishment in which the Phillips Academy community takes great pride.

The admission office read the folders of all applicants on a gender-blind basis again this year. On March 10, we admitted two percent fewer of the girls who applied than we did of the boys who applied. Because we both assumed and realized a higher yield among admitted girls than among admitted boys, our current male: female ratio is 56:44. The gender ratio for the school in 1987-88 is now 53:47.

Our black and Hispanic admission data is some of our best news to share. We project a student population in September 1987 which is eleven percent black and Hispanic. Forty-three new black and Hispanic students have matriculated, bringing the total to a record high 134.

Twelve percent of the matriculants are the sons and daughters of alumni of Phillips Academy and alumnae of Abbot Academy; 36% of the new matriculants are alumni-related candidates (including brothers, sisters, etc.). Although the number of those applicants dropped this year, the quality rose and enabled us to admit an extraordinarily high percentage: 79% of the sons and daughters and 55% of the alumni-related candidates.

The geographic diversity of the applicants was traditionally dramatic as we received preliminary applications from forty-eight states and fifty-three countries. To point, forty-one states and twenty-five countries will be represented in the entering classes in September.

Our new application has proven to serve us in the ways we had hoped it would, revealing the applicants' personal, as well as academic, credentials. The greater involvement of the faculty in the admission process, both in selecting and in recruiting the students, has been enormously beneficial. A new admission brochure is out, a faculty brochure will be ready soon and we are working on a video for use this fall at our Evening with Andover programs across the

The contributions of each individual member of the Hardy House team made these accomplishments possible. I sadly report the real retirement of Bob Hurlburt; Meredith Price will return to the English department and Jean McKee has turned her full attention to the summer session as director of admission. We are deeply grateful to them all for their experience and wisdom. Betsy Eaton, Abbot '62 and a PA parent, joined us both as an admission officer and as our alumni admission representative coordinator. Greg Simon '83 joined us as an admission officer, as has Scott Looney.

I look forward to 1987-88 and to working with my friends and colleagues on Andover hill. With their help, as well as with the continued support and assistance of our alumni, alumnae and parents across the nation and world, the entering classes in 1988 should be as impressive as the group I was proud to introduce to the academy this September.

Mrs. Dissette is the dean of admission on the Joshua Lewis Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admission.

Report from the Director of Athletics

When Andover's new cinder running track was dedicated in 1917, it must have been a marvel. Certainly, our athletes responded to the fine facility. Over the years, the track teams of Ray Shepard, Steve Borota, and Jack Richards turned in consistently strong seasons and a number of New England championships.

Seventy years later, however, the track was the oldest part of Andover's athletic plant, and sorely in need of replacement. Each spring it was harder and harder to prepare for the season, and each spring at least one meet was cancelled because of wet conditions that made running and field events unsafe. The situation became increasingly frustrating for coaches and athletes as they saw new, all-weather tracks installed at our sister schools.

Now the frustration is all but over: we are building a new track! When complete, it will be a facility of excellence. The new track has eight lanes, enabling Andover to host New England Interscholastic Championships, as well as quadrangular meets. It will be configured in a "broken-back curve," a design pioneered in West Germany that flattens out the curve and allows runners to maintain speed around the entire circuit. The broken-back curve is fatter and shorter than the conventional oval. In addition to the configuration, we expect this track to be very fast because of the surface. Both the running track and the field event areas will be covered with a mat of polyurethane-bonded rubber granules that combine resilience and smoothness. It is a safe and pleasurable surface to run on. The track will be permeable; that is, water will drain right through it. Thus we will be able to hold meets in conditions that previously would have meant cancellation. The color of the surface: blue, of course!

Situated at the base of the hill sloping from the football field, the new track will provide good spectating. In its infield will be the boys' varsity soccer field, reincarnated near its present location after a year of construction.

Another major plant improvement is a new roof cover for the Sumner Smith hockey rink. After 35 years the roof had been leaking badly, discoloring the ice with unsightly brown stains and even raising an occasional stalagmite. Now we are watertight. We have new goals and new fiberglass boards, as well.

Our field hockey team, which has lost just one game in the last two years, will soon have a new field. We are bringing irrigation to a newly-leveled, filled, and top-dressed field which is located just southeast of Brothers Field; this will be a first-class facility appropriate to the energy, enthusiasm, and success of our girls' field hockey and lacrosse teams, coached by Kathy Henderson.

Kathy also presides over our revamped weight room. The William P. Ellison '23 weight training area has been enlarged, carpeted, and divided into rooms for machines and free weights. The machine room, featuring nine weight-training machines from Nautilus, Adonis, and Eagle, is open and well used by both men and women from dawn till night, while the dedicated body builders hold forth with the barbells under strict supervision.

In this past year's competitions, Andover defeated Exeter 41-36-2. Undefeated teams were girls' cross country, volleyball, and both boys' and girls' lacrosse.

With the addition of the new track, the quality of Andover's athletic facilities are the envy of other schools; more importantly, we will have improved our ability to create opportunities for every student to mature physically, intellectually and emotionally. □

Report from the Chief Financial Officer

Neil H. Cullen

1986-87 proved an eventful year for the academy's financial and administrative offices and for the new chief financial officer. As chief financial officer I oversee the endowment through our portfolio managers, budgeting, long-range planning, business services, personnel, food services, physical plant, campus safety, legal affairs, town relations and real estate development. The portfolio is large, and needless to say, I have no difficulty finding challenging tasks.

Among many developments in 1986-87 was the selection of three new equity managers for the endowment. These include Miller, Anderson & Sherrerd, a growth manager with a broadly diversified approach; Lazard Freres, a relative value manager noted for superior stock selection and Grantham, Mayo and Otterloo, a manager offering a broadly diversified product designed to outperform the S & P 500 by 2-3% each year. Our new and old managers performed reasonably well on behalf of the academy, and I am pleased to report that the market value of the endowment on June 30, 1987 was $162.2 million compared to $143.6 million on June 30, 1986, representing a growth of $18.6 million.

The pooled endowment funds ($152 million) achieved a total return of 19.2% compared to an 18% total return for a composite of the S & P 500 and Shearson Lehman Bond indices.

A major campus discussion last year for trustees, faculty and students revolved around possible divestment from the Phillips Academy endowment holdings of American companies doing business in South Africa. In May the faculty voted to ask the trustees to divest all such companies within one year unless apartheid laws are abolished. The president of the board appointed a committee of trustees, faculty and students to review policy options available to the trustees and to report its recommendations to the board in October, 1987.

Lo-Yi Chan became the academy's campus planner on a consulting basis in 1986-87. Mr. Chan, a principal of the New York architectural firm Prentice and Chan, Ohlhausen, brings a wealth of architectural and planning expertise to the role as well as a special sensitivity to our unique campus. With his assistance we will complete an inventory of campus facilities and write a comprehensive campus plan to guide future development. In addition to consulting on the major renovations of the library and George Washington Hall, Lo-Yi has helped us focus on new directions for the future of the Abbot campus. Following the lack of a interest by potential developers in an executive conference center, the trustees have begun consideration of partially renovating Draper and McKeen Halls for internal use and maintaining other buildings in their current functions.

The Office of Physical Plant had another active year. With trustee approval of a $3 million capital budget in January 1986 to undertake many necessary renovation projects over the next five years, the academy moved forward on several in 1986-87 including renovation in Williams Hall, Chapin House Barn and Eaton Cottage. In addition, we began a complete renovation of Andover Cottage for September, 1987 occupancy and replaced the roofs on four buildings: Evans Hall, the art center, the hockey rink and Nathan Hale dormitory.

Adequate fire and liability insurance proved a scarce commodity in 1986-87, and Phillips Academy joined with five other secondary schools and some 25 colleges and universities to found School, College and University Underwriters Limited (SCUUL) for the purpose of writing umbrella liability and directors' and officers' insurance. The company now offers the most comprehensive policies available to educational and non-profit organizations at competitive prices, and we look forward to obtaining the two aforementioned coverage at reasonable costs and to helping manage a captive insurance company.

In brief, 1986-87 proved challenging and productive for those of us in the financial and administrative offices of Phillips Academy; my thanks to all those who made this first year so successful.

by Donald H. Bade, Comptroller

We are pleased to report financial results for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1987.

Operating Results

Fiscal year 1986-87 concluded with a surplus of $23,000 on total operating expenses of $22,577,000, which were 8.3% over the prior year.

The most significant increase in expenditures was in Financial Aid which increased by 23% to $3,116,000 (grants only) and is more fully explained later. Administration and Benefits costs increased 13% to $6,177,000. Property and liability insurance costs rose some $100,000, reflecting the tighter insurance markets. In addition, the cost of employee benefits increased, reflecting primarily the staff additions in the physical plant area. We have been upgrading our physical facilities with part of that cost included in our operating budget, and the balance being funded by a transfer of $3,000,000 from endowment to the Plant Fund as authorized by the Board of Trustees in January, 1986.

Resource utilization paralleled that of 1986 with endowment income representing a slightly greater portion of the total. Annual Giving continues to provide slightly more than 10% of our operating budget.

Tuition and Financial Aid

As already indicated, Financial Aid increased significantly over the prior year. The Board of Trustees' goal to continue to provide the opportunity for qualified youth to study at Andover, regardless of their families' economic background, is being successfully met with increased aid dollars. Total Financial Aid (both grants and loans) of $3,605,000 represents a 7% increase over the prior year. The average amount of aid granted also reflects a higher proportion of the current tuition, as shown on the accompanying graph. Grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of need, but it is important to note that because of the strength of the endowment, the average "subsidy" to all Andover students is $5,700, against the average annual cost per student of $15,700.

The tuition remains modest in comparison with other residential schools, which is another of the Board of Trustees' major long-range goals, commensurate with providing a quality educational program. The boarding rate of $10,500 in 1986-87 was an increase of 8.2% over the prior year, and the rate of $11,200 in 1987-88 is 6.7% greater.

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $162,217,000 at June 30, 1987 compared with $143,587,000 one year ago. The increase in the endowment's market value was due to the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 4,368,000
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	14,445,000
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	(183,000)
Total increase in market value	$18,630,000

The Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees monitors the performance of the investment managers, against the Investment Objectives and Policies of the Academy. In this fiscal year 1986-87 the general pooled investments (of $152 million) realized a total return of 19.2%, which compares favorably with an 18.0% total gain for a composite of the S & P 500 and Shearson Lehman Bond indices.

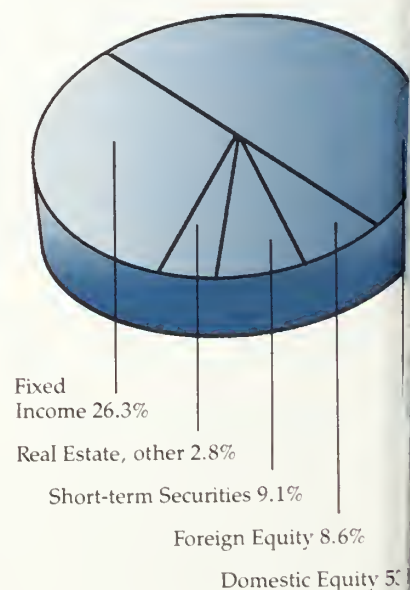

In the interest of diversifying investment opportunities, three new managers were appointed this year: Miller, Anderson & Sherrerd of Philadelphia, Lazard Freres Asset Management of New York City, and GMO Core Trust of Boston. They join Forstmann-Leff Inc. and Campbell Advisors of New York City as equity managers, while Rosenberg Capital Management of San Francisco continues as our fixed income manager. In addition, we have committed funds (approximately $3.3 million) to several venture capital firms as attractive alternative investments.

1986-87 Annual Giving Tops Two and a Half Million Dollars

Alumni and Parents Raise $2,505,602 from 9155 Donors
Provide 10% of Academy's Budget

Annual giving at Andover continues to climb, this year at a rate of 12%, to record-breaking totals of over two and a half million dollars, an increase of $200,000 over last year. This growth allows annual giving to continue its important task of providing the academy with 10% of its operating budget.

Andover Alumni Fund

Co-Chairmen Miriam Ganem Reeder '57 and Donald L. Shapiro '53 report yet another successful alumni fund year, exceeding two million dollars for the first time. $1,181,758 raised from 7996 donors reflects an increase of 10% over last year. Alumni participation rose to 44% as a team of 700 head and co-agents personally and enthusiastically solicited classmates. Factors in the alumni fund's growth include the refinement and use of new co-agent rosters working toward a long range goal of 50% alumni participation. Several classes have already attained that goal and this year 350 additional donors were added to the donor lists.

Non Sibi leadership options interested over 650 alumni whose dollars provided over 50% of the fund. Many leadership gifts were the result of reunion gift efforts. Thirteen reunion classes contributed $912,142 and drew record attendance at the June celebration. Spectacular twenty-fifth and fiftieth reunion gifts were generated this year, setting the pace for all reunion giving. The class of 1962, under the able leadership of Al

Blum and Beth Crane, presented a gift of $173,758, surpassed only by the fiftieth reunion presentation of $237,985 by Head Agents Jack Ware and Fran Dowd, with special advance gift assistance from Carl Jacobs and Bill Quinby. Six reunion classes set new records; all worked hard to challenge their predecessors and leave an enviable record for upcoming classes to surpass.

Abbot giving kept pace with 12% more dollars than last year ($134,076) and another increase in number of donors (1133), despite no new prospects generated in the fourteen years since the merger.

A growing approach to our constituency is through phonathons which have grown in number of locations, callers, and pledges each year. "Up-front" fall phonathons, as the alumni fund kicked off, were held in Boston, New York, Andover, and New Haven, netting $57,702 in early pledges. Spring phonathons held in 9 cities (with Los Angeles as a new location this year) brought out 143 alumni and parent callers and resulted in $89,253, matched in enthusiasm by the 150 students who commandeered the alumni office for six nights in May and raised $40,225. Andover heartily thanks these extraordinary telephone volunteers.

The Andover Canadian Fund remained in place as a vehicle through which Canadian citizens may donate to Andover from within Canada and benefit from tax savings. Canadian alumni and parents may augment an endowed scholarship fund to assist Canadian students at Andover; at the same time donors receive credit for an annual gift.

Andover is fortunate to benefit from another year of the combined leadership of Don Shapiro and Mimi Reeder as they strategize for 1987-88's Andover Alumni Fund.

Andover Parent Fund

Under the superb leadership of Rod and Verena Cushman (parents of Stefan '87 and Christoph '91) a team of 200 parent volunteers raised a final tally of $323,844 in cash gifts for the school. Over the three years of the Cushmans' chairmanship parent giving has risen 50% and donor numbers have followed. Personalized and individual approaches to each family have been the mark of the Cushmans' chairmanship. They have worked with a large group of volunteers nationwide, all committed to providing the best in education for their children. At present, 54% of current parents are supporting Andover above and beyond tuition. The special gift effort has augmented this effort resulting in 116 Non Sibi parent gifts.

The past parent effort was ably chaired again this year by Kevin and Helen Collins (parents of Kevin '85). That effort was strengthened as parents of former students numbered 535 and added $84,034 to the Andover Parent Fund. The newest segment of the parent effort is the grandparent committee led by Camille Grieco (Nicole '86 and Sarah '90) and Roger Murray '28 (Jennifer '89). For the third year the chairmen and faculty welcomed over 200 grandparents to campus in May for a special day of class visits, sports contests, extracurricular activities and the wonderful opportunity to spend time with their grandchildren. Several Andover grandparents also supported the academy with a grandparent fund gift, totaling $18,800.

1986-87 has been an exceptional year for volunteer support in all areas. The results of annual giving bear witness to the strong and loyal corps of alumni and parents who responded with service and support for the school's financial needs. A strong upward trend in annual giving has continued this year and with it unlimited educational opportunities for today's young men and women at Andover.

Alumni Fund Stretches to Raise $2,300,000

Triggered by another successful alumni fund drive and striving to remain among the most successful secondary school fund raisers in the country, the 1987-88 alumni fund goal has been set at $2,300,000 from 8500 donors.

We consider this goal to be challenging yet realistic in a year when tax changes could be a consideration. This is also a year in which Andover has invited all alumni to join in supporting the completion of the dramatic library renovations.

However, it is only with the kind of unrestricted support the Andover Alumni Fund provides that we as alumni can assure that the school they remember can maintain the standards of excellence and can assure a dedication to "youth from every quarter." Our alumni contribution becomes a resounding vote of confidence in educational leadership for which Andover has become renowned and from which we all benefit.

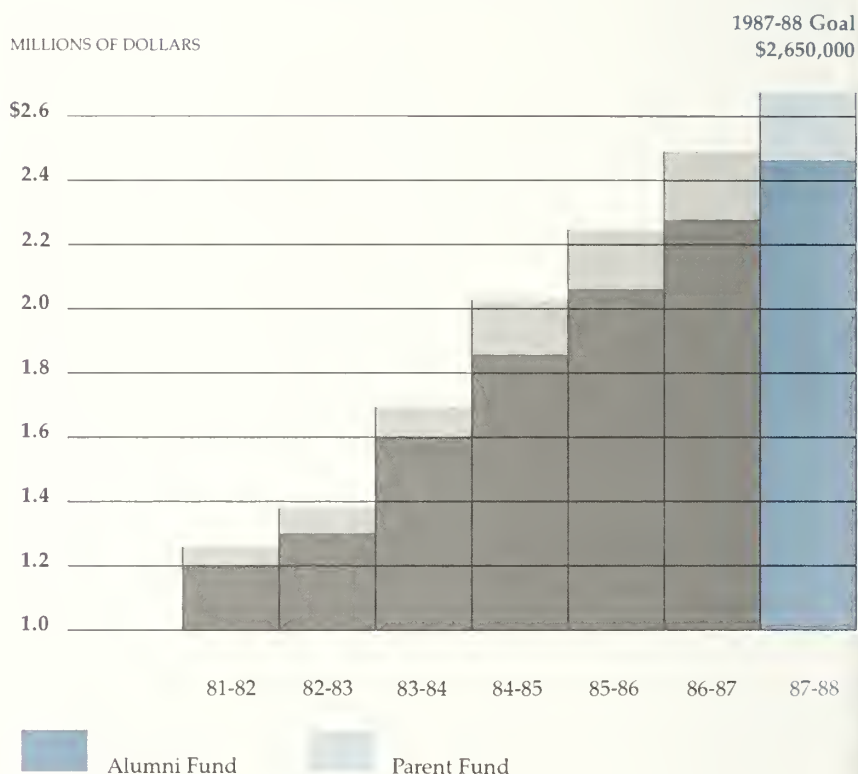

Please respond openly and generously when your class agent approaches you. Our goals can be met if all alumni continue to support Andover's on-going excellence as a national resource.

ANDOVER ANNUAL GIVING

Dear Parents,

We enthusiastically accept our challenge as co-chairmen of the parent fund committees and look forward to working with fellow parents to meet our 1987-88 goal.

Thanks to parent generosity and the excellent leadership of our predecessors, the Andover Parent Fund has seen three record-breaking years. In fact, contributions increased by 50% during this time. These unrestricted dollars helped make up the difference between tuition payments and the actual cost of educating an Andover student. Parents made an important contribution toward improved

The 1987-88 parent fund goal is ambitious: $350,000.

Please join with our committed volunteers to sustain educational excellence at Phillips Academy. Together we can meet our goal and make a solid contribution to our children's education.

Matching Gift Dollars to Annual Fund Rise By 11.3%

A total of 201 corporations and corporate foundations matched 545 gifts and contributed $167,979 to the annual fund in 1986-87. In spite of a slight decrease in the number of participating corporations and gifts matched (by 4% and 3.5% respectively), the total number of annual fund dollars matched rose by 11.3% over 1985-86. The average matched gift to the annual fund also increased, from $267 in 1985-86 to $308 in 1986-87.

In addition to the annual fund, corporations and corporate foundations matched gifts for other purposes, including endowed scholarships and special programs. When these gifts are added, 582 matching gifts received from 206 corporations and corporate foundations during 1986-87 total $206,174. This represents an increase of 5% in total dollars matched over 1985-86.

Andover continues to encourage alumni, alumnae, parents, and friends to participate in the matching gift programs of corporations and corporate foundations where they are employed or are otherwise related. The academy is deeply grateful to the following for their substantial support through matching gift programs. Andover's top ten corporations, in terms of number of gifts matched, appear highlighted.

During 1986-87 Phillips Academy received generous corporation and foundation grants in support of several major projects. Five foundations contributed to the renovation of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library—a great boost to the academy's primary current building effort. The 1987 Teachers' Institute on United States Constitutional History, held on campus this past summer, was funded by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and two foundations. The (MS)² Program, which aims at enhancing math and science skills of inner city minority students, is now in its 11th year and continues to be supported both by national foundations and by corporations from the participants' home cities. The Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers' Institute, a related program designed to strengthen mathematics teaching at the (MS)² students' schools, was fully funded for three years (1987-89) by a single foundation grant.

Another major grant will launch a special new parent loan program this year, to be augmented through a challenge gift over the five-year period (1989-1993). Corporations and foundations also contributed to continuing support for endowed scholarships, the Addison Gallery, the community service program, the Lawrence-Phillips Academy Urban Studies Institute, and the Donald H. McLean, Jr. Fund. These 34 new grants from 31 private and corporate foundations total $1,203,578. They underscore private philanthropy's encouragement of Andover's sustained excellence as well as the academy's special programs to extend its educational mission.

Andover Development Board

After two full years of effort, the Andover Development Board has compiled an impressive record of achievement. During 1986-87 non-annual fund gifts and pledges totaled $10.5 million. Since January 1985, led by R.L. Ireland III '38, more than $20,000,000 in non-annual fund gifts and pledges has been raised. Gifts from Andover Development Board members themselves account for more than $10,000,000 of that total.

One of the foremost Andover Development Board projects, the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program, has attained the $7,000,000 mark. That effort under the leadership of Barbara C. Timken '66 and David M. Underwood '54 has successfully attracted support from a generous group of major donors.

In order to complete the remaining $3,000,000 in library fund-raising by May 1, 1988, the primary focus for the coming year will again be the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library project.

Yet, because the Andover Development Board tries to address a variety of the Academy's needs and raise the appropriate funds simultaneously for all those needs, other projects have been funded in the past two years and will be targeted for 1987-88. Five new teaching positions already have been endowed: including a visiting scholar fund and the Joshua Lewis Miner III Foundation for the Dean of Admission, each at $1,000,000; and two additional teaching foundations in memory of Frederick W. Beinecke '05 and the Abbot Stevens '07 Foundation for the Director of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library at $750,000. Donors have supported nineteen new scholarships, a new all-weather, outdoor track, and a variety of other campus programs and needs.

In the coming year teaching will receive additional emphasis from the efforts of the Andover Development Board. Frederick W.

Beinecke '62 will chair a committee to seek at least $3,000,000 in additional endowment for teaching.

As the library project nears completion, the George Washington Hall effort will command the stage. A video tape on the Performing Arts at Andover premiered at the 1987 Andover Development Board meeting, and that project will invite increased participation as the architectural plans evolve in the year ahead.

Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program

Fundraising for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library passed the $7,000,000 mark this year toward a total goal of $9,850,000. David M. Underwood '59 and Barbara C. Timken '66 led the Library Development Committee which raised more than $5,000,000 of that goal during the past year. A group of Abbot major donors, including the former President of the Abbot Board of Trustees, Philip K. Allen '29, has committed gifts to fund the entrance and circulation lobby in the name of Abbot Academy. During the spring of 1987 Abbot donors raised $1,050,000, including a grant from the Abbot Academy Association. The class of 1947, led by Anthony M. Schulte, Class Agent Stephen V.R. Goodhue, Margot Meyer Richter and Mary Lou Miller Hart in a special 40th reunion project pledged $243,230 to create and endow a beautiful Class of 1947 Room in the library. Gifts and pledges as of June 30, 1987 to the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program (see also Donald H. McLean, Jr. Fund) include:

Special Funds and Projects

Abbot Academy Association Contributors 1986-87

The Abbot Academy Association was established in 1973 as part of the merge agreement between the two academies. The intent in its formation was to maintain the history, standards, tradition, and name of Abbot by supporting educational ventures at the new combined school. Since the merger the association has been fulfilling its mission in visible ways with grants to diverse interests and ventures at the academy. This year for the first time since the founding of the association a mail solicitation was conducted to augment the growth of this special fund. Listed below are this year's contributors.

Other Special Gifts

A variety of other gifts has come to Phillips Academy between July 1, 1986 and June 30, 1987 to support endowment for teaching, for scholarships or for other purposes, or to maintain or create other current Andover projects. All of these gifts help Phillips Academy to serve better its diverse student body today and to sustain and enhance its programs for the future.

Director of Planned Giving

Throughout Phillips Academy's history, alumni, alumnae, parents and friends have committed their time, energy and resources to their school. They are helping to insure that the students of today and tomorrow can share the same excellence in education that they themselves experienced ten, twenty, or fifty years ago. By including Andover in their estate plans, these supporters are building a strong endowment which funds Andover's programs, faculty, scholarship, and general purpose costs.

This sustaining commitment is aided and promoted by the director of planned giving. Alumni, alumnae, parents and friends can receive assistance from the director in making a planned gift and assurance that they will receive the maximum tax benefits for their gift. Planned gifts come in a variety of forms—bequests, gifts which provide an income to the donor for life, and gifts which provide Andover with an income and then return to the donor or designated heirs. Additionally, gifts can be made with a variety of assets—appreciated securities, real estate, life insurance, tangible personal property and closely held stock.

The committee on planned giving, chaired by Charter Trustee Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, provides direction and guidance to the director of planned giving. With the assistance of his committee members listed on this page, Chairman Trowbridge reported $3,829,517 raised in new planned expectancies during the 1986-87 year.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

To recognize and honor those alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans, the Office of Academy Resources has established the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society. After only one year in existence, over 150 supporters of Andover have indicated that they would like to be members of the society.

These people have become eligible to be members of the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society by including Andover in their will, creating a charitable trust which provides a life income to themselves or a named beneficiary, joining one of the two Andover pooled income funds, making Andover the owner and beneficiary of a life insurance policy, or by designating a gift annuity.

We want to recognize these people here and officially thank them for the thoughtful support they continue to offer to Andover. Below are listed the names of the members for 1986-87.

Total Cash Gifts from Alumni and Alumnae

Gifts to the alumni fund provide essential unrestricted income for the operating expenses of Andover every year. Since many alumni and alumnae choose to support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the alumni fund, we would like to acknowledge this major support with a listing of all cash gifts received by Andover during 1986-87, by class:

Teaching Foundations and Instructorships

One of the ways in which Phillips Academy recognizes excellence among the faculty is through the naming of individual faculty members to teaching foundations and instructorships, established by generous gifts from alumnae, alumni, parents and friends interested in supporting great teaching. In 1986-87, the following faculty were so honored:

Report from the Headmaster

In preparation for the final decade of this century, the Phillips Academy community has been engaged in an exciting planning period.

Throughout the 1987-88 academic year, a committee of Trustees and elected faculty representatives met to consider long-range plans for Phillips Academy. They reflected upon our past, examined our present condition, and clarified priorities and goals for the 1990's in order to assure that we continued our success in meeting the 1988 "Statement of Purpose", written by the faculty, while fulfilling the mission of the school as stated in the Constitution of 1778. The Trustees met in July 1988 to affirm those goals and to establish strategies by which we would seek to fully attain the qualities which characterize the academy: academic excellence, a residential high school, a multicultural community of diverse students, and an education for values as well as knowledge.

Academic excellence results from a faculty of women and men who are excited about their subject matter and care deeply about young people. Teaching styles in the Andover classroom today vary from informal discussion to demanding recitations, but common to all is teachers challenging talented young people to fully develop their abilities and to work hard at the study of all disciplines in the liberal arts, while supporting and encouraging each student during moments of difficulty.

Phillips Academy continues to be largely a residential community, offering a 24-hour education which goes well beyond the academic classroom. Dormitory life, athletics, student activities, and informal education programs all signify that this is a high school which is different from local public or day schools.

Many of the institutions of our society which have guided adolescents as they grow up have changed in recent years. The role of the church in the lives of young people has altered, the sense of living in a community with relatives and friends has diminished, and the nature of the American family has evolved so that young people are less supported in their personal and spiritual development. The role of a residential high school has become ever more important, as well as more difficult, in the 1980's. The "Statement of Purpose" demands a striving to continually improve the quality of our residential program.

The need is great to emphasize house counseling as an element of teaching in which the faculty member serves both as the person responsible for enforcing the rules of the academy and also as a counselor to young people in their personal development. Likewise the need for education in the dormitory and clusters of the academy on such topics as drugs and alcohol, human sexuality, nutrition and eating disorders, and AIDS have taken on increasing importance.

Athletics remains a key part of the residential program at the academy. Through a variety of sports and numerous teams young people are provided many opportunities to compete with other schools on behalf of Andover. We consider the development of personal skills in athletics and participation in team experiences as an important part of the residential program. We also offer a variety of activities such as dance and cluster competition in softball, basketball, and soccer, as well as personal challenge in climbing and camping in the Search and Rescue Program.

A third quality distinguishing Andover from most other schools is the breadth of diversity within the student body and the commitment to a multicultural community in which such differences are respected. Our 1,200 students come to Andover from 40 states, and 28 foreign countries. Eleven percent of them are black and Hispanic. International student exchange programs further heighten our awareness of our place in the global community of students. Our need-blind admission policy, wherein young people are chosen solely on the basis of their personal talents, is unique. We seek to forge a community which shares common cultural heritages, but also respects cultural differences.

Andover remains committed to education for values as well as knowledge. The Constitution of Phillips Academy states this commitment as "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble, yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous; and that both united form the noblest character and lay the surest foundation of usefulness to mankind." When the faculty wrote the "Statement of Purpose," they chose to include a portion of this quotation in order to assure that our commitment to goodness as well as knowledge remains prominent.

We seek to teach values in many ways: teachers as role models, class discussions of morals in literature and history, community service projects which take young people out of Andover to work as tutors in the Boys Club of Lawrence, cluster discussions on the way we live together at Andover. All of these activities emphasize that one must choose between right and wrong and that a personal life based on integrity is to be sought.

During 1987-88 several construction projects were either completed or advanced from the concept to design stage. The generous Non Sibi spirit of the Phillips Academy family is essential to the success of these projects.

The Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, built in 1931 by Thomas Cochran, trustee and benefactor, and Charles Platt, campus planner and architect, has been fully renovated and expanded to accommodate the school of today. The number of seats for student study and research was doubled, as was the potential book capacity. The artifacts and rare books received new climate controlled spaces, and the management of the entire collection is being computerized.

In April when the Andover Development Board and Trustees met on campus, we were able to announce that the Library Committee of the Andover Development Board, chaired by Barbara Timken '66 and David Underwood '54, had surpassed their fund raising goal of $9.8 million for the construction and endowing of the library with the news that gifts and pledges at that time exceeded $10 million.

When Cochran and Platt laid out the present campus in the 1920's and '30's, they created an environment for learning which we treasure today. Work during the past year with Lo-Yi Chan, the current campus planner, made us acutely aware of the quality and beauty of this place and also of the necessity for an active program of plant renewal. The Cochran buildings are now 50 years old and require renovation. There is also the constant need for improving dormitories and faculty homes on campus.

Designs for the revitalization of George Washington Hall as the central student center, administrative offices, and theater home have been reviewed throughout the year. The plans are nearing completion and the potential of raising funds to support the renovation and expansion of George Washington Hall is being evaluated by the Trustees.

Last spring, plans for the Abbot Academy campus were finalized. They call for continuing use of dormitories and faculty homes for Phillips Academy students and faculty. The three major buildings on the circle will be renovated in an historical preservation. Draper Hall will be renovated into apartments which will be rented to former faculty, alumni, and residents of Andover.

In June, we welcomed back to campus 1,455 graduates of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy to celebrate reunions and to enjoy the school today. The ongoing involvement and generosity of graduates of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy is wonderfully gratifying.

Alumni and parents may take pride in knowing that their gifts to the Annual Fund again provided 10% of the academy's operating budget and assures that we can continue our traditions of great teaching and need-blind admission.

The Andover Development Board is succeeding in working with the Trustees to raise funds for endowing teaching positions and scholarships as well as for capital projects such as the library. The engagement of all members of the Andover family in support of the educational mission of the school is critical to the success of Andover.

Britta and I, and our daughters, Heather and Galen, are preparing to go on leave from Phillips Academy during the winter and spring terms of this, my eighth year as headmaster. Peter McKee, who joined the faculty in 1947, and has been associate headmaster of the school since 1973, will be head of the school during our absence.

The McNemars will travel overseas to visit our Andover exchange programs, in Europe and China, spending two months at the boarding high school in Novosibirsk in the Soviet Union. I look forward to this opportunity for personal growth and development and to the opportunity to strengthen our ties with those high schools and programs with which we exchange students. Our hope is that when we return to Andover in September, 1989 we will be able to share with students and colleagues a heightened global perspective.

Dr. McNemar is an instructor in history and the social sciences and headmaster on the Foundation in Honor of John P. Stevens, Jr.

Report from the Associate Headmaster

The workload of teachers at Phillips Academy has always been on the minds of faculty members and is often the subject of conversation when two or more gather together. When I was teaching, coaching, house counseling, and serving on a few committees, I felt I was overworked while there were others who appeared to have less to do. Certainly, there is inequity in workload. There is a tendency to overload younger faculty members who are supervising dormitories and willing and able to coach interscholastic teams.

In the spring of 1986, a Faculty Workload Committee was formed to examine this issue and to report its recommendations to the faculty. The committee met weekly throughout the 1986-87 academic year, continued to meet last fall, and finally brought their recommendations to the faculty this past winter. Needless to say, the faculty greeted the report enthusiastically and accepted it unanimously and with thanks to the committee.

In order to give a fair picture of the job that faced the committee, I will quote from the introduction to their report.

"In charging the committee, the headmaster stated that the purpose of this effort was to assure fairness in the sharing of the many roles of the community, and to recognize the need for flexibility in defining jobs. The first might enhance our sense of community with a common mission. The second might encourage greater harmony between the needs of both the institution and the individual. We on the committee were also guided by our own belief that we needed to reduce the overall workload facing the faculty, and to make expectations for workload clear to all."

The committee personnel were Jim Bunnell of the History Department, Paula Drewniany and Dick Lux of the Mathematics Department, Ada Fan and Craig Thorn of the English Department, and Joe Wennik and Henry Wilmer from the Language Division. I was an ex officio member, but the work was done by the other seven members. The results of their deliberations articulated guidelines to be followed by Department Chairs and Deans in establishing workloads. It specifically described models for faculty responsibility and it recommended to the administration ways of implementing and monitoring the proposed guidelines.

The report of the committee is very complete and was much needed. The members of the committee deserve high praise for all the time and effort they put into the report and for the excellent work they did. The further challenge will be to make it work.

As associate headmaster I have been appointed the monitor of these guidelines and I will attempt to adjust loads as fairly as possible, and be a final arbiter when the need arises.

There may still be problems. Many of our faculty are compulsive workers who, for example, do not want to say "no" to a student who needs their supervisory help on a special project. Nor will they say "no" to the athletic director when he discovers he needs help in soccer. Somehow their special energies must be reasonably channeled so that their professional life does not totally dominate their existence. The report of the Workload Committee should go a long way in accomplishing that mission.

Mr. McKee is an instructor in physics on the Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation.

Joseph C. Mesics '53

As I draft my final report as Secretary of the Academy I find myself cloaked with both sadness and joy — sadness in that this will be my last occasion of communication with most of you; a deep sense of joy knowing that the academy has experienced another satisfying year in constituent relations and development, the advancement of its resources.

The Office of Academy Resources staff met with me in September 1987 and set stretching goals for the year ahead. Little did we know at that time how the stock market would so misbehave for several days in late October. But the goals were set and undaunted we forged ahead, successfully overcoming the Wall Street rumble.

The Trustees and the Andover Development Board, despite all messages of doom for major gift commitments, managed to complete the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program in late April, a full eight months ahead of schedule. The installation of the new all-weather outdoor track and field facility culminated in its dedication in April, in honor of Stephen S. Sorota. Additional endowments for new teaching foundations and scholarships were gratefully received. The Andover Development Board again exceeded its annual goal of $8,000,000, bringing its three year total to $29,000,000.

The Planned Giving sector experienced enormous success this year, exceeding an ambitious goal by 31%. Thirty-four new planned gifts were arranged which are expected to total nearly $4,600,000 when they mature. The academy now enjoys the enviable position of having $25,000,000 in future expected gifts from generous donors who have made plans to help ensure Andover's future strength.

In spite of struggling to gain continuing support for several outstanding programs, the Foundation and Corporate Support area also succeeded with its goal set last fall. The academy is fortunate to have in its camp those who consider trustee priorities in line with their interests.

Our alumni and parents continue to well receive academy visits throughout the country and remain connected abroad as well as at home. A fine array of opportunities was again available for campus visits, topped by continuing success with our year end reunions. This June 1, 455 people attended the reunion weekend, an increase of 539 from five years ago.

This Annual Report and three editions of the Andover Bulletin are the pride of the publications team. Awards and recognition abound not only for these magazines, but also for other attractive campus-wide publication projects. Last spring the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) in a national competition which included colleges and independent schools, awarded the academy three medals for video productions and one for the spring 1988 cover of the alumni Bulletin. Should you wish to see these videos, just give us a call.

The Alumni and Parent Fund annual campaigns successfully closed on June 30, with each component exceeding its goal and setting a new combined Annual Giving record of $2,671,000.

Connie LeMaitre '53, our Phillips Academy Director of Annual Giving, has set new records during each of the five years since she joined the office in 1983. Together with the office support staff and many hundreds of alumni and parent volunteers, she has established a record of success which is the envy of all schools against which Phillips Academy measures its results - and she has finally topped Exeter!

I am mighty proud of the Office of Academy Resources staff and the way they have supported all of your volunteer efforts in the successes mentioned, particularly this year when the chips were down and our colleague schools were missing the mark all around us.

And finally, upon my departure from Phillips Academy as Secretary of the Academy, I want to take this opportunity to sincerely and humbly thank the Board of Trustees, the many hundreds of volunteers and the Office of Academy Resources staff for making possible the success the academy has enjoyed in the advancement of its resources during the past six years. □

There are twelve full-time and two part-time new faculty members in the Mathematics, English, Physics, Biology, Chinese, Chemistry, and French departments. Walter Sherrill, a 1986 Golden Apple recipient (Foundation for Excellence in Teaching), joined the faculty this summer as the new Director of the (MS)² Program. Research scientist Dr. Florence Farber, a visiting professor at Harvard University Medical School, is our first appointment under the new Visiting Scholar Fund, endowed by an anonymous donor. Dr. Farber teaches biology and has also been provided a lab to continue her AIDS research project.

The Teaching Fellow Program, under the guidance of Frances Taylor, was a fine success last year. Fifteen Fellows served as house counselors, teachers, and coaches. About half of that group intends to teach or pursue graduate degrees next year. Special honors were bestowed upon four Teaching Fellows: Rob Long in English (Joseph R. W. Dodge Award), Erin McKenna in Religion/Philosophy (Olivia Award), Charles Richardson in Physical Education (M. Lawrence Shields Award), and Matthew Glendinning in Classics (Elizabeth Rogers Award). Each year the Teaching Fellows bring to us immense energy and commitment. As one older colleague observed, "They are marvelous in the ways they speak and relate to the student body." We continue to regard this program as one of considerable importance to the academy as well as to American secondary school education.

Over the past few years, we have made significant strides in creating a multicultural community. This year thirty people of color are teaching at Andover. They join Minority Counselor Cathy Royal and the rest of the faculty in bolstering Andover's long-standing commitment to diversity.

At the urging of the Faculty Benefits Committee, the academy instituted a flexible spending program, allowing faculty to pay prospective medical and insurance bills with pretax dollars. This year the committee plans to address the retirement issue. Last spring, retirees Bill Brown, Al Coulthard, and Josh Miner described their retirements from the faculty and recommended ways the retirement program might be strengthened.

An equally challenging task has been undertaken by the Ad Hoc Evaluation Procedures Committee, chaired by Kathy Dalton. Their task is to clarify the evaluation process by establishing guidelines for Cluster Deans, Department Chairs, the Athletic Director, and Dean of Faculty. The committee agrees that the evaluation process is key to maintaining a top-flight faculty and hopes to enhance the developmental thrust of the process.

New department chairs this year include Nat Smith (Mathematics); Henry Wilmer (French); George Dix (Spanish); and Robert Perrin (Physics). New division heads are Leslie Ballard (Science) and Hale Sturges (Language). Mr. Sturges was re-appointed for a term of three years.

Other noteworthy appointments were the Sherrill Award to Nancy Boutilier (given to a young teacher of outstanding promise) and Phyllis Powell, English instructor and director of the summer session, was named to the new Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation.

Over 800 students attended the Summer Session, including 15 involved in the Spanish Study Tour group. Each year more than half of the summer session faculty who serve as master teachers, house counselors, and teaching assistants come from universities and secondary schools throughout the nation. Some of this year's most popular courses were "Oceanography — Marine Biology Under Sail", "Law and Morality", and "Intensive Studio Art".

This year is a vital one for the faculty. There is much of interest to debate and decide, especially with the committee reports on Curriculum, Long-range Planning, and Evaluation Procedures.

Report from the Dean of Studies

Frank M. Eccles '43

Phillips Academy students have long lived under a daily schedule with late afternoon classes following sports. During the spring term last year, we changed the schedule as a result of much discussion within the community. These discussions examined the balance of personal reflection and friendship with academic and social pressure, the role of the institution in creating high expectations, and the personal standards established by students and teachers. After much thoughtful consideration, the Committee of Department Chairs presented a proposal for instituting a new daily schedule on a trial basis. The proposal was strongly supported by the Student Council and voted into effect by the faculty. The new daily schedule incorporates three major changes:

- a half-hour conference period is opened up in mid-morning following the first two class periods
- classes end by 2:10 p.m. and the athletic program runs from 2:40 to 4:40 in the afternoon
- class periods are cut from 50 to 45 minutes.

The impetus to change the daily schedule was the growing perception that we need a block of time, protected for both students and faculty, when teachers and students can get together for individual conferences or small group help sessions. Once that need was identified the door was open for a major schedule change.

The conference period provides academic benefits that the department heads believe will more than offset the five minute shortening of classes. Ending the class day before athletics aims to reduce fragmentation in the lives of both students and faculty.

This shift away from holding a late afternoon academic class has met with a favorable response from students and faculty alike, and will be continued through this academic year before being evaluated.

Starting in September 1987, the Ad Hoc Committee on the Academic Program, chaired by David Cobb of the English Department, convened over 40 times throughout the school year. We held meetings with the faculty, the trustees, the Alumni Council, and interested students (and polled by questionnaire the classes of 1978 and 1985) in an effort to identify existing weaknesses and to sound out opinion on how the academic program might be strengthened. Our topics, besides distribution and diploma requirements, included interdisciplinary courses, the complementary curriculum, moral education, more structured study conditions for younger students, and how to make the senior year a culminating academic experience. After graduation in June, the committee was in session for three full days to pull together a first draft report as the subject for two days of discussion with the entire faculty at the opening of the 1988-1989 school year.

The Ad Hoc Committee is spending this fall term modifying the first draft in response to faculty reactions. If all goes according to plan, the faculty will receive the committee's final report at the end of this term so that they can deliberate and act on the recommendations in winter term.

It is clear that certain themes are already evolving; a desire to emphasize a progression of work from the ninth grade to the twelfth grade year, an emphasis on increased structure in the early years and greater independence in the senior year, a definition of a common core of courses which will provide all students with basic knowledge in the field, and a weaving together of study about the richness of the many cultural and historical traditions contributing to America today.

Our second five-week student and faculty exchange with the Soviet Novosibirsk Physics-Mathematics School took place at the beginning of the fall term rather than in the spring. Instructor in Russian Georges Krivobok and his wife accompanied ten Andover students to Novosibirsk, Siberia. At the same time a group of ten Soviet students with their Headmaster and a physics teacher attended Phillips Academy. The Soviet adults visited numerous classes, and it seemed that our very different teaching methods made a significant impact on them, particularly the classroom interaction between Andover students and their teachers. For our own students a three-week tour of the Soviet Union after their stay in Siberia was a real addition to the program.

We feel the exchange is an extraordinary educational opportunity for the participating students and for our school. The Soviets seem to agree — evidenced by the third Andover-Novosibirsk exchange going on this fall. □

Report from the Dean of Residence

In my two past reports I have outlined changes in the residential program, some physical such as the renovation of dorms where the electrical wiring dates back to the beginning of the century, others more abstract such as the re-creation of all-Junior dormitories. Attention to bricks and wiring is perpetual, and we believe we have designed a comprehensive program to address the academy's needs.

The new energy in the residential program centers in our understanding of ourselves as a diverse community. Late last year the faculty, in preparation for our ten-year evaluation, forged and adopted a statement of purpose that goes beyond the important and predictable goal of academic excellence, to addressing what it means to be a truly diverse school. Our challenge is to encourage and celebrate pluralism in all aspects of our community.

Of course, squarely facing the issue of diversity is not a new idea at Andover. Each department has been addressing its readings and pedagogy, some more aggressively than others since the issues are not always apparent. The continuing recruitment of a diverse faculty and the hiring of Cathy Royal as Minority Counselor have been important steps. The wonderful irony is that the more we accomplish, the more we realize what needs to be done; a diverse community cannot help discovering racism, sexism, classism, and the like in its midst.

In the dead of winter a remarkable series of events unfolded, beginning with a self-appointed group of students designing a "Senior trip" for spring vacation and sending out invitations only to a select group. The trip appeared elitist in its destination, a Caribbean Island, and racist in its membership; and the reaction in the community produced some healthy self-analysis. A meeting of the Senior class was called by the school and cluster presidents, and a discussion followed that reached far beyond the Senior trip into testimony on sexism, classism, homophobia, xenophobia as well as our sometime unsubtle emphasis on physical appearance. No problems were forever solved in this meeting, but many of them were revealed in a warm and supportive atmosphere.

Meanwhile, in a parallel vein the first of two faculty workshops in racism awareness worked hard to identify behaviors and structures, some so subtle that they have escaped notice by the white majority for years, that undermine pluralism in our school and society. A second workshop with a new faculty group trained in the spring, and these members, together with the first group and those to follow, should be better prepared to help our students learn about and work to eliminate racism and classism in our community.

Always rich in its international mix, the Andover student body has in recent years added exchange students from the Soviet Union, black South Africa, and the People's Republic of China. This past year the international students have been particularly active and visible in the community, culminating in the Memorial Day ceremony when a Polish student spoke about the day he awoke to the sound of tanks in the streets of his city, a Lebanese student described the agony of civil war, and a black South African urged the non-violent dismantling of apartheid.

Early last year, prompted by a letter from a Senior, the entire community of students and faculty stopped for an afternoon and took a close look at ourselves. From these discussions came ideas about the structure of our lives, and some, such as the new class schedule, have been put into practice. Behind most of the suggestions lies a hunger in the student body to be in closer contact with other members of the community, both adult and peer, and to learn from the sharing of experience and culture. The challenge has been issued for the residential program to allow, encourage, and - at times - engineer the free exchange of ideas and to help us all learn what it really means to be a multicultural community. —

Report from the Dean of Admission

Jeannie F. Dissette

Phillips Academy's two hundred and tenth entering class joined us on September 15th. Four hundred and thirty-seven strong, they came from forty states and twenty-eight countries. Admitted for the fifth consecutive year without reference to family financial circumstance, they are a diverse and impressive group of young people. Fifty-four percent are boys; forty-six percent are girls. They include fifty-seven black and Hispanic students and one hundred and forty-five relatives of Phillips/Abbot Academy students and graduates. Able and motivated as always, the entering students have earned the following extracurricular distinctions: three hundred fifteen for sports, one hundred sixteen for music, sixty-two in drama, thirty-nine in art, seventeen in dance, ninety for leadership, and fifty-two for community service. We can anticipate remarkable contributions to the school, both in the classroom and beyond.

The number of applicants to independent secondary schools has declined rapidly over the past five years; the number of students taking the Secondary School Aptitude Test has dropped by over thirty percent since 1983-84. Phillips

Academy has not experienced a precipitous drop in applicants and still receives six applicants for each opening, but we have certainly been affected by the national trend. The demographic decline which has caused this decrease in applicants will end in two years. At that point, the demographic curve will turn upwards. It is important to understand, however, that when larger numbers of young people resume, the socioeconomic and racial composition of the group will be altered. The black and, especially, Hispanic populations are increasing; the upper-middle to upper-class white population which largely supported the boarding school applicant pool will not increase. The implications for schools such as Phillips Academy are clear. We must continue to increase our racial diversity and we must turn to non-traditional sources of students. The traditional boarding school families will not be able to provide sufficient numbers of strong candidates for us. This is clearly demonstrated by the pool of alumni children available to Phillips Academy. In a fifteen year period, it has declined by over seventy percent (2,757 born between 1966-1970 to 641 born between 1976-1981). A comparison with other boarding schools has revealed similar patterns among their graduates. The traditional boarding school student is becoming an endangered species. We must prepare for the twenty-first century mindful of this demographic change.

The Hardy House staff looks forward to 1988-89 with great enthusiasm. Beth Moore (PA '80), who worked with us from 1984-86, has returned as an Assistant Dean of Admission, replacing Greg Simon '83 who has returned to graduate school. We plan another busy year, including nearly thirty weeks of travel across the country. We could not possibly accomplish this without the assistance and support of our alumni and parents. We also anticipate welcoming some two thousand families to campus, with the help of our faculty interviewers and our large and wonderful group of tour guides. Our travel across the country will be enhanced by our revised slide show and well-received video, "Finis Origine Pendet"; families visiting Andover Hill will be able to view a new video on the cluster program.

The winter will bring us to the selection phase of the admission year, when we will once again rely upon our alumni admission representatives across the world to help us by interviewing nearly five hundred applicants. Our faculty readers and Advisory Committee will help us to read folders and to select the two hundred and eleventh entering class. During late March and April, the whole campus community and, indeed, alumni/ae everywhere will help us to encourage the admitted students to join us on Andover Hill. The Andover admission process is clearly a family endeavor. We share in the work and in the joy — of a truly extraordinary student and graduate body. □

Interest in athletics was high this past year. It has been a long time since we have seen so many and so vocal fans at our contests, and our teams have rewarded them with outstanding efforts and some notable triumphs.

No one who was there will soon forget the crowd surging onto the football field at Exeter in November. And no wonder: Andover's team had pulled off a big upset, coming from behind with a minute to play to win 14-13. "PURE DESIRE!" said the headline in the Phillipian.

On a team with few post-graduate players, and small size (165 pounds from guard to guard), it was the experienced senior players who produced an inspirational victory. Matt Milkowski scored our touchdowns, Andy Brown stopped drive after Exeter drive from his linebacker position, and Nick Sims pressured Exeter's All-Scholastic quarterback all day.

Busloads of happy students returning home to Andover proclaimed this the event of the year — even if their headmaster would not give them the next day off!

Other teams have been successful, too, playing before big crowds on the basketball court, hockey rink, and lacrosse fields.

The Athletic Advisory Board wants to illuminate the football field, so that the school can gather to watch evening contests in football, soccer, field hockey, and lacrosse. As was the case before the turmoil of the late 1960's, sports are becoming a nexus for community enthusiasm and unity.

One other event should have mention here. Following identical 4 win 2 loss seasons, coach Pete Washburn's first and second boys' crews swept the Interscholastics at Worcester last spring. It was a masterful job of preparation and a great triumph for the crew program, whose coaches and athletes work so very hard.

Softball alumnae will be pleased to know that under Peter Drench that program has prospered. Last spring's team played at the level of some of the good high school programs, and swept the Association of Independent Schools Girls Athletics Tournament with ease. The field at Isham has been improved with a skinned infield, a permanent backstop, and a blue outfield fence.

On April 30, the new track was dedicated to Steve Sorota. Steve and Stephanie were there for the occasion, which included an alumni/ae track meet before the ceremony. The facility is first-rate, and a thing of beauty, especially to those partial to the color blue. The New England Interscholastic track meet was held at Andover this spring, organized by coaches John Strudwick, Jack Richards, and Randy Pepper.

Growing interest in alumni/ae contests has caused us to experiment with the format of these games. In both baseball and men's lacrosse we have had the alumni play the alumni on the morning of a home contest with Exeter. We plan to adopt this format with men's basketball a year from this coming March. The athletic department welcomes help from graduates with ideas about alumni, and especially alumnae, contests.

As you read this, we hope to have completed major improvements to the girls' field hockey and lacrosse fields, and to have finished landscaping the area around the new track. A return to campus should show you a functional and increasingly attractive athletic plant. If you return for a football game, Coach Leon Modeste's powerful 1988 team would like to show you a victory! □

Neil H. Cullen

Two dramatic events marked the 1987/88 fiscal year for the academy's administrative offices; the October stock market crash and the rezoning victory at the Andover Town Meeting in April.

The October decline in American stock values illustrated how closely the academy's financial health, as measured by the endowment, is linked with the world financial markets. The endowment lost approximately 15% in value from 9/30/87 to 10/30/87. The decline also reinforced the wisdom of our diversified approach to endowment investing, however. Where Andover's total portfolio of United States equities, foreign equities, bonds, cash equivalents, real estate and venture capital declined 15% in October, the U.S. equity market, as measured by the S&P 500 Index, fell 21.6% during the same interval. Clearly, our broader approach dampened the effect of the U.S. equity decline on the endowment. In addition, I am pleased to report that the endowment actually realized a small positive return of .2% for the fiscal year ending 6/30/88 compared to a 6.9% decline for the S&P 500. Over the past five years ending 6/30/88, the endowment achieved an average annual return of 14.9% compared to 14.5% for the S&P 500.

April saw the culmination of a fifteen year effort to find a satisfactory use for the historic buildings on Abbot Circle.

Thanks to the enthusiastic efforts of faculty, staff members, alumni, local parents, and neighbors, we obtained the necessary two-thirds majority vote at the Annual Town Meeting, permitting us to convert Draper Hall to an apartment complex of approximately 55 units. Made possible primarily by the federal tax credit available for historic preservation projects, the development will incorporate the Maple Walk and Abbot Circle as open spaces and include Abbot and McKeen Halls for use by Phillips Academy and other educational organizations. Ms. Elaine Finbury, Abbot '68, will serve as project developer and form an investment partnership to raise the necessary financing. The academy will not, therefore, have to use scarce endowment resources to support the effort.

As part of the long-range planning process, we had Cambridge Associates, Andover's financial consulting firm, design a financial planning model to enable us to examine the financial implications of various planning strategies. Lo-Yi Chan, the campus planner, wrote the final draft of the physical facilities master plan.

Our physical renewal efforts continued and expanded in 1987/88. Andover Cottage was ready for students in September, 1987 and the renovated Day Hall was ready for occupancy this September. In both instances, the structures have been brought up to current safety codes and provide improved living environments for students and faculty.

Other needed improvements included extensive interior painting and reroofing, renovation of bathrooms and kitchens in faculty homes, continued work on the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, construction of an all-weather track facility, and a complete renovation/restoration of the audio-visual classroom in Samuel Phillips Hall. The enhancement of the audio-visual classroom was made possible through the generosity of Sidney Unobskey '54 and his family in honor of Alfred E. Taubman. It serves as an example of the improved classroom facilities which are made possible through the generosity of donors.

Another noteworthy accomplishment was the installation of a new financial software system which eases our management of budget, accounting, personnel, and payroll data. Ms. Judy Haupin, Associate Comptroller, directed this project. Ms. Susan Stott, Director of Personnel & Business Services, provided oversight for the personnel component.

Finally, I regret to note the retirement of Mary Clukey, Income Statement Coordinator in the Treasurer's Office and a 25 year employee. Mary provided invaluable budget oversight and control over the years, and we shall miss her. □

Revenue and Expenses ($000)

Operating Results

The 1987-88 fiscal year concluded with a surplus of $6,000.00 above total operating expenses of $24,179,000.00 which were 7.1% over the prior year.

The largest percentage increase occurred in the Addison Gallery, reflecting a significant increase in acquisition and general administrative activities. The approximately 12% expense increase in instruction reflects the large increase in faculty salaries, the first step in a multi-year effort by the Administration and Trustees to widen Andover's leadership margin in the area of secondary school teacher compensation. The 12% increase in financial aid represents the Academy's continued commitment to need-blind admission.

Physical Plant spending appears to decline in 1988 since we have funded most capital projects from the $3,000,000.00 endowment transfer approved by the Board of Trustees in January, 1986. Capital project spending actually rose from approximately $1,000,000.00 in 1987 to $2,000,000.00 in 1988.

The 14% increase in administrative spending reflects the higher faculty salaries and some non-recurring expense items in 1987-88 such as the shift to a new custodian bank and the long-range planning effort.

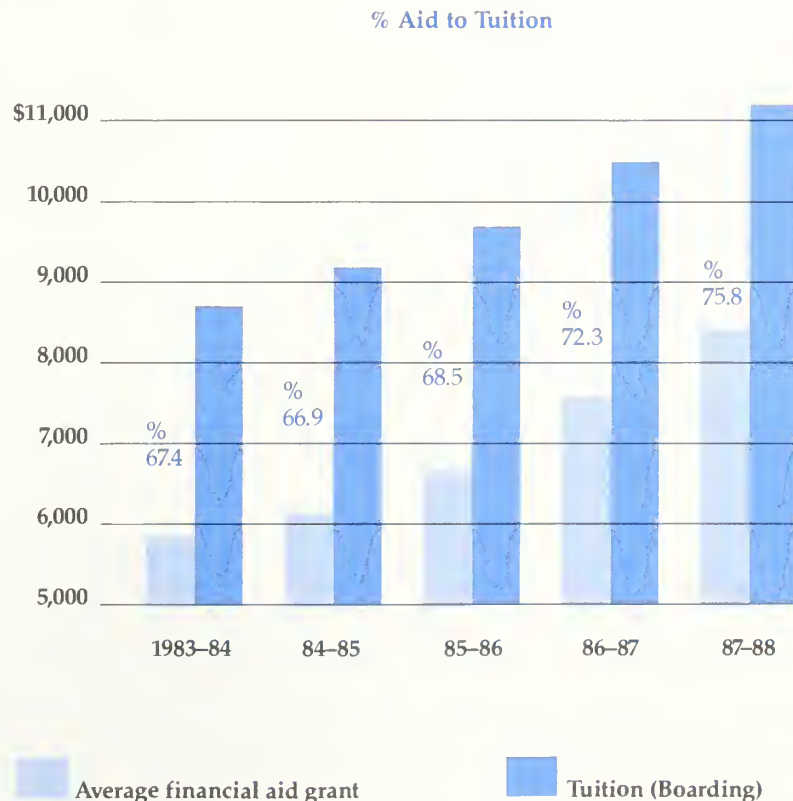

Resource utilization paralleled that of 1987 with endowment income representing a slightly higher portion of the total. Annual giving continued to cover more than 10% of our 1988 operating expenses.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Total financial aid (both grants and loans) of $3,931,038.00 represents a 9.1% increase over the prior year. The average amount of aid granted reflects a higher proportion of the current tuition, as shown on the ac-

Direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of need. Given the increasing cost of secondary education, however, it is also important to recognize Andover's financial support of each student above the tuition charged to parents. The average actual cost per student was $16,700.00 in 1988, while the average tuition for day and boarding students was $10,600.00, representing Academy support for each student of $6,100.00.

Tuition remains modest in comparison with other residential schools; the boarding rate of $11,200 in 1987-88 was an increase of 8.2% over the prior year, and the rate of $12,400 in 1988-89 is a 10.7% increase.

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $157,280,700 at June 30, 1988 compared with $162,217,342 one year ago. The modest decrease in the endowment's market value was due to the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$4,434,116
Transfer to income from fund appreciation	(900,000)
Depreciation, both realized, and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	(8,670,758)
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	(200,000)
Total decrease in market value	$(4,936,642)

The Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees monitors the performance of the investment managers, against the Investment Objectives and Policies of the Academy. In fiscal year 1987-88 the general pooled investments (of $146 million) realized a total return of plus .2%, which compares favorably with a -1.3% loss for a weighted composite of the S & P 500 (itself down -6.9%) and Shearson Lehman Bond indices.

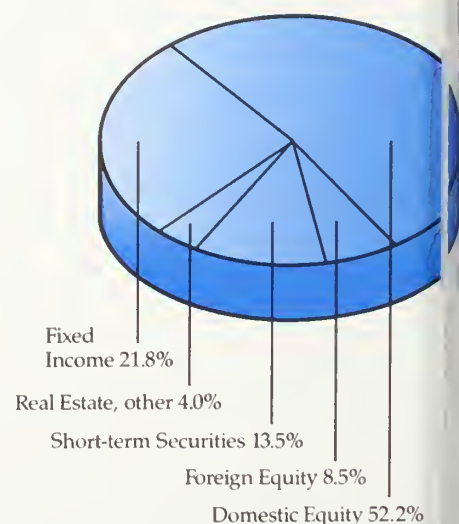

As a consequence of the performance monitoring, money which had been under the management of Forstmann-Leff, Inc., was reallocated to other existing managers. They are: Miller, Anderson & Sherrerd of Philadelphia, Lazard Freres Asset Management and Campbell Advisors of New York City, and GMO Core Trust of Boston as equity managers; Rosenberg Capital Management of San Francisco for fixed income; the Common Fund of Fairfield, Connecticut for international equities; and several venture capital firms and real estate funds.

The accompanying five-year graph of Andover's endowment spans the period in which the Academy has been functioning under the long-range plan adopted in 1983 by the Board of Trustees. In July 1988 the Board set a new plan to direct financial planning for another five years.

1987-88 Annual Giving is Number One!

Alumni and Parents Raise Over $2,650,000 — Leading Independent Schools Nationwide

Andover's Annual Fund completed another record-breaking year, tops in the nation at $2.67 million, with a 7% increase over last year. In keeping with the school's fiscal goals, the Annual Fund provided 10% of the Academy's operating budget for the third consecutive year.

Andover Alumni Fund

Co-chairmen Miriam Ganem Reeder '57 and Donald L. Shapiro '53 are able to report the completion of another highly successful Alumni Fund drive. Under their leadership, the 1987-88 Fund total of $2,305,168 reflects a 6% increase over last year's record figure and for the first time in recent memory surpassed Exeter's total by a substantial margin. Truly Andover is now number one in the country in unrestricted fund-raising by independent schools. A total of 8,230 donors sustained a participation rate of 45%, this is a tribute to the 700 class agents who enthusiastically solicited classmates on behalf of Andover. The success of the Alumni Fund must be credited to the tireless work of our agents!

In a year in which many non-profit institutions faced serious fund-raising difficulties due to external circumstances such as the October 19th stock market crash and new tax laws, Andover alumni stepped up to the challenge of an adverse giving climate and once again displayed the NON SIBI spirit which has made the Alumni Fund such a success over the years.

Contributing to this successful fund drive were the usual strong performances from Reunion Classes, particularly from the Class of 1938 and the Class of 1953. Under the inspirational guidance of Fred Kent and Connie Thurber Prudden, Reunion Gift Chairmen, and their energetic team of Phillips and Abbot volunteers, the Class of 1938 contributed a record $260,000 to the Alumni Fund, one portion of an astounding $725,000 50th reunion gift to the Academy. The Phillips Class of 1953, led by John Scranton, raised a new 35th reunion record of $100,236 in honor of their classmate, the outgoing Secretary of the Academy, Joe Mesics. Seven reunion classes set new records and all worked hard to both challenge their predecessors and to leave an enviable record for upcoming classes to surpass.

Also contributing to the Alumni Fund's success was the continuing growth of NON SIBI Associates, a group which includes leadership givers at levels over $1,000. Since its inception in 1981, NON SIBI Associates membership has grown at a substantial rate and was up again this year. As with last year, this group's dollar total provided over 55% of the fund.

Abbot continued to exhibit strong gains in its giving levels, raising $152,746 last year for a 14% dollar increase over the previous year. Also of note was the record number of 1,182 Abbot donors contributing to the fund, more than ever in the history of Abbot fund raising.

Another area of the Alumni Fund which enjoyed tremendous success this year was the phonathon program. Our nationwide phonathon effort set new records for both dollars pledged and callers. "Up-front" phonathons held in Andover, Boston, New York, and New Haven attracted new and repeat callers and raised approximately $185,000, almost matching last year's full-year total of $186,000. Spring phonathons held in eight cities proved successful as well, raising an additional $114,000. Finally, the student phonathons held at Andover, pitting cluster against cluster, raised a record $59,000 for the Annual Fund bringing the year's totals to $353,000 in pledges raised by 555 callers. Andover thanks these wonderful volunteers who join us in each city for a night of calling to support the academy.

The Andover Canadian Fund remains in place as a vehicle through which Canadian citizens may donate to Andover from within Canada and benefit from tax savings. Canadian alumni and parents may augment an endowed scholarship fund to assist Canadian students at Andover; at the same time donors receive credit for an annual gift.

Finally, before closing the book on our most successful Alumni Fund drive to date, we must take time to bid farewell and express our deepest appreciation to Mimi Ganem Reeder '57 for exceptional leadership over her six year term as Co-chairman of the Alumni Fund. During Mimi's tenure, the Alumni Fund showed an overall increase of well over 100% from $1.1 million to $2.3 million, due in no small part to Mimi's enthusiastic work in motivating not only class agents but OAR personnel as well. She will be missed. We know, however, that Mimi will be ably succeeded by our new Alumni Fund Co-chairman, Caroline Greene Donnelly '58. Carol has long been an active Andover volunteer, serving on the Alumni Council, as a Head Agent, and also as Chair of the Secretaries and Reunions Committee.

The Andover Parent Fund

Able led by Larry and Marcy Crutcher P '88, '91, National Parent Fund Chairmen, The Andover Parent Fund had a record-breaking year, with parents and grandparents of current and former students contributing a total $366,002 to the Annual Fund. Current parent participation grew from 53% to 63%, and past and grandparent donor numbers swelled as well.

This year 17% more parents and grandparents affirmed the value of an Andover education by their willingness to make a contribution. Almost 600 parents of alumni continued a tradition of giving even after their child's graduation, and grandparents raised a record $23,749 for Andover.

These vital Annual Giving dollars help support faculty salaries, help ensure a diverse student body at Andover, and provide the Academy with critical unrestricted funds which allow a flexible response to unmet needs.

The names of the Non Sibi Scholars and Associates lead the lists of Parent Fund donors on pages 53-58. These leadership donors deserve a special thanks for their generosity, which reflects an extra measure of dedication to Phillips Academy.

The Parent Fund goal could not have been met without the hard work of dedicated volunteers. Deserving special mention are Helen and Kevin Collins, Chairpersons of the Past Parent Fund for the past three years, and the Grandparent Chairmen, Camille Grieco and Agnes and Roger Murray, 2nd '28. These individuals, supported by the 165 parent volunteers highlighted on the Parent Donor list, made the year extremely successful for Andover.

We are deeply grateful for the outstanding commitment of parents and grandparents to Andover.

 New Reunion Gift Record
+ Improvement over last year

1988-89 Annual Giving Goal is $2,850,000

Alumni Fund Sets Sights on $2,450,000

Following another record-breaking Alumni Fund and in keeping with the Trustees' long-term fiscal goals, the 1988-89 Alumni Fund goal has been set at $2,450,000 from 8,750 donors.

While this is certainly an ambitious goal, we are confident that Andover alumni who have responded so generously in the past, will respond in kind this year.

With educational opportunities becoming more and more of a national issue, Andover's leadership role in assuring the best education to "youth from every quarter" will surely become an example for the rest of the country. To continue in the vanguard of secondary education, however, we must turn to our loyal constituency to provide the all-important unrestricted funds which have provided 10% of the operating budget in each of the past three years.

Please respond openly and generously when your class agent approaches you. Bear in mind, also, that in order for this year's contribution to have the same value as last year's, gifts must be increased in order to keep ahead of inflation!

Dear Parents and Grandparents:

Due to the outstanding success of the 1987-88 Parent Fund and the addition of a Senior Parent Fund Campaign to Honor the Faculty, the 1988-89 Parent Fund goal has been set at $400,000.

These unrestricted dollars are vital to Andover. Few parents realize that the actual cost to Andover per student far exceeds the comprehensive fees parents pay to the Academy. Parent and grandparent gifts help make up the difference, and afford the Academy vital planning flexibility.

We hope you will continue your generosity and help us achieve our ambitious 1988-89 goal!

Corporate Matching Gift Dollars Up 7%

— Despite 12% decrease in Matching Gift Component of Annual Fund

Increasingly donors are taking advantage of corporate matching gift opportunities to enhance their contributions to Andover. 207 corporations matched 617 gifts from Andover donors during 1987-88, an increase of 6% over last year. The dollar amount of matching gifts totalled $221,540 up 7% over the previous year.

Matching gifts come to the academy for a wide variety of purposes, the largest of which is unrestricted annual giving.

Surprisingly, although the number of matching gifts to the Annual Fund this year increased by 2%, annual giving experienced a 12% decline in both the total dollar amount of matching gifts and the average size of a matched gift (from $308 to $263).

The dollar amount of corporate matching gifts for other purposes — including endowed scholarships, special programs, and capital projects — increased 95% (totaling $74,611), reflecting a 59% increase in the number of these matching contributions.

The number of corporations that match contributions to independent schools is growing steadily. In the following list we gratefully acknowledge those companies that have assisted Phillips Academy during 1987-88 by expanding the generosity of Andover alumni, parents and friends. Andover's ten top matching gift donors, in terms of number of gifts matched, are highlighted in blue.

Corporate and Foundation Grants Support Library, Scholarships and Six Special Programs

In 1987-88, 38 new grants to Phillips Academy from corporations and private foundations totalled $648,263. These grants provide major assistance for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Program, increase scholarships and support Andover's public service programs. The library project has been the chief recipient of private foundation grants, with six grants totaling $360,500.

Andover has depended largely upon foundation and corporate grants to launch and sustain its outreach programs that extend the academy's resources to benefit public school students and teachers. Hence we are most grateful for sustaining support for the (MS)² program, (Math and Science) x (Minority Students), which received 15 new grants totaling $102,875, and for a grant of $36,500 to extend the work of the Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers Institute among inner-city, public school teachers of mathematics. The Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, which was pilot tested during the summers of 1987 and 1988, has received $98,275 in combined grants from two private foundations and one corporation to support program expansion over the next three years.

The Urban Studies Institute is an intensive, multidisciplinary course of study offered each spring to applicants from Phillips Academy and Lawrence High School (the LHS students become Andover boarders for the term). USI received $21,775 in grants from local foundations and corporate sponsors to support its core budget and to fund a special research project, "A Study of Housing Issues for Limited-Income Families in Greater Lawrence." Andover's extensive, voluntary community service programs involve over 300 students each year in activities such as tutoring, Big Brother/Big Sister work with underprivileged children, Special Olympics, assistance to the elderly and to special needs populations throughout the Merrimack Valley and Boston areas. The academy received a grant of $10,000 to help defray transportation expenses. Last year Andover also launched the "Community Service Network of New England," a coalition of youth service volunteer coordinators from public and private schools and agencies throughout the region.

In approaching foundations and corporations Andover has been guided by the Foundations Committee, chaired by Richard D. Lombard '49, and by the Corporate Support Committee, chaired by William W. Boeschstein '44. Andover is deeply grateful to the following foundations and corporations for their support of academy projects and programs during 1987-88.

Andover Development Board

The Andover Development Board has done it again! Led by R. L. Ireland III '38, the Development Board members and the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Committee gave the Andover Development Board its third straight victory. The library fund-raising surpassed its $9,850,000 goal to a total of $10,000,000, announced at the Development Board dinner Friday, April 29. During that day many individuals had pledged additional commitments to meet that tally. In all, the Andover Development Board raised $8.5 million in 1987-88 in non-annual fund gifts and pledges, surpassing for the third consecutive year its $8 million yearly goal.

The Oliver Wendell Holmes Library fund-raising effort, chaired by Barbara C. Timken '66 and David M. Underwood '54 not only went over goal but also completed its target in two years or 20% earlier than had been originally projected. However, because of trustee decisions to enhance the style and scope of the project, the Library Development Committee will plan to raise about $500,000 more for the library in 1988-89.

Endowment for Teaching has been the ongoing focus of considerable fund-raising attention during 1987-88. Trustee Frederick W. Beinecke '62 chaired an Endowment for Teaching Committee, and more than $2,400,000 was committed during the past year to endowed teaching funds. The staff produced a videotape — Andover: a Legacy of Great Teaching. Three new teaching foundations for senior teachers were established with gifts from Donna Brace Ogilvie '30, R. Allen Keyworth '28 and by bequest from Margaret and Maurice Newton, class of 1895.

Additional support of $1,300,000 was pledged during the year to begin the renovations of George Washington Hall which will create updated, safe and functional facilities for the theater program, for student services, for administrative offices and for the art department.

The Trustee Building Committee will present that project to the full Board of Trustees for their consideration during the coming year.

The Andover Development Board Executive Committee each year seeks new ways to invigorate its efforts and to interest new donors in supporting a variety of projects that will keep Phillips Academy in the forefront of American independent secondary education.

Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program

More than 1,000 donors have helped to fund the renovations and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. This new, beautiful facility was open for full student and faculty use last month and will be dedicated at the Andover Development Board meeting May 19, 1989. The new library addition, which is in architectural harmony with the original Cochran-Platt building, has doubled the book and seating capacity and will serve well the needs of the Andover community.

Several groups of donors have participated in raising the grand total of $10,176,317.77 for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program. The Abbot Academy Entrance and Lobby has been funded by a group of Abbot Academy alumnae and two Phillips Academy alumni, who are Trustees. A gallery in memory of Donald H. McLean, Jr. '28 is a gift from more than 300 of his friends and family. The Class of 1938 has funded the beautiful reading room located above the new campus entrance. Adjacent to that room, the Class of 1947 Room was supported and endowed by 55 class members. A China Seminar Room, located over the original main entrance, has been contributed by alumni and parents with links to China. Gifts from a constituency-wide mailing have funded a Phillips and an Abbot Conference Room with cases displaying memorabilia from both schools.

Work is also in progress to computerize the entire library collection. In addition, nine new endowments will now support the people and programs of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. Barbara C. Timken '66 and David M. Underwood '54 superbly led a committee of alumni and alumnae who completed the fundraising for the library ahead of schedule in just two years.

Other Special Gifts

The following donors have contributed to Phillips Academy between July 1, 1987 and June 30, 1988 for a variety of purposes other than the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Program or Annual Giving. A committee to raise funds for endowments for teaching was established with Frederick W. Beinecke '62 as chair. More than $2,400,000 was raised toward that goal, and 3 new teaching foundations were established. Donna Brace Ogilvie '30, a member of the committee, endowed her second teaching foundation. Another was established by bequest from the Estate of Margaret and Maurice Newton, class of 1895. R. Allen Keyworth '28 has created the third foundation. Other important major gifts include the new all-weather track and the renovation of the Green Room in Samuel Phillips Hall. The remaining gifts support the programs and people of Phillips Academy and help to sustain and enhance the Academy today and well into the future.

Planned Giving at Andover

1987/88 A Banner Year!

Charter Trustee Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, chair of the Planned Giving Committee, reported to the Board of Trustees that new gift expectancies totalled over $4,500,000 for the 1987-88 fiscal year. This means that over the next several generations, Andover will receive almost $5,000,000 from a variety of planning vehicles which donors have created this year with the assistance of their attorneys, family members, and the Director of Planned Giving. These numbers illustrate the comfort many alumnae, alumni, parents, and friends feel with the multiple benefits of wise philanthropy. Whether donors made lifetime gifts or gave by bequest, everyone came out ahead, particularly the students, faculty and the programs which received over $1,500,000 this past year from estates, trusts, and other plans created years ago.

During the past year many people took advantage of life income gifts and lending-an-asset gifts. The charitable gift annuity was attractive to many because of the high rate of return paid to them, the avoidance of capital gains tax, and the significant income tax deduction earned with this gift. This also removes assets from the donor's estate and reduces the estate's taxable value. Lending-an-asset gifts provide Andover with a steady flow of income for a set number of years. Then the asset passes to children or grandchildren with substantially less taxation of the asset than would occur if it had been passed to them through a will. Significant gifts can be funded with a variety of assets: cash, securities, real estate, life insurance, or closely held stock.

The members of the Planned Giving Committee and the network of Class Endowment Agents provide invaluable guidance and expertise to the Director of Planned Giving and to Sandy Trowbridge '47. With their assistance and support, the area of Planned Giving broke all previous records and substantially increased the funds available for Andover students tomorrow.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

Many alumnae, alumni, parents, and friends have included Phillips Academy in their wills or estate plans. Usually, they are donors who make plans for Andover in addition to donating regularly to the Alumni Fund, and to special projects and reunions which are important to them. In order to recognize and honor the long-term commitment and planning that these donors have made, the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society was founded and named in honor of the greatest planners in the two schools' histories.

Over the last three years, everyone who has made provisions for Andover either through a bequest, a life income gift, a life insurance policy, or by lending-an-asset to the school, has been invited to join the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society. The donors' names appear here in the Annual Report and the individuals are identified to the Trustees. If you have made plans for Andover and would like to be a member of the Society, please contact the Director of Planned Giving.

Total Cash Gifts from Alumni and Alumnae

Gifts to the alumni fund provide essential unrestricted income for the operating expenses of Andover every year. Since many alumni and alumnae choose to support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the alumni fund, we would like to acknowledge this major support with a listing of all cash gifts received by Andover during 1987-88, by class:

Andover has tried to recognize all those who have contributed so thoughtfully to the academy. We apologize if we have inadvertently omitted or misspelled any names. Please advise us of any error so that we may correct our records.

1988-89 Alumni Fund Aims for $2,450,000

Following yet another record-breaking fund drive and in keeping with Andover's long-term budgeting goals, the 1988-89 Alumni Fund goal is set at $2,450,000.
